This template is to be used only by programs that have received specific written approval from the Provost’s office to proceed with internal proposal development and review. The proposal template should be completed in full and submitted to the University Provost’s Office [mailto: curriculumplanning@asu.edu]. It must undergo all internal university review and approval steps including those at the unit, college and university levels. A program may not be implemented until the Provost’s Office notifies the academic unit that the program may be offered.

College/School/Institute: New College of Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences
Department/Division/School: School of Humanities, Arts and Cultural Studies
Proposing faculty group (if applicable): English and Interdisciplinary Arts and Performance
Are two or more academic units collaborating on this program? Yes

If “Yes”, list all the additional college(s)/school(s)/institute(s) that will be involved in the development and resources for the degree program by offering courses, faculty or facilities. Please note: This question does not refer to official joint degree programs. Official joint degree programs are ones in which the degree is jointly conferred by two colleges. If the program is jointly conferred, please complete the Proposal to Establish a New Joint Undergraduate Degree Program.

Degree type: Bachelor of Arts
Name of degree program (major): Disability Studies
Are any concentrations to be established under this degree program? No
Is a program fee required? No
What is the first catalog year available for students to select on the undergraduate application for this program? 2019-2020

Delivery method and campus or location options: select all locations that apply
- Downtown Phoenix
- Polytechnic
- Tempe
- Thunderbird
- West
- Other:
- Both on-campus and ASU Online* - (check applicable campus(es) from options listed above)

1. Purpose and Nature of Program

Provide a brief program description. Include the distinctive features of the program that make it unique.

The BA in Disability Studies explores cultural, linguistic, social, artistic, and legal dimensions of disability with the goal of improving the conditions of people whose lives are touched by disabilities. Increasing numbers of persons with disabilities coupled with emerging disciplines focused on social justice allow a new model for disability studies - with an emphasis on empowerment, rather than a deficit that needs to be fixed. The degree combines theory and practice to prepare students to address injustices, exclusions, and misapprehensions regarding disabilities through (self) advocacy, education, knowledge of the law, and historical awareness. It leads to careers in business, policy and advocacy, social work, education, government, community and non-governmental organizations.

2. Student Learning Outcomes and Assessment Methods

Assessment Plan
Attach a PDF copy of the assessment plan printed from the University Office of Evaluation and Educational Effectiveness assessment portal demonstrating UOEEE’s approval of your assessment plan for this program. Visit the assessment portal at https://uoeee.asu.edu/assessment-portal or contact uoeee@asu.edu with any questions.

3. Academic Curriculum and Requirements

A. Major Map
Attach a copy of the “proposed” major map for this degree program. If this program will be delivered online as well as in-person, attach a copy of both the major map and the online major map. Instructions on how to create a “proposed major map” in Bammad can be found in the Build a Major Map Training Guide.

B. Summary of Credit Hours Required for this Program

4. New Course Development

A. Will a new course prefix (es) be required for this degree program? Yes
   If yes, list prefix name(s) (i.e. ENG- English):

   DST – Disability Studies (A request for a new prefix has been submitted)

   Note: A request for a New Prefix form must be completed for each new prefix required and submitted with this proposal:
   New prefix request form.

B. New Courses Required for Proposed Degree Program
   List all new courses required for this program, including course prefix, number and course description.
   Note: New course requests must be submitted electronically via Curriculum ChangeMaker and undergo all internal university review and approval steps including those at the unit, college, and university levels.

   1. DST 101 Introduction to Disability Studies (3)
      Course Description: This course provides an introduction to key concepts, methods, questions and themes in the field of Disability Studies, including an overview of the focused, unequal treatment experienced by people with disabilities.
      There are economic, political, social and cultural factors that should be considered by a society which normally addresses disabled bodies through medical frameworks. After completing this course, students will be able to debate ethical questions concerning genetic testing, selective abortion and disability therapies. Students will also be able to discuss how social inequalities of class, race, nationality, sexuality and gender relate to the experiences of the disabled.

   2. DST 322 Social and Cultural Implications of the Many Forms of Disability (3)
      Course Description: There are many types of disability, and oppression results from the socially constructed definition of disability. This course provides a careful review of the many forms of disability, considering functional restrictions created within society and the impact of cultural limitations.

   3. DST 458 Disability and Communication Advocacy (3)
      Course Description: In this class, students will be introduced to disability advocacy historically and in the contemporary context. Historical and legal approaches to disability advocacy will help frame students’ interrogation of contemporary disability advocacy issues and movements. Disability advocacy issues addressed in this class include questions about the meaning of disability, the ends and forms of advocacy, and the politics of dis/ability. The course emphasizes the communication practices that have constructed and debated the meanings, ethics, and ends of disability advocacy.

