  - Academic unit Dean (will submit approved proposal to the curriculumplanning@asu.edu email account for further ASU internal governance reviews (as applicable, University Graduate Council, CAPC and Senate)

Additional Recommendations - All new graduate programs require specific processes and procedures to maintain a successful degree program. Below are items that Graduate Education strongly recommends that academic units establish after the program is approved for implementation.

- Set-up a Graduate Faculty Roster for new PhD Programs – This roster will include the faculty eligible to mentor, co-chair or chair dissertations. For more information, please go to http://graduate.asu.edu/graduate_faculty_initiative

- Establish Satisfactory Academic Progress Policies, Processes and Guidelines – Check within the proposing academic unit and/or college to see if there are existing academic progress policies and processes in place. If none have been established, please go to http://graduate.asu.edu/faculty_staff/policies and scroll down to the academic progress review and remediation processes (for faculty and staff) section to locate the reference tool and samples for establishing these procedures.

- Establish a Graduate Student Handbook for the New Degree Program – Students need to know the specific requirements and milestones they must meet throughout their degree program. A Graduate Student Handbook provided to students when they are admitted to the degree program and published on the website for the new degree gives students this information. Include in the handbook the unit/college satisfactory academic progress policies, current degree program requirements (outlined in the approved proposal) and provide a link to the Graduate Policies and Procedures website. Please go to http://graduate.asu.edu/faculty_staff/policies to access Graduate Policies and Procedures.

Check Box Directions – To place an “X” in the check box, place the cursor on the left-side of the box, right click to open the drop down menu, select Properties, under Default value, select Checked and then select Ok.

1. PURPOSE AND NATURE OF PROGRAM:

   A. Brief program description-

   Students in the Master of Sustainable Tourism receive a comprehensive education with a focus on the environmental, economic and social aspects of tourism, equipping them with the skills necessary to create pioneering sustainable development solutions to the challenges facing tourism today. This holistic curriculum focuses on integrating all three pillars of sustainability into existing tourism theories and concepts. The program prepares future sustainable tourism professionals to meet the increasing demand for people trained in sustainability practices and the application of those practices in tourism. The program will be available through ASUOnline.

   B. Will concentrations be established under this degree program? ☑ Yes ☒ No
      (Please provide additional concentration information in the operational appendix – number 5A.)

2. PROGRAM NEED - Explain why the university should offer this program (include data and discussion of the target audience and market).

   We currently offer a Master of Advanced Study (MAS) in Sustainable Tourism. The ASU Master of Sustainable Tourism (MST) degree will replace the existing MAS. The degrees are exactly the same program; the new degree and name are to more accurately reflect the professional nature of the program and be more appealing to students. Students do not seem to understand what a MAS degree is; the MST designation is a clear description that communicates the nature of the degree in a more succinct and overt way. An informal poll of MAS students was done before submitting the name change in the academic plan last year, and they generally prefer the MST designation. Upon approval of the MST, the MAS will be closed for applications and then disestablished when current students have completed their program. Current students will not be impacted. Because the programs are the same and students will not be differentiated, the degree in which the student is enrolled is not an issue and there will be no confusion among students or faculty. It is no different than having students from more than one degree program in a class which is very common is SCRD’s programs.

   The degree is a unique program that addresses the growing demand for tourism professionals who are trained in applying the three pillars of sustainability (i.e. society, environment and economics) to tourism development. Our students receive a comprehensive education with a focus on the environmental, economic and social aspects of tourism, equipping them with the skills necessary to create pioneering sustainable development solutions to the challenges facing tourism today. Despite a growing demand in graduate programs that focus on sustainability, tourism departments have been slow to offer graduate program options to students interested in understanding the relationships between tourism development and sustainability. Although Europe and the UK have offered graduate programs in sustainable tourism development for several years, the US currently has only a handful of graduate programs available that focus specifically on tourism development, with even fewer focusing on sustainability. Currently, only two universities in the US offer graduate degrees specifically in sustainable tourism: East Carolina University and University of North Texas. Neither of these programs have a holistic curriculum that focuses on integrating all three pillars of sustainability into existing tourism theories and concepts and neither have a curriculum developed entirely for their individual degree programs. As well, neither are top tier universities and neither are online.

