EDUCATION

1993 - 1998 Ph.D., Clinical Psychology, Duke University
1990 - 1992 M.A., Experimental Psychology, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill
1982 - 1986 B.S., Business Administration & Chemistry, Ohio State University

EMPLOYMENT

8/00 – present Assistant Professor, Dept. of Psychology, Arizona State University.
9/98– 7/00 Postdoctoral Associate, Dept. of Psychology, The University of Vermont
9/98 – 7/00 Licensed Psychologist, The Breast Care Center at University Hospitals,
Burlington, VT.
8/97-8/98 Psychology Intern, Veterans Administration Medical Center, Memphis, TN
7/92-12/96 Research assistant/Clinical trainee, Duke University Medical Center,
Durham, NC

HONORS AND AWARDS

2001 Neal E. Miller New Investigator Award
 The Academy of Behavioral Medicine Research

EXTERNAL FUNDING

Active:

NIH/NIMH- R01	10-30% effort	7/1/2001-6/30/2006	$3,642,239
“6 Year Follow-up of a Prevention Program for Bereaved Families”
Principal Investigator: Irwin N. Sandler
As a co-investigator, I have primary responsibility for the assessment of physiological outcomes of the intervention, including blood pressure and cortisol stress reactivity.
NIH/NIMH-R03	20% effort	1/2004-12/31/2006	$149,500
“Caregiving, Cognition, and Physiological Stress Responses”
Principal Investigator: Linda J. Luecken, Ph.D.
This project evaluates the impact of highly conflictual early family environments on cognitive appraisals, coping skills, and physiological responses to later-life conflict.
NIH/NIMH – R03	5% effort	1/1/2005-12/31/2006	$442,661
“Interpersonal Perceptions and the Placebo/Nocebo Effect”

Principal Investigator: Carol Nemeroff, Ph.D.

As a co-investigator on this grant, my responsibilities include design, analysis, and interpretation of physiological measures, including immune and cortisol responses to placebo.

Maricopa County Dept of Public Health 8/1/2004 – 4/1/2006 $51,500

“Friendly ACCHS baseline survey: Prenatal care and neonatal health outcomes”

Principal Investigator: Linda Luecken, Ph.D.

This project administers post-partum hospital bedside interviews to low-income and Hispanic women. Data from this project will guide an intervention to improve prenatal care and neonatal health outcomes for high-risk populations.

NIH/NIA – R01 10% effort 10/2005-9/2010 $3,556,855

“Resilience and Health in Communities and Individuals”

Principal Investigator: Alex Zautra, Ph.D.

This project is a multigenerational study of the predisposing and contemporaneous predictors of resilient aging in local communities. As a co-investigator, I will oversee the selection of measures and collection of data on early family environment, and will assist in the implementation and analyses of physiological and physical health measures.

NIH/NIMH – R01 10% effort 7/1/2006-6/30/2011 $3,724,413

“Effects of NBP for Children of Divorce 13 Years Later”

Principal Investigator: Sharlene Wolchik, Ph.D.

As a co-investigator on this grant, I have primary responsibility for the assessment of long-term physiological outcomes of a preventive intervention for children of divorce, including cortisol reactivity to a stress task.

Pending:

NIH/NIA – R01 AG025526-01 5% effort planned 12/2005-12/2010 $1,995,180

“Neuroanatomical substrates of aging and cognitive decline”

Principal Investigator: Gene E. Alexander, Ph.D.

As a co-investigator, I am primarily responsible for the measurement and analysis of 24-hour ambulatory blood pressure monitoring in this sample of elderly community residents.

Past/Completed:

American Heart Association 20% effort 1/1/2001 – 12/31/2005 $260,000

“Developmental Experiences and Adult Cardiovascular Disease Risk Factors”

Principal Investigator: Linda J. Luecken, Ph.D.

This project evaluates the long-term effects of early family disruption on neurohormonal, cardiovascular, and behavioral risk factors for heart disease in young adults.

St. Luke’s Health Initiative 7/1/03-6/30/2004 $75,000

“Resilience through healthy aging: From Framingham to Phoenix”

Principal Investigator: Alex Zautra, Ph.D.

This project brought together a multidisciplinary group of researchers and laid the groundwork for a larger, longitudinal and multigenerational proposal to study the processes of resilient aging in Phoenix.

Lake Champlain Cancer Research Organization 12/1998-12/31/1999 $30,000
“Effects of Psychosocial Intervention on Cortisol and Immune Function in Breast Cancer”
Principal Investigator: Linda J. Luecken, Ph.D.
This project examined the effects of a psychosocial group intervention on immune function in women newly diagnosed with breast cancer.

INTERNAL FUNDING

Institute for Social Science Research Catalyst Grant Program 9/1/2005-8/31/2006 $19,600
“Resilience Mechanisms in Low Income Hispanic Mothers and Their Infants: Accounting for Health Disparities”
Principal Investigator: Kathryn Lemery, Ph.D.
Role: Co-Principal Investigator
This project conducts a 4- and 8-month follow-up of newborns initially evaluated in the Maricopa County neonatal health study.

Arizona State University Faculty Grant-in-Aid 1/1/2001-12/31/2002 $6,970
“Influence of voluntary and automatic cognitive processes on physiological stress responses”
Principal Investigator: Linda J. Luecken, Ph.D.
This project evaluated associations of attentional biases towards supraliminal and subliminal threat stimuli with physiological stress responses.