5. Program Need
   Explain why the university needs to offer this program (include target audience and market).

   The School of Humanities, Arts and Cultural currently offers a number of programs with social justice outcomes, and this program will combine existing expertise in understanding forms of oppression with humanistic and cultural approaches to disability and ableism. As yet, no ASU College or program has a program focusing on Disability Studies, an emergent field.
   The World Bank estimates that 15% of the global population – one billion people – live with some form of disability.
   Understanding of persons with disabilities through a frame of empowerment is needed at the national and international level, and ASU New College is poised to provide that understanding.
6. Impact on Other Programs

List other academic units that might be impacted by the proposed program and describe the potential impact (e.g., how the implementation of this program might affect student headcount/enrollment, student recruitment, faculty participation, course content, etc. in other programs). Attach letters of collaboration/support from impacted programs.

The programs listed below are related only tangentially to the proposed BA in Disability Studies inasmuch as they are invested in issues of equity, diversity, social and legal justice, human rights, advocacy, and leadership. With the exception of the Certificate in Disability Studies under development in the School of Social Transformation, none of the programs listed below have a curricular emphasis in the field of Disability Studies. We are coordinating curricular offerings with SST faculty leading the development of the Certificate in Disability Studies to integrate other courses into our respective programs.

- Community Advocacy and Social Policy, BA – School of Social Work, College of Public Service and Community Solutions
- Justice Studies, BA/BS – School of Social Transformation, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences
- Nonprofit Leadership and Management, BS - School of Community Resources and Development, College of Public Service and Community Solutions
- Social Justice and Human Rights, BA - School of Social and Behavioral Sciences, New College of Interdisciplinary Arts & Sciences
- Justice Studies, Minor - School of Social Transformation, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences
- Human Rights, Certificate - School of Social Transformation, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences
- Certificate in Disability Studies, School of Social Transformation (under development)
- National Center on Disability and Journalism, Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Mass Communication, College of Liberal Arts and Sciences
  - This is not an academic program. The goal of the NCDJ is to provide support and guidance for journalists as they cover people with disabilities. The Minor in Disability Studies will use resources offered by the NCDJ, such as the Disability Language Guide, to enhance instruction.

Each of these faculty will teach one course every other year to serve this program:

B. New Faculty

Describe the new faculty hiring needed during the next three years to sustain the program. List the anticipated hiring schedule and financial sources for supporting the addition of these faculty members.

At this time, we are not planning to hire any new faculty to sustain this program.

C. Administration of the Program

Explain how the program will be administered for the purposes of admissions, advising, course offerings, etc. Discuss the available staff support.

The New College recruitment and admissions team provides admission assistance to incoming freshman students and transfer students. Student advisement and retention are administered by the New College Advising team who provide academic advising for students admitted into the School of Humanities, Arts and Cultural Studies degree programs. Degree programs housed in the School of Humanities, Arts and Cultural Studies are administered by Dr. Louis G. Mendoza, Director, and Dr. Duku Anokye, Associate Director. Other administrative and program tasks are supported by Lucy Berchini, Administrative Associate; Dennis Marsollier, Media Specialist Sr.; Tracy Encizo, Program Coordinator; and Marla Carmona, Academic Financial Specialist.
10. Resources (necessary to launch and sustain the program)

A. Required Resources
   Describe any new resources required for this program’s success, such as new support staff, new facilities, new library resources, new technology resources, etc.

   No new support staff, facilities, library resources, or technology resources are required to support this program at this time.

B. Resource Acquisition
   Explain how the resources to support this program will be obtained.

   N/A
1. Program Name (Major): Disability Studies, BA

2. Marketing Description (Optional. 50 words maximum. The marketing description should not repeat content found in the program description)

   According to the Census, the number of disabled people will grow by an estimated 21 percent between 2007 and 2030. Understanding and addressing the needs of persons with disabilities will become more important.

3. Program Description (150 words maximum)

   The BA program in disability studies explores historical, linguistic, social, artistic and legal dimensions of disability with the goal of improving the conditions of people whose lives are touched by disabilities.

   With larger numbers of disabled people and disciplines focused on social justice, the new model for disability studies is that of empowerment, rather than a deficit that needs to be fixed. The curriculum combines theory and practice that prepare students to address injustices, exclusions and misapprehensions regarding disabilities through advocacy and self-advocacy, education, knowledge of the law, and historical awareness.

   Students in this major develop a professional-level digital portfolio of research in preparation for the job market.

Dear Dean Sandrin:

The curriculum committee of the School of Humanities, Arts, and Cultural Studies reviewed the proposal for establishing a B.A. in Disability Studies and approved it by consensus agreement in March 2018. All faculty in SHARCS were notified and informed of the development of this proposal at faculty meetings since its inception in Fall 2017. No dissent or concerns have been expressed by faculty members. This memo certifies that the approval process followed the appropriate approval procedures of the School and that the School has the resources to support the B.A. without impacting core program resources.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions or concerns that need to be addressed as you review this proposal.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

Louis Mendoza, Professor and Director
School of Humanities, Arts, and Cultural Studies
Approved. Thanks for your work here!

