This form should be used for academic units wishing to propose a new concentration for existing graduate degrees. A concentration is a subspecialty within a degree and major. It indicates the fulfillment of a designated, specialized course of study, which qualifies the student with skills and training in one highly concentrated area of the major. Concentrations are formally-recognized educational designations (including the assignment of a university plan code for reporting/record-keeping purposes and appearance on the ASU transcript). Concentrations are distinguished from more informal academic distinctions such as “emphases,” “tracks,” “foci,” “options,” etc.

This proposal template should be completed in full and submitted to the University Provost’s Office [mailto: curriculumplanning@asu.edu]. It must undergo all internal university review and approval steps including those at the unit, college, and university levels. A program may not be implemented until the Provost’s Office notifies the academic unit that the program may be offered.

PROPOSAL TO ESTABLISH A NEW GRADUATE CONCENTRATION

Name: John Wisneski  Title: Director, Full Time MBA; Clinical Assistant Prof
Phone number: 480-727-0825  Email: John.Wisneski@asu.edu

DEAN APPROVAL(S)

This proposal has been approved by all necessary unit and college/school levels of review, and the college/school(s) has the resources to offer this degree program. I recommend implementation of the proposed concentration.

Note: An electronic signature, an email from the dean or dean’s designee, or a PDF of the signed signature page is acceptable.

College/School/Division Dean name: Amy Hillman
Signature: [Signature]
Date: 9/12/19

Please note: Proposals for new concentrations also require the review and recommendation of approval from the University Graduate Council, Curriculum and Academic Programs Committee (CAPC), the Academic Senate (Information item only), and the Office of the Provost before they can be put into operation.

The final approval notification will come from the Office of the Provost.

1. OVERVIEW
   Provide a brief description (no more than 150 words) of the new concentration (including the focus of the new concentration, relationship to other concentrations within this degree program, etc.).

   In order to be effective business operators, students graduating from the W.P. Carey MBA program must be prepared with foundational knowledge of how to manage data and enterprise information. The Information Systems Management concentration is intended to extend this foundational knowledge that all students receive, by building additional technical skills necessary of business professionals who aspire to work specifically in the information technology department of the enterprise. The Information Systems Management concentration educates students in the strategic use of technology to create shareholder value and provides them with an outstanding foundation of technical and managerial expertise. Students will develop skills in enterprise modeling, database systems, electronic commerce, data warehousing and business process analysis. The Information Systems Management concentration will prepare them to help shape organizations in a rapidly changing, globally competitive, technologically sophisticated environment. This is one of three new proposed concentrations.

2. IMPACT ASSESSMENT
   A. Explain the unit’s need for the new concentration (e.g., market demand, research base, direction of the discipline, and interdisciplinary considerations). How will the new concentration complement the existing degree program, including enrollment, national ranking, etc.?

   According to the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics, the employment of information technology project managers is projected to grow 9 percent from 2016 to 2026 in the State of Arizona. The same report indicates that demand for computer and information systems managers is expected to grow anywhere from 10-14% over the same time period. In both cases, the projected increase is attributed to continued emphasis on technological innovations as a source of competitive advantage for business competing in the global economy. EMSI, an independent labor statistics modeling company, shares the same optimistic outlook, and projects growth of 14 percent from 2017 to 2027. Further, EMSI found that there were 8.99M total job postings in the fields associated with these SOC codes.

   With courses designed to help students learn how to harness the power of technology to drive businesses forward, W. P. Carey's Information Systems Management concentration relies on the expertise of scholars from our Information Systems Department who situate their research activities at the fulcrum of business and technology. Many of the top 30 business schools in the 2019 U.S. News & World Report rankings have a formalized Information Systems Management curriculum for students, including direct competitors such as the University of Arizona, and the University of Texas.

B. Please identify other related ASU programs and describe how the new concentration will complement these existing ASU programs? If applicable, statements of support from affected academic unit administrators should be included with this proposal submission.

This proposed concentration within the MBA degree attempts to leverage a subset of courses currently offered in the Master of Science in Information Management program (pending approval of name change to Information Systems Management) in such a way to accommodate students who want the flexibility to pursue a broad based degree in Business Administration, while also specializing in the functional area of Information Systems Management.

Statements of support are included from:

Thunderbird School of Global Management
Ira A. Fulton Schools of Engineering

C. Is this an interdisciplinary concentration? If yes, please address the relationship of the proposed concentration to other existing degree programs and any parallel or similar concentrations in those degree programs. (Please include relevant Memoranda of Understanding regarding this interdisciplinary concentration from all applicable academic units.)

No.

Dear Sanjeev,

We are requesting formal approval for our MBA with Information Systems concentration from the university. We’ve offered this for several years, but not as a formally designated “concentration” within the MBA. Given potential overlap with your MS in Global Management. I’m writing to request a statement of impact and collaboration from you.

Warm regards,

Dear Kyle,

We are requesting formal approval for our MBA with Information Systems concentration from the university. We’ve offered this for several years, but not as a formally designated “concentration” within the MBA. Given potential overlap with courses in your college, I’m writing to request a statement of impact and collaboration from you.

Warm regards,

Amy

Additional Recommendations

All new graduate programs require specific processes and procedures to maintain a successful degree program. Below are items that the Graduate College strongly recommends that academic units establish after the program is approved for implementation.

☐ Establish satisfactory academic progress policies, processes and guidelines – Check within the proposing academic unit and/or college to see if there are existing academic progress policies and processes in place. If none have been established, please go to http://graduate.asu.edu/faculty_staff/policies and scroll down to the academic progress review and remediation processes (for faculty and staff) section to locate the reference tool and samples for establishing these procedures.

☐ Establish a Graduate Student Handbook for the new degree program – Students need to know the specific requirements and milestones they must meet throughout their degree program. A Graduate Student Handbook provided to students when they are admitted to the degree program and published on the website for the new degree gives students this information. Include in the handbook the unit/college satisfactory academic progress policies, current degree program requirements (outlined in the approved proposal) and provide a link to the Graduate Policies and Procedures website. Please go to http://graduate.asu.edu/faculty_staff/policies to access Graduate Policies and Procedures.
