This template is to be used only by programs that have received specific written approval from the Provost’s office to proceed with internal proposal development and review. The proposal template should be completed in full and submitted to the University Provost’s Office [mailto: curriculumplanning@asu.edu ]. It must undergo all internal university review and approval steps including those at the unit, college, and university levels. A program may not be implemented until the Provost’s Office notifies the academic unit that the program may be offered.

PROPOSAL TO ESTABLISH A NEW MASTER’S DEGREE PROGRAM

Please note: Proposals for new degrees also require the review and recommendation of approval from the University Graduate Council, Curriculum and Academic Programs Committee (CAPC), the Academic Senate (2 readings), and the Office of the Provost before they can be put into operation.

The final approval notification will come from the Office of the Provost.

1. PURPOSE AND NATURE OF PROGRAM

A. Provide a brief program description:

The MA in Policy Advocacy program will provide training and skills needed for successful careers within policy advocacy. Students will understand both the role of public policy and how it relates to policy advocacy, but also how to effectively communicate public policy to appropriate stakeholders (e.g., how to break down nuanced academic studies and translate into demonstrative action). In addition, students will learn analytical and methodological techniques to evaluate public policy strategies and determine their effectiveness in solving policy issues from an empirical standpoint.

Expertise and knowledge are required to navigate increasingly complex legal, communication, political, and policy landscapes, and effectively create societal change. This has prompted various groups to use professionals to champion concerns, and influence opinion, laws, and policies ranging from local to international. Ethical, skilled policy advocacy professionals are in demand to represent all sections of society including nonprofit, private, and public sectors.

The program is particularly relevant for students who intend to work with nonprofit organizations, elected and appointed officials, community-based organizations, think tanks, foundations, enterprises, political and civic leaders, and other social organizations that attempt to shape policies through advocacy efforts. Typical career paths for graduates of this program include lobbyists, governmental and inter-governmental relations officers, policy analysts, legislative analysts, communication directors, and legislative assistants. The goal for a policy advocacy graduate in future employment is to raise public and legislative awareness of social issues and to propose solutions for these issues in an attempt to influence action. It is expected that graduates of this program find employment in many facets of the public and private sectors.

B. Will concentrations be established under this degree program? ☐ Yes ☒ No

(Please provide additional concentration information in the curricular structure section – number 7.)

2. PROGRAM NEED

Explain why the university should offer this program (include data and discussion of the target audience and market).

This program directly addresses elements of the ASU Charter by creating opportunities to increase the professionalism of individuals that can represent economic, social, cultural, and health concerns of local, state, national and other communities. Governmental and regulatory environments have become increasingly complex and it is essential for organizations that influence policy to have considerable expertise and knowledge in order to navigate these legal, communication, political and policy landscapes. This complex environment has prompted nonprofit, public, and private organizations to increasingly call upon professionals to champion their concerns, and influence opinion, legal precedent from all levels ranging from local to international policy. Policy advocacy encompasses a wide range of activities that influence decision makers. This includes traditional activities such as litigation, lobbying, and public education. It can also include collaboration, communication, relationship building, forming networks, and leadership development. To be engaged in policy advocacy, organizations and individuals need to know not only how to identify problems, but how to isolate causes, analyze evidence, work with research, develop effective policy options and evaluate the cost-benefit of these options. Policy advocacy often seeks to influence policy at the decision-making level, such as public officials, public servants, elected officials and legislators. Policy advocacy must also involve citizen participation, so that local communities have the opportunity to actively participate in making the policy change happen.