Data on the demand for tourism professionals trained in sustainability is scarce, however, research does show that students are beginning to demand a greater focus on environmental issues as well as corporate social responsibility when looking for graduate programs. The proliferation of organizations such as Sustainable Travel International, National Geographic's Center for Sustainable Destinations, the International Ecotourism Society, and the Sustainable Tourism Stewardship Council among many others, points to the growing importance of this field. Many of the large hotel chains, airlines, attractions companies, and convention and visitor bureaus have instituted sustainability practices. Sustainable tourism is clearly becoming important and SCRD fills a gap in sustainable tourism education by providing an excellent and accessible professional master program. The Master of Sustainable Tourism is geared towards professionals seeking a flexible yet rigorous graduate degree program. For this reason, we offer the program entirely online. An online degree program allows students from all over the world, many of who would otherwise be discouraged from obtaining degrees due to financial or visa constraints, to have access to our School’s excellent faculty and to an education that will allow for personal growth and professional advancement. The program can be taken in 12 months or 24 months, either plan requiring the completion of a minimum of 31 credit hours, which includes an applied project.

Research demonstrates that the demand for online programs is growing steadily. The success of ASU's own online degree is a good indication of that. As well, the MAS in Sustainable Tourism has grown from 14 students to 50 students in four years. We believe the new degree type will be more attractive to students and boost our enrollment growth.

3. IMPACT ON OTHER PROGRAMS - Attach any letters of collaboration/support from impacted programs. (see Checklist coversheet)

N/A

In effect this program already exists under a different name. The unique nature of the online program with a directed focus on sustainability and tourism means it appeals to students in ways no other program offered at the University does. We primarily target tourism professionals globally who are interested in professional development to enhance their careers. Because the market is those who have an undergraduate degree in tourism or a related field and is only online, the program has no effect on other ASU programs.

An impact statement from the School of Sustainability is on file with Graduate Education.

4. PROJECTED ENROLLMENT - How many new students do you anticipate enrolling in this program each year for the next five years? Please note, The Arizona Board of Regents (ABOR) requires nine masters and six doctoral degrees be awarded every three years. Thus, the projected enrollment numbers must account for this ABOR requirement.

5. STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES AND ASSESSMENT:
A. List the knowledge, competencies, and skills students should have attained by graduation from the proposed degree program. (You can find examples of program Learning Outcomes at http://www.asu.edu/oue/assessment.html.)

See section 5B

B. Describe the plans and methods to assess whether students have achieved the knowledge, competencies and skills identified in the Learning Outcomes. (You can find examples of assessment methods at http://www.asu.edu/oue/assessment.html).

Students will demonstrate an understanding of the dominant theories and practices in tourism studies and sustainability. They will be able to assess levels of sustainability of tourism businesses and destinations through training in indicator and audit creation and implementation and be knowledgeable in ways to increase sustainability. Each course will have its own level of assessment through a combination of examinations and essays to demonstrate the student’s comprehension of material. As this is a graduate degree, students will not only need to understand but be able to apply what they have learned in real world settings. This skill will be tested and assessed in their best practices workshop course and through their final project. Each student will have a faculty member assigned to the approval, support, and assessment of final projects.

Specific assessment outcomes and measurements include:

Outcome 1: Students will demonstrate knowledge of the dominant concepts and practices in sustainable tourism.

- Measure 1.1: Students in TDM 520 Sustainable Thinking in Tourism will be required to take an exam that assesses knowledge of sustainability concepts.
  - Performance criterion 1.1: 80 percent of students or better will achieve a score of 80 percent or better on the exam as evaluated by the instructor.

- Measure 1.2: Students in CRD 569 Advance Tourism and Recreation Studies will be required to write a paper that assesses knowledge of tourism principles and concepts.
  - Performance criterion 1.2: 80 percent of students or better will achieve a score of 80 percent or better on the exam as evaluated by the instructor.

Outcome 2: Students will demonstrate application of the dominant theories and practices in sustainable tourism.

- Measure 2.1: Students in TDM 531 Sustainable Tourism Destination Planning and Management II will be required to present a sustainable tourism best practices case study to the class.
  - Performance criterion 2.1: 80 percent of students or better will achieve a score of 80 percent or better on the case study as evaluated by the instructor.

- Measure 2.2: Students in TDM 593 Applied Project will be required to apply sustainable tourism principles and practices to a tourism destination or business by completing an applied project.
  - Performance criterion 2.2: 80 percent of students or better will achieve a score of 80 percent or better on the applied project as evaluated by the instructor.

Attached please find a proposal for the Master of Sustainable Tourism. This was approved on the academic plan last year. Note that for all practical purposes this is a name change. The program will replace the MAS in Sustainable Tourism, but the programs are exactly the same. Because this is a different degree type we have to submit a full proposal rather just a name change. We are making this change to better convey the professional nature of the program. The proposal along with a support letter from the college and school, and an email from Phil Regier approving the name change, are attached.
