

New Graduate Concentration Proposal

This form should be used for academic units wishing to propose a new concentration for existing graduate degrees.

A concentration is a subspecialty within a degree and major. It indicates the fulfillment of a designated, specialized course of study, which qualifies the student with skills and training in one highly concentrated area of the major. Concentrations are formally-recognized educational designations (including the assignment of a university plan code for reporting/record-keeping purposes and appearance on the ASU transcript). Concentrations are distinguished from more informal academic distinctions such as “emphases,” “tracks,” “foci,” “options,” etc.

Submit the completed and signed (chairs, unit deans) proposal to the Office of Graduate Academic Programs, mail code 1003 and electronic copies to eric.wertheimer@asu.edu or amanda.morales-calderon@asu.edu.

1. Overview

A. Provide a brief description (not to exceed 150 words) of the new concentration (including the focus of the new concentration, relationship to other concentrations within this degree program, etc).

The Sports Law and Business concentration under the JD will provide real world experience to aspiring professionals and future lawyers, teaching how to approach and solve industry problems through the lens of sports by considering all regulatory, revenue, reputational, and relationship factors involved in a given scenario. It will give theoretical and practical knowledge and experience necessary for success at the nexus of sports and law. This is the first official concentration for the JD program.

2. Impact Assessment

- A. Explain the unit's need for the new concentration (e.g., market demand, research base, direction of the discipline, and interdisciplinary considerations). How will the new concentration complement the existing degree program, including enrollment, national ranking, etc.?

Sport is a multi-billion dollar global industry. The competition for jobs is more highly competitive than ever, and the demand for high quality, "client-ready" professionals is higher than it has ever been. This concentration merges disciplines across the law, business, and athletics administration by teaching universal skills for problem-solving in high pressure, high dollar scenarios with C-level executives and other powerful people. This concentration provides a unique learning laboratory in one of the fastest growing markets in sports, the Phoenix Valley, and it will help solidify Arizona State as the hub for sports academia worldwide.

The most notable programs currently in existence demonstrate a body of knowledge that is already very well established. Law schools such as Columbia, Tulane, Marquette, Villanova, and many others have or are launching sports law programs with permanent faculty, dedicated centers, sports law journals, and major conferences. Arizona State is positioning itself as the thought leader in this field, harnessing the incredible interest in sports and creating partnerships, events, programs, and revenue generating opportunities that will each serve to raise the quality of the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law. We already have eight JD-approved sports law courses, with four (and counting) sports business courses available to our students as electives. We have more than 50 Master of Sports Law and Business students already enrolled, with an additional 50 arriving in the fall, and in the first year of offering the Sports Law and Business as a focus area under the JD degree, we had 33 JD students declare this focus. As the only existing program in the country that combines law and business in the context of sports, we are uniquely positioned to corner this market, currently ranked higher than any other law school considering such an opportunity other than Columbia, which is considering an online certificate.

Our current Master in Sports Law and Business has attracted the attention of JD candidates from all corners of the US and Canada, and this concentration serves to provide them a home for their learning. We aim to bring in top quality JD students who may not otherwise attend Arizona State's College of Law, but for the opportunity to learn from our world class faculty associations and professors of practice in the sports industry. As it stands right now, we have over 30 first year law students expressing sincere interest in pursuing this concentration, and we expect many more in each subsequent class. By formalizing a concentration in Sports Law and Business, we are able to address the unique needs of these students with greater resources, faculty, and advising. The concentration for the JD degree will have no impact on the other two concentration proposals. The concentrations are offered to three distinct student populations. We already have the resources in place and available, should the interest in this program far exceed our growth forecasts. We chose to be modest in our predictions, because we thought it better to be conservative.

- B. Please identify other related ASU programs and describe how the new concentration will complement these existing ASU programs? (If applicable, statements of support from affected academic unit administrators should be included with this proposal submission.)

This concentration will complement the existing Master of Sports Law and Business, sharing its resources and adding greater legal perspective by adding JD students to the already multi-disciplinary program in place through a partnership with W. P. Carey, Sun Devil Athletics, and the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law.

- C. Is this an interdisciplinary concentration? If yes, please address the relationship of the proposed concentration to other existing degree programs and any parallel or similar concentrations in those degree programs. (Please include relevant Memoranda of Understanding regarding this interdisciplinary concentration from all applicable academic units.)