The target audience is professionals from policy, legal, communication and other backgrounds with an interest in policy advocacy and other working professionals seeking a career change or looking to enhance their skill set. Graduates from this program may find employment in all levels of the public sector (federal, state, and local governments), as well as with nonprofit and private organizations. This degree will allow graduates to either begin or advance their careers in a wide range of fields, including: lobbying, public-private partnerships, child advocacy, community issues and development, health advocacy, law, education, social justice education, government, human rights, disability rights, environmental justice, human services, criminal justice, health care, business, nonprofit organizations and more. Very few universities in the nation offer any specific degrees that develop the high-level skills and techniques that are crucial to create change at the individual, community, and public policy levels. Programs such as the certificate in Public Policy Advocacy at USC’s Sol Price School of Public Policy and the MPA specialization in Advocacy and Political Action at NYU’s Wagner School of Public Service are not full degree programs and are intended to complement an existing degree. Many policy advocacy programs are also specific to just one policy area such as health or education policy, like Johns Hopkins Public Health Advocacy certificate program and Georgetown University’s Advocacy and Policy concentration within its MA in Educational Transformational program. This proposed program will encompass the whole arena of policy advocacy and will be applicable and transferrable across multiple sectors. The few programs that lead to a full graduate degree in policy advocacy that exist, such as the Master of Advocacy and Political Leadership program at Metropolitan State University, are much smaller in both scope and scale than the proposed program at ASU. The window of opportunity is open for ASU and Watts College to leverage its standing and become the national leader in the field of policy advocacy.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics’ Occupational Outlook Handbook, employment of community and social service occupations is projected to grow 14 percent from 2016 to 2026, faster than the average for all occupations, adding about 371,900 jobs. In addition, O*NET Online lists Social and Community Service Managers as a bright outlook occupation with a growth rate of 18% by 2026. Policy advocacy careers encompass multiple career opportunities across various sectors, including public and private sectors. However, with a focus on public policy, it is expected that the majority of careers involving policy advocacy will center on those that impact community and social policy issues or those that intersect those issues across both public and private sectors.

3. IMPACT ON OTHER PROGRAMS

Attach any letters of collaboration or support from impacted programs (see checklist sheet). Please submit as a separate document.

ii. New Faculty - Describe the new faculty hiring needed during the next three years to sustain the program. List the anticipated hiring schedule and financial sources for supporting the addition of these faculty members.

No new faculty in the short-term are anticipated for this program as it utilizes existing university courses and instruction. If anticipated enrollment by Year 5 is met, the college may consider hiring at least one additional faculty member to teach the core courses.

iii. Administration of the program - Explain how the program will be administered for the purposes of admissions, advising, course offerings, etc. Discuss the available staff support.

Current college resources will be sufficient for administration of this program. The program will be administered by the program’s graduate chair who, along with the program support and administrative staff, is responsible for the overseeing and implementing all college-level programs in the department. The graduate chair is responsible for evaluating all admission applications and any issues relating to the curriculum. Current administrative staff include two full-time graduate advisors and a project manager. Current staff will process and maintain applications, advise students, process iPOS, and work as liaisons with other schools in terms of their course offerings. They will also be the liaisons with both the Graduate College and ASU Online.

B. Resource requirements needed to launch and sustain the program: Describe any new resources required for this program’s success such as new staff, new facilities, new library resources, new technology resources, etc.

Existing university and college resources are sufficient for this program.
APPENDIX I
OPERATIONAL INFORMATION FOR GRADUATE PROGRAMS
(This information is used to populate the Graduate Programs Search/catalog website.)

1. Proposed title of major: Policy Advocacy

2. Marketing description (Optional - 50 words maximum. The marketing description should not repeat content found in the program description.)

This unique graduate program prepares professionals to directly impact change in our world by developing the skills, abilities, and understanding of how our political and legal world operates, how to create and analyze public policy, and how we can be influential and impactful change agents.

3. Provide a brief program description (Catalog type (i.e. will appear in Degree Search) – no more than 150 words. Do not include any admission or curriculum information)

Expertise and knowledge are required to navigate increasingly complex legal, communication, political, and policy landscapes, and effectively create societal change. This has prompted various groups to use professionals to champion concerns, and influence opinion, laws, and policies ranging from local to international. Ethical, skilled policy advocacy professionals are in demand to represent all sections of society including nonprofit, private, and public sectors. This applied degree is oriented to those interested in acquiring the necessary skills to become effective agents of policy change and directly addresses elements of ASU Charter by creating opportunities to increase the professionalism of individuals who can represent these concerns at all levels.

4. Delivery/Campus Information Options: ASU Online only

5. Campus(es) where program will be offered:
ASU Online curriculum consists of courses that have no face-to-face content. iCourses are online courses for students in on-campus programs. iCourses may be included in a program, but may not comprise the entirety of a program. On-campus programs must have some face-to-face content.

Note: Office of the Provost approval is needed for ASU Online delivery option.

☐ ASU Online only (all courses online and managed by ASU Online)
☐ Downtown Phoenix
☐ Polytechnic
☐ Tempe
☐ West
☐ Other: ________________

☐ Both on-campus and ☐ ASU Online* - (check applicable campus(es) from options listed above)

Note: Once students elect a campus or Online option, students will not be able to move between the on-campus and the ASU Online options. Approval from the Office of the University Provost and Philip Regier (Executive Vice Provost and Dean) is required to offer programs through ASU Online. Please complete the ASU Online Offering form in Curriculum ChangeMaker to begin this request. Prior to completing the online Curriculum ChangeMaker form, please contact EdPlus at asuonline@asu.edu who can provide you with additional information regarding the online request process.

