Course description:

This reading and writing intensive class will explore the history of the Ottoman empire from its origins through its "classical" period, the history of east-west relations in the early modern Mediterranean, and the ways in which historians write history. Students will also engage in history writing of their own. The class will thus benefit diligent students in multiple ways. First, students will obtain an understanding of the origins and development of an empire that left a deep mark on the history not only of the Mediterranean, but also of Europe and the Near East at large. This includes studying Ottoman institutions, economic, social, cultural, and daily life. Second, students will become better equipped to understand the complexities of intercultural contact. This will be achieved by studying the commercial, political, and cultural relations between the Ottoman empire and the western world in the early modern period. Third, the history of the Ottoman empire and its relations with the west provides a particularly fruitful occasion for addressing the ways in which historians study the past because of the important political implications of much historical work on the subject. Students will thus become acquainted with the foundations of historical literacy: sources, studies, research basics, evaluation of scholarly arguments. Last, but not least, this discussion-based class presupposes a great deal of in-class participation and formal writing, which will help students hone their ability to present their own arguments, both verbally and in writing.

Requested designation: Social and Behavioral Sciences-SB

Note: separate proposal is required for each designation requested

Eligibility:

Permanent numbered courses must have completed the university's review and approval process.

For the rules governing approval of omnibus courses, contact the General Studies Program Office at (480) 965-0739.

Area(s) proposed course will serve:

A single course may be proposed for more than one core or awareness area. A course may satisfy a core area requirement and more than one awareness area requirements concurrently, but may not satisfy requirements in two core areas simultaneously, even if approved for those areas. With departmental consent, an approved General Studies course may be counted toward both the General Studies requirement and the major program of study.

Checklists for general studies designations:

Complete and attach the appropriate checklist
- Literacy and Critical Inquiry core courses (L)
- Mathematics core courses (MA)
- Computer/statistics/quantitative applications core courses (CS)
- Humanities, Fine Arts and Design core courses (HU)
- Social and Behavioral Sciences core courses (SB)
- Natural Sciences core courses (SO/SG)
- Global Awareness courses (G)
- Historical Awareness courses (H)
- Cultural Diversity in the United States courses (C)

A complete proposal should include:
- Signed General Studies Program Course Proposal Cover Form
- Criteria Checklist for the area
- Course Syllabus
- Table of Contents from the textbook, and/or lists of course materials

Arizona State University Criteria Checklist for

SOCIAL AND BEHAVIORAL SCIENCES [SB]

Rationale and Objectives

The importance of the social and behavioral sciences is evident in both the increasing number of scientific inquiries into human behavior and the amount of attention paid to those inquiries. In both private and public sectors people rely on social scientific findings to assess the social consequences of large-scale economic, technological, scientific, and cultural changes.

Social scientists' observations about human behavior and their unique perspectives on human events make an important contribution to civic dialogue. Today, those insights are particularly crucial due to the growing economic and political interdependence among nations.

Courses proposed for General Studies designation in the Social and Behavioral Sciences area must demonstrate emphases on: (1) social scientific theories and principles, (2) the methods used to acquire knowledge about cultural or social events and processes, and (3) the impact of social scientific understanding on the world.
Proposer: Please complete the following section and attach appropriate documentation.

ASU--[SB] CRITERIA

A SOCIAL AND BEHAVIORAL SCIENCE [SB] course should meet all of the following criteria. If not, a rationale for exclusion should be provided.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>YES</th>
<th>NO</th>
<th>Identify Documentation Submitted</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

1. Course is designed to advance basic understanding and knowledge about human interaction.

2. Course content emphasizes the study of social behavior such as that found in:
   - ANTHROPOLOGY
   - ECONOMICS
   - CULTURAL GEOGRAPHY
   - HISTORY

3. Course emphasizes:
   a. the distinct knowledge base of the social and behavioral sciences (e.g., sociological anthropological).
   OR
   b. the distinct methods of inquiry of the social and behavioral sciences (e.g., ethnography, historical analysis).

4. Course illustrates use of social and behavioral science perspectives and data.

THE FOLLOWING TYPES OF COURSES ARE EXCLUDED FROM THE [SB] AREA EVEN THOUGH THEY MIGHT GIVE SOME CONSIDERATION TO SOCIAL AND BEHAVIORAL SCIENCE CONCERNS:

- Courses with primarily fine arts, humanities, literary, or philosophical content.
- Courses with primarily natural or physical science content.
- Courses with predominantly applied orientation for professional skills or training purposes.
- Courses emphasizing primarily oral, quantitative, or written skills.

Weeks 6-7, to provide another example, look at the Ottomans' effect on the broader Mediterranean. How do we reconcile accounts focusing on politics, culture, or trade? Class Attendance

Total:

* = points automatically awarded upon timely submission

Attendance: except for the first occurrence, each absence not covered by applicable university regulations will reduce the final grade by 2.5 points (say, three missed classes—loss of 5 points).

LATE ASSIGNMENTS will not be accepted except when due to reasons covered by university regulations. You may be asked to provide evidence in support of your request to turn in your assignment after the date and time it was due. At the instructor’s discretion, exceptions due to extraordinary circumstances may be granted on one-by-one basis.

Work that does not adhere to the assignment guidelines, for example analysis of unapproved material will receive a score of zero (0). Work in which plagiarism is detected will receive a score of zero (0) and other, more substantial penalties, may also be assessed. On plagiarism see the section on academic integrity below.

