Briefly describe the rationale for disestablishment:

New program established for Construction Engineering.

Impact on other existing programs: Could include availability of course content for students in other majors who may need it; other

No courses will be impacted with this change.

Impact on current students: Estimate number of students still enrolled; anticipated date of last graduates; arrangements for continuing students and students in articulated transfer pathways (ex. MAPP, TAG).

Estimated 80 students still in progress with last graduate in Spring 2015.

Students currently in the Civil Engineering (Construction Engineering) concentration have the option of completing the program or switching to the BSE Construction Engineering major within the School.