6. Admission Requirements:
Applicants must fulfill the requirements of both the Graduate College and the Watts College of Public Service and Community Solutions.

Applicants are eligible to apply to the program if they have earned a bachelor's or master's degree in any field, from a regionally accredited institution.

Applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in the last 60 hours of their first bachelor's degree program, or applicants must have a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.00 (scale is 4.00 = "A") in an applicable master's degree program.

All applicants must submit:
1. graduate admission application and application fee
2. official transcripts
3. two letters of recommendation
4. written statement
5. professional resume
6. proof of English proficiency

Additional Application Information
An applicant whose native language is not English must provide proof of English proficiency regardless of current residency.

7. Application Review Terms (if applicable session):
Indicate the first term and year in which applications will be opened for admission. Applications will be accepted on a rolling basis after that time.

Note: It is the academic unit’s responsibility to display program deadline dates on their website.

ASSESSMENT PLAN

MA in Policy Advocacy

Mission
The College of Public Service and Community Solutions is committed to service, dedicated to research and learning that addresses social problems and is deeply engaged in the community—enabling students and faculty to be a part of the solution we want to see in the world. The College Degree Program initiative is intended to provide a multidisciplinary integrative degree experience in support of this mission.

Goals
This program directly addresses elements of the ASU Charter by creating opportunities to increase the professionalism of individuals that can represent economic, social, cultural, and health concerns of local, state, national and other communities.

Outcome 1
The MA in Policy Advocacy will allow students and professionals from a variety of backgrounds to understand and work within the public policy process.

Concepts
Understand the role of public policy in policy advocacy and be able to communicate this to others.

Competencies
At the completion of PAF 505 Public Policy Analysis, students will be able to apply analytical techniques to understand how the public policy process relates to policy advocacy and effectively communicate these relationships.

Assessment Process: Students will demonstrate analytical skills as they relate to public policy and be able to apply them to policy advocacy strategies. Students will submit a final course examination and graded course discussions to demonstrate their mastery of the public policy process as well as the student’s ability to effectively communicate the relationships between public policy and public advocacy. Both assessments will be evaluated using faculty-developed rubrics and used for the improvement of future course design.

Measure 1
Students in PAF 505 Public Policy Analysis will demonstrate their knowledge of the public policy process through a written exam.

Performance Criterion 1
At least 75% of students will demonstrate mastery on their final course examination, as assessed using rubrics to be developed by faculty.

Measure 2
Students in PAF 505 Public Policy Analysis will demonstrate their ability to communicate the relationships between public policy and policy advocacy through their communications posted on a discussion board.

Performance Criterion 2
At least 75% of students will demonstrate mastery on their graded discussions, as assessed using rubrics to be developed by faculty.
MA in Policy Advocacy

Outcome 2

Graduates will be able to apply and use legal, communications, policy and other applicable knowledge to plan for and approach real world policy advocacy issues.

Concepts
Understand that multiple skills and knowledge sets are needed to create an effective policy advocacy campaign.

Competencies
At the completion of CPP 593 Applied Project, students should have a good foundation for planning and approaching policy advocacy issues.

Assessment Process: The creation of an effective policy advocacy strategy and its application to specific public policy initiatives is the core component of the assessment method. This represents the culminating experience of the student's program and will be measured using faculty-developed rubrics. Every student must successfully complete an applied project, and the data collected from the students will be used by faculty to improve course design.

Measure 1
Students in CPP 593 Applied Project will demonstrate their knowledge of planning for an advocacy project through a planning assignment.

Performance Criterion 1
At least 75% of students will demonstrate mastery on an assignment to create a plan/strategy to address a policy advocacy issue, as assessed using rubrics to be developed by faculty.

Measure 2
Students in CPP 593 Applied Project will demonstrate their knowledge of creating an effective policy advocacy campaign through completion of a final project.

Performance Criterion 2
At least 75% of students will demonstrate mastery on their completed final course project, as assessed using rubrics to be developed by faculty.

Outcome 3
The MA in Policy Advocacy will allow students and professionals from a variety of backgrounds to understand the intersection of public policymaking and advocacy.