III. Attendance and Office Hours:
This course involves a great deal of hands-on work in class with sources and studies. Absenteeism will greatly diminish your chances to acquire the skills and knowledge necessary for obtaining a good final grade. Attendance is mandatory. You will lose 2.5 points per missed meeting except for the first occurrence prior to Spring Break, and the first occurrence after Spring Break. No exceptions without documented/allowed per university regulations reason (sickness, observance of religious holidays, university events, etc.) will be made (consult ACD 304–04: Accommodation for Religious Practices: http://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd304-04.html; ACD 304–02: Missed Classes Due to University-Sanctioned Activities: http://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd304-02.html). Two and a half points can easily be the difference between two grades.

I WILL NOT REPEAT OR POST ANY INFORMATION ON-LINE.

OFFICE HOURS: Tuesday and Thursday, 4:00 pm – 5:00 pm, or by appointment (typically for Tuesday or Thursday), FAB N234

If you have trouble with something, say something: You are strongly encouraged to come to office hours and discuss any difficult points. Office hours, at the same time, are no substitute for individual preparation. You are required to come prepared. You must have already read and sought to understand the readings you would like to discuss.

Important note:
IN ACCORDANCE WITH UNIVERSITY GUIDELINES, YOUR PROFESSOR IS AVAILABLE TO PRIVATELY DISCUSS ANY NEEDS, INCLUDING DISABILITY ACCOMMODATIONS.

IV. CLASS GUIDELINES
By this stage in life, most students have internalized a reasonable level of basic ethics. Nevertheless, here is a simple guide for the semester.

1. Academic Integrity: Generally, each student is responsible to observe the college rules concerning academic integrity found at https://provost.asu.edu/academicintegrity. Specifically, it is required that all work submitted will be a student's own. Therefore, it is necessary to give credit to all material used in building your paper by citing all words, content, and/or ideas taken from primary and secondary works and used in your paper. Cite these upon each occasion that you have drawn upon them (that is, it is not enough to cite a source only once in your paper if you use it on more than one occasion). It is forbidden to submit the work of another as one’s own as well as to submit one’s own work from another class without prior authorization by your professor. Any student found to have violated the college’s academic standards will be subject to penalties. These include, as a minimum, a significant reduction of the score for assignments in which a single plagiarized sentence is found or a score of 0 for any assignment in which more than a single plagiarized sentence is found. Potentially, plagiarism may result in exclusion from the university.

2. Respect the Learning Environment: Avoid any action that may disturb the lecturer or other students. In case of doubt, simply consider if an action contributes to the purpose and benefit of the class as a whole. Turn-off pagers and cell phones to prevent disrupting class. Exceptions will be made for emergencies, such as child-care needs, or other critical issues. Computers are a most useful learning tool. I will not police the way you use them in class, but no points are awarded for simply being present. Hence, being physically present in class but using your computer for purposes other than working for this class does not have any positive effect on your final grade or provide you with any positive return to your investment in this class.

Agree to disagree: Learning can be challenging on many levels. Some issues we will discuss may be perceived as sensitive and controversial. You are asked to respect everyone’s right to hold views different from your own. Vigorous debate in class that is based on the class material is a most useful learning tool. The promotion of one’s personal take on a given matter through blanket, general statements, however, is of no use to the learning process and is therefore poor use of a precious resource: time. Be thoughtful; some statements may be interpreted as hostile and offensive. Finally, the goal of your instructor is to foster your knowledge of past cultures, your analytical skills, and your ability to make well-argued cases. Hence expect your instructor to challenge any views and/or to play the devil’s advocate whenever he feels that this will foster the learning process.

Threatening Behavior: All students are expected to maintain proper conduct. Consult http://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/ssm/ssm104-02.html: “Interfering with the peaceful conduct of university-related business or activities or remaining on campus grounds after a request to leave may be considered a crime.”

3. Email Correspondence: Throughout the semester, I will send course announcements to the class via e-mail, whenever necessary. I will use your official college e-mail addresses only. Please be sure that your accounts are working and check them regularly. Messages will not be sent to non-college e-mail addresses. If you wish to contact me, e-mail should only be used for scheduling appointments or for any other brief communication. E-mail is not appropriate for substantive questions about the course material. For the latter, visit office hours or schedule an appointment. Please adhere to a standard courteous format for email correspondence. Barring emergencies on my end I will answer e-mails with appropriate content as soon as I can, typically within 48 hours. You should not expect me to answer during the weekend (though I may), during holidays, or during the spring break, and I will not answer to e-mails that do not adhere to the guidelines in this paragraph.
Course/Instructor Evaluation
NCIAS evaluation policy statement “The course/instructor evaluation for this course will be conducted online 7-10 days before the last official day of classes of each semester. Your response(s) to the course/instructor are anonymous and will not be returned to your instructor until after grades have been submitted. The use of a course/instructor evaluation is theoretically an important process that allows our college to (1) help faculty improve their instruction, (2) help administrators evaluate instructional quality, (3) ensure high standards of teaching, and (4) ultimately improve instruction and student learning over time. Completion of the evaluation is not required for you to pass this class and will not affect your grade, but your cooperation and participation in this process is critical. About two weeks before the class finishes, watch for an e-mail with "NCIAS Course/Instructor Evaluation" in the subject heading. The email will be sent to your official ASU e-mail address, so make sure ASU has your current email address on file.” You can check this online at the following URL: http://www.asu.edu/epoupdate/

FINAL NOTE:
I may make adjustments to this syllabus, such as altering the topic of a specific meeting or substituting some readings with others, if I feel that this would facilitate the learning process.