This is interdisciplinary, existing as a three-way partnership between the College of Law, W. P. Carey School of Business, and Sun Devil Athletics. Housed in the College of Law, we have been granted the use of faculty, resources, and staff from each of our partners who have direct experience in the many fields of study that fall within the curriculum of the Sports Law and Business program.

3. Academic Requirements and Curriculum

A. What are the total minimum hours required for the major and degree under which the proposed concentration will be established?

The Sports Law & Business concentration will be established under the Juris Doctor (JD) degree, which requires the completion of 88 credits.

B. Please provide the admissions criteria for the proposed concentration.

Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's or master's degree in any field, from a regionally accredited institution.

Applicants must have a minimum of a 3.00 cumulative GPA (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of a student's first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum of a 3.00 cumulative GPA (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

Applicants are required to submit:

1. a complete Credential Assembly Service report, with all transcripts and letters of recommendation or evaluations
2. the completed application, including explanations for affirmative answers to conduct, character and fitness questions
3. LSAT scores from Law School Admissions Council
4. a personal statement that does not exceed two double-spaced, typed pages
5. the required application fee
6. a resume that does not exceed three typed pages

Additional Application Information

The Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law at Arizona State University enrolls only one first-year Juris Doctor class per year, and it enters in the fall semester. The Juris Doctor degree is a three-year program, and almost all students study on a full-time basis. The college does offer a flexible scheduling option for students with circumstances that make full-time enrollment impossible. Each year, far more applications are submitted to the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law than the college's facilities and programs can accommodate. Thus, admission is competitive. The Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law makes its admission decisions based upon all information contained in the applicant's file.

To be considered for admission to the program, a candidate must complete the application for admission and submit all mandatory attachments. Transcripts and letters of recommendation or evaluations must be submitted through the Law School Admissions Council's Credential Assembly Service and will be provided to the College of Law by LSAC with the applicant's LSAT record. Applicants must apply electronically through <http://www.lsac.org>.

Applicants whose native language is not English (regardless of current residency) must provide proof of English proficiency.

The Credential Assembly Service report must be from the current application year.

Students should see the program website for application deadlines.

- C. If the proposed concentration is part of a larger, interdisciplinary agenda, please provide additional admission information related to students who may enter with various academic backgrounds, including expected entry-level competencies. As applicable, please also address the courses that must be taken to remedy any relevant deficiencies for incoming students.

D. STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES AND ASSESSMENT

Attach a PDF copy of the assessment plan printed from the University Office of Evaluation and Educational Effectiveness assessment portal demonstrating UOEEO's approval of your assessment plan for this program. Visit the assessment portal at <https://uoeee.asu.edu/assessment-portal> or contact uoeee@asu.edu with any questions.

See Appendix II for the Assessment Plan.

E. Please provide the curricular structure for the proposed concentration.

- Additionally, please ensure that all new required course proposals have been submitted to the Provost's office through the Curriculum ChangeMaker online course proposal submission system for approval before this concentration is put on the University Graduate Council and CAPC agendas.

4. Administration and Resources

- A. How will the proposed concentration be administered (including recommendations for admissions, student advisement, retention etc.)? Describe the administering body in detail, especially if the proposed concentration is part of a larger interdisciplinary initiative. How will the graduate support staffing needs for this proposed concentration program be met?

The existing internal staff and resources are sufficient for this concentration. No new or external resources need to be allocated toward the admissions, advising, or retention of students in this concentration. College of Law Professor of Practice Glenn Wong is the Director of the Sports Law and Business Program. Sam Renaut is the Assistant Director. Both will provide advising and student support. The College of Law Admissions office will process applications.

- B. How many students will be admitted immediately following final approval of the concentration? What are enrollment projections for the next three years?

We estimate anywhere from 15-30 students enrolling each year as part of the rising second year JD class, as well as a few transfer students.

3-YEAR PROJECTED ANNUAL ENROLLMENT
Please utilize the following tabular format	1st Year	2nd Year <small>(Yr. 1 continuing + new entering)</small>	3rd Year <small>(Yr. 1 & 2 continuing + new entering)</small>

- C. Resource requirements needed to launch and sustain the program: Describe any new resources required for this concentration's success such as new staff, new facilities, new library resources, new technology resources, etc. and include projected budget needs. If multiple units/programs will collaborate in offering this concentration, please discuss the resource contribution of each participating program. Letters of support must be included from all academic units that will commit resources to this concentration.