Concepts
Understand the public policymaking process and the methods in which policy advocacy is engaged during this process.

Competencies
At the completion of SWG 687 Public Policy and Advocacy, students will be able to evaluate policy advocacy strategies and understand how these strategies are used during the public policymaking process.

Assessment Process: Student mastery is dependent on their ability to demonstrate a systemic and critical understanding of both the public policymaking process and effective policy advocacy strategies. Faculty-developed rubrics will measure the proficiency of both the final course examination and course project. This data will also be used for improvements in future courses.

Hi Bill,

No concerns whatsoever from my end. Please proceed! The only thing to consider is that I know Gordon helped develop the program but kindly note that he will not be able to teach in it, given prior commitments. I hope this makes sense. Thanks Bill!

Kind regards,

Christine.

On a related note, Daniel's insight and work on this has been incredibly helpful!

In talking with Jonathan he noted that if ASU approves the degree, they pay for the course build. SW would just need somebody willing and able to do it.

I would be comfortable with including this course as part of the degree. Will the college pay for someone to convert the course to an online format? I have included the leadership team on the email just in case I am missing something.

Recall, the plan is to include SWG 687, but I believe this has only been taught thus far by Krysten Sinema in a face-to-face format. I wanted to double check to make sure you were ok with it being included in the proposal degree because we would have to offer a section online (the Policy Advocacy degree is going to begin online initially, and if successful the plan is to then consider offering in-person as well).

Happy to talk via telephone or zoom as well if that's easier.

Daniel Schugurensky (SPA), Gordon Schrockley (CRD), and David Boccara (SSW) worked diligently on much of the program and I’m now trying to finalize and submit for ASU online approval to flesh out the program.

We’re hoping to include SPA 667 as one of the classes in the program. The hope is to get approval from ASU online to have the program up in running beginning Jan 2021 or Sept 2021.

On a related note, we explored the possibility to have a number of additional SSW classes originally included (i.e., 531, 632, 682), but after consulting with Liz Segel we realized there would be too many challenges and potential negative effects (e.g., pre-reqs, students lacking foundation, etc.) so we scaled back so as to not place an undue burden on SSW.

Any concerns on your end?

Thanks, Bill
Dear Bill – Thank you for asking us to review your proposal for the MA in Policy Advocacy. I’ve discussed with our academic program faculty and our Global Collaboratory Program (that offers non-academic credit continuing education and stackable credential opportunities). We support moving this degree through the University program approval process and see great potential for collaboration between Watts College and Edson College. Please see our discussion below.

We appreciate your including HCI 550 – Healthcare Policy and Innovation as an elective and welcome your students to take this course. We will be reviewing all of our policy courses that are offered in Edson graduate programs and should this course be revised or receive a new course number I will alert you.

Currently Edson offers a non-credit Health Policy Academy (HPA) that has been very successful. While this degree is unlikely to directly compete with the current model of Edson’s Health Policy Academy, as our focus is primarily on training current health professionals and organizations who would like to add a policy advocacy focus to their current work. For the majority of our participants, we do not anticipate an additional graduate degree would meet their same needs for professional development or networking. Organizational partners looking to build the advocacy skills within their team are unlikely to seek out a for-credit option over a comparatively shorter and less expensive non-credit program which can focus on the most applicable skills and networking connections within a health policy context. The current HPA focus on short-term (one week to one month), intensive experiences seems sufficiently distinct from what this new degree would offer.
However, the current HPA model may be useful for this new program for the same reasons stated above. Based on the curricular outline, Policy Advocacy students may benefit from the in-person immersion component of HPA, which may be able to connect and supplement the content they learn through their coursework. In our experience, a large part of effective advocacy is familiarity and connection building with key stakeholders – both of which can be difficult to achieve through a traditional course. The HPA Immersion could be made available to these MA students, either through existing cohorts or through a special cohort dedicated to students from this program. Additionally, HPA could serve as a useful pipeline into the MA program from our target population of participants. While we do not feel most of our HPA participants come into the program with a new degree in mind, many complete the program expressing an interest in continuing their learning around public policy and advocacy work. If a collaboration between our programs is established, one element of our partnership could be using HPA as a potential recruitment tool for the MA program. Offering this opportunity for continued learning would be an added benefit to our students. Additionally, if the HPA immersion was already integrated into the MA program, a stackable pathway could easily be developed to award these applicants credit for having already completed the HPA program.

