Briefly describe the rationale for disestablishment:

The Polytechnic campus History and Culture program has been in place since 2006-2007. Established initially under the School of Applied Arts and Sciences, the program was transferred to the School of Letters and Sciences in Spring 2009. As part of a university-wide effort, the Provost's Office convened faculty work groups to align similar courses and programs offered by multiple colleges. Faculty representatives from the History programs at the Tempe, West and Polytechnic campuses met over several months to align their BA programs and Minors. This request to disestablish the BA in History and Culture is part of implementing the History Alignment Work Group's final recommendations. The School of Letters and Sciences will offer the aligned BA in History program beginning fall 2011 in place of the BA in History and Culture.

Impact on other existing programs: Could include availability of course content for students in other majors who may need it; other.
None

Impact on current students: Estimate number of students still enrolled; anticipated date of last graduates; arrangements for continuing students and students in articulated transfer pathways (ex. MAPP, TAG).

Students currently enrolled in the BA in History and Culture program will be able to complete the degree under the old name without delay or they may change their major to the BA in History. New students will pursue the BA in History. There will be no negative impact on current (or newly admitted) students, as history course offerings will continue without interruption.