As this program grows, more resources will need to be dedicated to it. A full-time JD faculty member will be necessary to start, and additional faculty associates may be needed to provide a more robust curriculum that keeps up with the changing pace of the sports industry. The Master of Sports Law & Business program will pool its resources with the JD Concentration in Sports Law & Business, treating it as an extension of its own overarching mission.

Update 3/1/18: Since this proposal was drafted a full-time faculty member has been added. Additionally the College of Law will provide the support necessary for this program.

- D. Please list the primary faculty participants in this proposed concentration.

Hi Eric,

From the perspective of the Department of Marketing in W. P. Carey, we support the three sports-related degree programs (JD, LLM and MLS) that you plan to offer through the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law. We value our collaboration with you and our participation in providing sports business-related courses as part of these degree programs. I have copied Kay Faris so she can verify as needed from a school perspective.

Best wishes,
Amy

Subject: Impact Statement Re: Sports Law and Business Concentrations

Amy,

As mentioned when we last met, we are working some formal Sports Law & Business concentrations proposals through the university process. Part of this is getting an impact statement from WP Carey. Since the sports curriculum is run out of your department, you appear to be the proper person to ask.

The three proposals attached are for three separate degrees – JD, LLM, and MLS (which will primarily be delivered via our online programs). We may make a couple small tweaks but they're 95% accurate at least. Can you take a look at them and let us know if there is anything concerning from your vantage point? If not, can you send us some language we can include with the proposal indicating WP Carey doesn't take issue with it?

Thanks!

(NEW GRADUATE INITIATIVES)

PROPOSAL PROCEDURES CHECKLIST

Academic units should adhere to the following procedures when requesting new curricular initiatives (degrees, concentrations or certificates).

Obtain the required approval from the Office of the Provost to move the initiative forward for internal ASU governance reviews/approvals.

- Establishment of new curricular initiative requests; degrees, concentrations, or certificates
- Rename requests; existing degrees, concentrations or certificates
- Disestablishment requests; existing degrees, concentrations or certificates

Submit any new courses that will be required for the new curricular program to the Curriculum ChangeMaker online course approval system for review and approval.

- Additional information can be found at the Provost's Office Curriculum Development website: Courses link
- For questions regarding proposing new courses, send an email to: courses@asu.edu

Prepare the applicable proposal template and operational appendix for the proposed initiative.

- New degree, concentration and certificate templates (contain proposal template and operational appendix) can be found at the Provost's Office Curriculum Development website: Academic Programs link

Obtain letters or memos of support or collaboration. (if applicable)

- When resources (faculty or courses) from another academic unit will be utilized
- When other academic units may be impacted by the proposed program request

Obtain the internal reviews/approvals of the academic unit.

- Internal faculty governance review committee(s)
- Academic unit head (e.g. Department Chair or School Director)
- Academic unit Dean (will submit approved proposal to the curriculumplanning@asu.edu email account for further ASU internal governance reviews (as applicable, University Graduate Council, CAPC and Senate)

Additional Recommendations - All new graduate programs require specific processes and procedures to maintain a successful degree program. Below are items that the Graduate College strongly recommends that academic units establish after the program is approved for implementation.

Set-up a Graduate Faculty Roster for new PhD Programs – This roster will include the faculty eligible to mentor, co-chair or chair dissertations. For more information, please go to http://graduate.asu.edu/graduate_faculty_initiative.

Establish Satisfactory Academic Progress Policies, Processes and Guidelines – Check within the proposing academic unit and/or college to see if there are existing academic progress policies and processes in place. If none have been established, please go to http://graduate.asu.edu/faculty_staff/policies and scroll down to the academic progress review and remediation processes (for faculty and staff) section to locate the reference tool and samples for establishing these procedures.

Establish a Graduate Student Handbook for the New Degree Program – Students need to know the specific requirements and milestones they must meet throughout their degree program. A Graduate Student Handbook provided to students when they are admitted to the degree program and published on the website for the new degree gives students this information. Include in the handbook the unit/college satisfactory academic progress policies, current degree program requirements (outlined in the approved proposal) and provide a link to the Graduate Policies and Procedures website. Please go to http://graduate.asu.edu/faculty_staff/policies to access Graduate Policies and Procedures.