The one area of potential concern lies with current plans for new for-credit HPA offerings at Edson. Under the current HPA development plan, the state-level fundamentals course will be adapted into a for-credit format to be made available to enrolled students. This is part of a larger discussion at Edson to build out our for-credit health policy offerings. This degree program would limit the opportunity for those new courses to be packaged into a certificate or degree, as they would then potentially conflict with the MA in Policy Advocacy. However, this could also present an opportunity to integrate these new courses into the degree plan for the MA as optional electives, alternatives to core courses, or even packaged into a dedicated health policy track offered in partnership between the two Colleges.

We are launching our Public Interest Technology MS online in August and some of the coursework offered there, particularly PIT 502 Co-designing the Future and PIT 504 Public Engagement Strategies, might be appropriate.

Hi, adding Jonathan as Mark's directee are only "the" dean to "the" dean.

The W. P. Carey School has no objections to this degree provided you allow our MGT 565 as an elective. Jonathan, that's the Washington Campus course. Without adding this elective, the new MA could cannibalize our new MBA area of emphasis we created with you earlier in "business and government." We have quite a few Watts courses included in that.

Thanks,

Amy

I have no objection to the new MA in Policy Advocacy. I would like to suggest, however, that students in this program would benefit from an online course offered by the Cronkite School as part of its master's program in Digital Audience Strategy. The course, MCO 591: Defining the Digital Audience would make a great elective course in the group called “Advocacy, Communication and Change Elective Courses,” which now includes Nonprofit Marketing and Communication but nothing from the Cronkite School. Digital strategy certainly plays a significant role in advocacy. For more information on that course, please contact Cronkite Assistant Dean Jessica Pucci, who is copied here.

Dear Margaretha, Eileen, and Maria,

Congratulations!

The Policy Advocacy, MA, program has received support from Dean Phil Regier to be offered through ASU Online. This program must complete university governance reviews for formal approval. Please include this support memo along with your proposal submission when it is submitted formally to the university (to curriculumplanning@asu.edu) by your Dean or their designee.

Please note that in order to proceed with implementation, final approval must be supplied by the University Provost.

Once again, congratulations! We are excited to work with you on your new program.

Thank you!

Academic units should adhere to the following procedures when requesting new curricular initiatives (degrees, concentrations or certificates).

☐ Obtain the required approval from the Office of the Provost to move the initiative forward for internal ASU governance reviews/approvals. Please see the academic strategic plan website at: https://provost.asu.edu/curriculum-development.

☐ Submit any new courses that will be required for the new curricular program to the Curriculum ChangeMaker online course approval system for review and approval.
  - Additional information can be found at the Provost’s Office Curriculum Development website: Courses link.
  - For questions regarding proposing new courses, send an email to: courses@asu.edu

☐ Prepare the applicable proposal template and operational appendix for the proposed initiative.

☐ Obtain letters or memos of support or collaboration (if applicable).
  - when resources (faculty or courses) from another academic unit will be utilized
  - when other academic units or degree programs may be impacted by the proposed request
  - if the program will have an online delivery option support will be required from the Provost’s office and ASU Online. (Please complete the ASU Online Offering form in Curriculum ChangeMaker to begin this request.)

☐ Obtain the internal reviews/approvals of the academic unit.
  - internal faculty governance review committee(s)
  - academic unit head (e.g. Department Chair or School Director)
  - academic unit Dean or their designee (will submit approved proposal to the curriculumplanning@asu.edu email account for further ASU internal governance reviews (as applicable, University Graduate Council, CAPC and Senate)

Additional Recommendations

All new graduate programs require specific processes and procedures to maintain a successful degree program. Below are items that the Graduate College strongly recommends that academic units establish after the program is approved for implementation.

☐ Establish satisfactory academic progress policies, processes and guidelines – Check within the proposing academic unit and/or college to see if there are existing academic progress policies and processes in place. If none have been established, please go to http://graduate.asu.edu/faculty_staff/policies and scroll down to the academic progress review and remediation processes (for faculty and staff) section to locate the reference tool and samples for establishing these procedures.

☐ Establish a Graduate Student Handbook for the new degree program – Students need to know the specific requirements and milestones they must meet throughout their degree program. A Graduate Student Handbook, provided to students when they are admitted to the degree program and published on the website for the new degree, gives students this information. To be included in the handbook are the unit/college satisfactory academic progress policies, current degree program requirements (outlined in the approved proposal) and a link to the Graduate Policies and Procedures website: http://graduate.asu.edu/faculty_staff/policies.