Todd

Hi Todd,

Attached please find the proposals for the BA and Minor in Disability Studies. Patty has reviewed these proposals, as well as the new course proposals that are in Changemaker. Would it be possible to obtain your approval?

Thanks,
Stacey

Dear Dr. Mendoza,

After consulting with Dean Basile and her representatives, I am pleased to confirm that MLFTC supports the proposed BA in Disability Studies in the School of Humanities, Arts, and Cultural Studies in New College of Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences. Disability studies, with its orientation towards advocacy, will enhance our profession’s perspective on education, treatment, and basic human rights for individuals who encounter challenging environments. We welcome your interdisciplinary approach to these important areas and look forward to further collaboration with faculty and students who are building expertise in advanced understanding of human exceptionalities.

MLFTC also invites students in the Disability Studies program to consider certain courses in the special education program in MLFTC as electives. Selected courses can promote an understanding of the characteristics of disabilities as manifest in children and young adults, inclusive practices in schools, issues that families of children with disabilities face, and knowledge of the rights and constraints provided by current educational legislation. Thank you for this opportunity to advance this important area of study. We wish you success in the launching of this new program of study.

Sincerely,

Kathleen Puckett, Ph.D.

Dear Todd,

I’m aware that you have a strong working relationship with SST on their disability certificate and the New College degree. I appreciate the idea that you are continuing to build connections and share courses. I’m happy to support the degree.

Dear Libby,
I hope this email finds you enjoying a pleasant and productive summer. Mine has been lovely, but I regret it has gone by so quickly!

I'm writing to request from you a statement of impact regarding the degree program in Disability Studies New College is proposing. I attach the proposal and supporting documents.

I append below a few additional notes:

My team has worked with SST faculty as indicated in the email threads below to include courses and to collaborate. As more courses become available, we are looking forward to further expanding electives (as you know, the courses have to be already in Changemaker for review before we can include them in a degree proposal). We look forward to working with the SST faculty again when they put together their certificate, where some of our courses can appear too.

Mighty you be able to forward your statement of impact by Thursday, July 26? Of course, don't hesitate to let me know if you have questions.

Best regards,

Todd

Dear Annamaria and Beth,

Thank you very much for your response. I had not heard from Elsie at all, so it was good to see your email. We would be happy to integrate these courses into our course bank of electives. They will be listed on our checksheet as options for the students.

Would you please review our checksheet and identify a couple of courses with a DST prefix that you can include in the curriculum for your certificate?

Another thing to think about to perhaps facilitate students taking courses that we each offer is to consider availability of icourses. Do you anticipate either of these JUS 494s ever be offered as icourses?

Best,

Louis

Dear Dr. Mendoza,

I don't know if you've already received a reply to your email from our Director Elsie, but regardless, I wanted to reach out to you to introduce myself and my colleague, Dr. Beth Swadener. We are co-coordinating the disability certificates at the Tempe Campus and we are excited for your new program and happy to collaborate.

There are two classes we regularly teach that I think would be useful to your new undergrad degree in Disability Studies:

JUS 494- The Social Construction of Disability and Justice (in changemaker)
JUS 494- Policy, Advocacy and Disability (in changemaker)

I believe both of these classes can fulfill requirement needs as outlined in your proposal. We will be offering new classes next year, but the ones listed above are the tried and true and will be offered regularly.

We just recently were informed that our director will be stepping down the end of June, so please feel free to contact Beth and me as we will be your most direct line of communication. I am copying Beth on this email.

I apologize if our response is later than your suggested deadline, but the upcoming changes have delayed everything. We look forward to your response and collaboration.

Dear Elsie,

As you know, last year we received permission to plan a Disability Studies BA and Minor. I write to you today as we prepare to submit our request for permission to establish that degree and minor, while we also anticipate receiving news of your own submission of a proposal for a certificate in the same area. We would like to be able to collaborate with you by including some of your existing courses in the program. If you could please let us know if there are any current offerings that would be particularly pertinent in this case, that would be great. We would very much like to send our proposal to our curriculum committee still in the spring so as to be able to have this proposal considered by the senate/CAPC in their first meeting in the fall, so if you could please send us information by April 18th that would be very helpful. To facilitate the conversation, I am attaching a copy of our check sheets for the minor and major we are proposing and ask that you share with us a list of pre-existing courses you have in this subject area that we could consider including. We will be happy to do the same and name courses that could potentially apply toward your certificate when the time comes.

If you would like to discuss this further via phone, please let me know a good time to reach you. I look forward to hearing back from you soon.

Best,

Louis
