Arizona State University Criteria Checklist for

CULTURAL DIVERSITY IN THE UNITED STATES [C]

Rationale and Objectives

The contemporary "culture" of the United States involves the complex interplay of many different cultures that exist side by side in various states of harmony and conflict. The history of the United States involves the experiences not only of different groups of European immigrants and their descendants but also of diverse groups, including, but not limited to, American Indians, Latinos, African Americans, and Asian Americans—all of whom played significant roles in the development of contemporary culture and together shape the future of the United States. At the same time, the recognition that gender, class, and religious differences cut across all distinctions of race and ethnicity offers an even richer variety of perspectives from which to view ourselves. Awareness of our cultural diversity and its multiple sources can illuminate our collective past, present, and future and can help us to achieve greater mutual understanding and respect.

The objective of the Cultural Diversity requirement is to promote awareness and appreciation of cultural diversity within the contemporary United States through the study of the cultural, social, or scientific contributions of women and minority groups, examination of their experiences in the U.S., or exploration of successful or unsuccessful interactions between and among cultural groups.

Grade descriptions

An “A” grade at the undergraduate level means that a student is doing outstanding or excellent work. The student attends class regularly, hands in all of the course assignments, and demonstrates a thorough grasp of the material. To receive an “A” grade a student must go well above and beyond the basic expectations for the course.
An “A” grade at the graduate level means that a student is doing outstanding or excellent work, in which a student contributes to class regularly, completes all of the course assignments and demonstrates a thorough grasp of the material. To receive an “A” grade a student must go above and beyond the basic expectations for the course.

A “B” grade at the undergraduate level means that a student is doing above average work. The student attends class regularly, hands in all of the course assignments, and demonstrates (at the very least) a strong grasp of the material.

A “B” grade at the graduate level means that a student is doing at least satisfactory work and meeting the minimum requirements for the course. The student contributes to class regularly, completes all of the course assignments, and demonstrates a basic level of understanding of the course concepts. In most graduate courses, a majority of students would be expected to achieve at the “B” level.

A “C” grade at the undergraduate level means that a student is doing at least satisfactory work and meeting the minimum requirements for the course. The student attends class regularly, hands in all of the course assignments, and demonstrates a basic level of understanding of course concepts.

A “C” grade at the graduate level means that a student is doing inconsistent work. The student does not contribute to class regularly, fails to complete some of the course assignments, and/or fails to demonstrate a basic level of understanding of course concepts.

A “D” or “E” grade at the undergraduate level means that a student is doing unacceptable work, demonstrating a complete lack of understanding of course concepts.

A “D” or “F” grade at the graduate level means that a student is doing unacceptable work, demonstrating a lack of understanding of course concepts.

An “XE” denotes failure due to academic dishonesty. See the website referenced above for the Academic Integrity Policy.

Instructor’s Late Assignment Policy
Late assignments will result in point deductions unless prior approval of instructor is provided.

Please carefully proofread assignments before handing them in, seeking help if needed. I will hand papers back if excessive spelling, syntax, or grammar issues make it difficult to read the assignment. Resubmitted assignments will be subject to the late assignment policy listed above.

Assignments

Discussion Board Posts (15 points)

This course is online only. For this reason, it is imperative that students participate in discussions on Blackboard. Each week will have its own discussion board space on Blackboard. Please post at least once for each week (start a new thread) as well as respond to at least one other student’s post (reply in their thread). Both the original and response posts are worth .5 points. You can post a response, personal reflection, or critique related to any content from the week’s readings or lecture slides. The instructor may provide prompts, but please feel free to post on anything that was relevant to you in the material covered that week. Posts are due by 11:59 PM on Sunday of each week.

Differences of opinion are welcomed; however, please be sensitive and use respectful language on all discussion board posts. It is ok to offer thoughtful reflections on your own personal experience and to challenge the ideas of other students. It is unacceptable to make disparaging remarks about any group of individuals. Students who use disrespectful language may be asked to abstain from future discussion board posts and will not receive credit for this assignment.

To earn points for this assignment, you should offer thoughtful comments (at least 100 words per week for graduate students and at least 80 words per week for undergraduate students) that raise questions and further the discussion, offering examples when necessary. Points may be deducted for excessive spelling and grammar problems.

Quizzes (10 points each, 20 points total)

There will be two online quizzes that cover the assigned readings. Each quiz will have 20 multiple choice questions, drawn primarily from the Morrow & Messinger textbook, though questions from lectures, films, and supplemental readings may be included. Each question will be worth .5 points. Quizzes will be open for 48 hours (2 days) after they are posted online. You will have 45 minutes to complete each quiz. Once you begin the quiz online, you will not be able to exit and re-enter it. Opening other web browsers on your computer will cause the quiz to automatically close. Both quizzes are closed-book; I trust that you will comply with this requirement. Please do not share answers with other students or take the test with other students. Dishonesty in completing quizzes can result in a failing grade and referral to the School of Social Work’s Academic Standards Committee.

Film reflection paper (15 points)

Please watch a film that features an LGBTQ character from the attached list (or another one of your choice if cleared first by instructor) and write a reflection paper. Please use American Psychological Association (APA) format, 6th edition. In this paper, please address the following:

- How does this film portray LGBTQ individuals? Did you notice any strengths or weaknesses with this portrayal?
- Can you relate this film to the course content (this could be from any of the course materials)?
- What are some of the cultural factors present in the film that may play a role in this character’s gender identity or sexual orientation identity? In what ways does this character experience discrimination or oppression?
- What was your personal reaction to this character or those around him/her?

It is ok to use first-person for this paper. Undergraduate and graduate student papers must be no more than two pages (does not include cover page or references, if used). Please submit your paper in Word format (or other compatible format, but no PDFs please) via Blackboard.
Suggested Film List (note: some films may contain violent or graphic scenes – you may want to check the rating first):

Social Service Agency Project (25 points)

This assignment requires that you investigate/visit a local agency. This can be an agency that either offers services specifically for the LGBTQ population or a general social service agency. You may also use your field internship or place of employment, if applicable, for this assignment. No matter which kind of agency you choose, you are required to speak to someone involved with this agency. All projects should contain your own reflections on your investigation of this agency and your overall opinion on the agency’s responsiveness to LGBTQ individuals and their families. Please present your findings as a PowerPoint presentation.

Each student must visit a different social service agency to avoid duplication of information. Please obtain approval by emailing the instructor with name of the agency you wish to visit.

Please provide the following components in your final project:

- A brief background of the agency, including how long it has existed, where it is located, source of funding, and main focus
- Who did you speak with? What is this person’s role?
- Is the agency sensitive to the needs of the LGBTQ population? How can you tell? Do their intake forms or other documents use language that is welcoming to this group?
- What resources are available for the LGBTQ population if members are involved with this agency?
- How does this agency address/meet the needs of the LGBTQ population? Some examples may be:
  - Does this agency have any policies (non-discrimination or other) regarding LGBTQ clients or employees?
  - Are the partners/families of LGBT employees offered the same benefits as heterosexual partners?
  - Are there any trainings offered for the staff on working with the LGBTQ population?
  - Do their materials reflect an openness or bias toward the LGBTQ population?
  - What is the overall climate toward LGBTQ clients, employees, and their families?
  - What could the agency do in order to be more sensitive to this population?
  - Any other ways you can think of?
- Do you believe that this agency is doing all it can to meet the needs of the LGBTQ population?

Undergraduate student presentations should be at least 10 slides and graduate student presentations should be at least 12 slides. Please submit your project via Blackboard.
