Rationale and Objectives

Literacy is here defined broadly as communicative competence in written and oral discourse. Critical inquiry involves the gathering, interpretation, and evaluation of evidence. Any field of university study may require unique critical skills which have little to do with language in the usual sense (words), but the analysis of spoken and written evidence pervades university study and everyday life. Thus, the General Studies requirements assume that all undergraduates should develop the ability to reason critically and communicate using the medium of language.

The requirement in Literacy and Critical Inquiry presumes, first, that training in literacy and critical inquiry must be sustained beyond traditional First Year English in order to create a habitual skill in every student; and, second, that the skills become more expert, as well as more secure, as the student learns challenging subject matter. Thus, the Literacy and Critical Inquiry requirement stipulates two courses beyond First Year English.

Most lower-level [L] courses are devoted primarily to the further development of critical skills in reading, writing, listening, speaking, or analysis of discourse. Upper-division [L] courses generally are courses in a particular discipline into which writing and critical thinking have been fully integrated as means of learning the content and, in most cases, demonstrating that it has been learned.

Students must complete six credit hours from courses designated as [L], at least three credit hours of which must be chosen from approved upper-division courses, preferably in their major. Students must have completed ENG 101, 107, or 105 to take an [L] course.

Notes:

1. ENG 101, 107 or ENG 105 must be prerequisites
2. Honors theses, XXX 493 meet [L] requirements
3. The list of criteria that must be satisfied for designation as a Literacy and Critical Inquiry [L] course is presented on the following page. This list will help you determine whether the current version of your course meets all of these requirements. If you decide to apply, please attach a current syllabus, or handouts, or other documentation that will provide sufficient information for the General Studies Council to make an informed decision regarding the status of your proposal.
Proposer: Please complete the following section and attach appropriate documentation.

Policy on grades
If you have any questions about a grade from homework, a paper, a quiz, etc., you have until the next scheduled class after I give back your assessment to approach me and discuss it; be specific and clear about your question and concern; all grade questions must be submitted in writing.
Please feel free to contact me anytime to clarify assignments or your responsibilities before they are due; all inquiries are appreciated.

Policy on classroom behavior, attendance, make-ups
--Late homework assignments, make up for quizzes, and delayed presentations will not be accepted. Students must provide officially acceptable documentation for extenuating circumstances to make up any missed work. (See faculty for details)
--Attendance- Mandatory for all class sessions; two (2) or more formally unexplained and unexcused absences and without documentation will result in a reduction of your overall grade; two points will be taken off for every missed class session. Accommodations will be made for ASU officially sanctioned Religious Holidays and/or due to University-Sanctioned Activities; it is students’ responsibility to make the faculty aware ahead of time. Leaving for Fall/Spring Break or end of semester early is not acceptable!
--Habitual late arrival &/or early departure to/from class will also affect grade, one point each time. Students must be present in class at the time assignments are due and accepted.
--Use of pagers, cell phones, recording devices, etc. is strictly prohibited from the time class begins until it ends. Be sure to turn all off! Reproducing or Selling of any course material is also strictly prohibited. [ASU policies ACD 304-02, 04, 06]

Withdrawals, and Incompletes
Please contact your academic advisor for information and updates for the semester.

Citation & references
Please follow Student Success (Writing Center) recommendations on Citation and Reference Style and be consistent with both. Writing Center DPC help- 602/ 496-0354; Post Office L1-34.
Academic Integrity

Members of this class are expected to submit their own written work. Plagiarism is defined as taking writings or ideas from someone else and passing them off as one’s own writings or ideas. A student who commits an act of cheating (giving / receiving) or plagiarism will receive a grade of zero for the course. Buying papers falls under this category as well.

Requirements

A] Leading Discussion; 20 grade points

Students will be divided into groups; each group will facilitate a discussion, one group a week, based on the online assignments corresponding to the readings. The group leading class will create a Power Point presentation, which will go over the assignment and open dialogue. Students must submit the completed PPP with answers for faculty review and approval at least 24 hours before their assigned class session, in order to get course credit. Please be sure to follow the guidelines from the discussion evaluation sheet. [must include all necessary citations and a reference page] No videos, U-tube clips, etc.

Themes: Arizona, Communication/Media, Family; Religion; Education; Politics; Economy; Healthcare; Diversity; and Technology.

This 400 level class is designed to give you control over your own learning; this means that the assigned readings and homework assignments are meant to help you better understand the content and better prepare you for class discussions and the quizzes. I encourage you to read the material carefully, complete all assignments before class session, actively participate, and make appropriate adjustments to your answers. If you do not, you will only hurt your own academic development; so please complete all work and actively participate in class. The faculty, in this case, is to guide the process rather than tell you what to learn and think or force you to learn and think. However, the faculty will intercede, push, and challenge the class through debate, questioning and at times playing the devil’s advocate, etc.!

B] Quizzes; 4X 7.5 pts each; 30 grade points total

Quizzes cover course readings and assignment discussions, etc.; students will be involved in the decision of quiz type. Example: Combination of Multiple Choice, True/False, Short Answers and Fill-in the Blank.

C] Research; 50 grade points total

1] Individual papers- in same group and theme, but different current topic, thesis question, etc.

2] Each student will choose a current topic in Arizona, from the group theme chosen; it may be best to choose one that is academically tied to your own area of studies or interest (if possible). Topic

3] Pose a question that you would like to investigate about the topic, defining a problem or issue to explore in the State of Arizona. Students in a group cannot have the same thesis question. Thesis Question

4] Review academic scholarly sources (academic peer reviewed books and scholarly journals) that will help you answer your thesis question. For information on what constitutes an academic/scholarly source, please check with a librarian or the Student Success office for help. Wikipedia is not an academic source!

A] Choose four [4-minimum] of the strongest sources. Prepare an annotated bibliography for your paper based on the 4 [minimum] chosen sources; you can have more. You can also add newspaper articles or information from an organization’s website as supplements to the main four academic sources. Along with the annotation, provide three major arguments you will use for your analysis, based on your findings so far. Annotated Bibliography
Requirements continued- research paper

5] Then, find an expert, in the field of the topic, to interview. Create at least ten [10 or more] relevant questions for the interview. The questions should complement or supplement your research findings. [faculty approval of expert needed to proceed] Informational Interview

6] Finally, after collecting all information (from research and interview) put together a brief narrative summary of findings followed by your analysis [with three major points], providing evidence for your views from the research itself, and leading to a strong conclusion on the topic. Paper draft

7] Make an appointment with the Writing Center to have someone review your paper draft. Be sure to get confirmation from them, indicating that you went, had your paper draft reviewed and were given solid suggestions on which to work. Submit completed paper, with Writing Center confirmation, to faculty on due date in class. (W.C confirmation Required! With final paper) You may also need to go back a second time to check on rewrites- optional. Final paper submission

Please do not quote at all in your paper; your narrative should paraphrase the information only [with proper citations]; the analytical arguments [three major points] must be your own original ideas. The faculty is assessing your understanding of material, analytical skills and critical thinking process.

Research Paper deadlines; Dates; Points:

Research Paper due: Tuesday 12/03/13- class 40
Sub Total: 100 sub pts ÷ 2

D] Notes- All submitted written work must be typed in Times New Roman, 12-point font, double spaced, with one inch margins all around, and in black color. Please staple all submissions given to faculty! When discussing your findings, again please do not quote; paraphrase the information only! Assessment is based on your understanding of the material and ability to put concepts and ideas drawn from different sources together, make analytical sense of them, and draw a conclusion.

E] Academic Sources – for the final research product
- The 4 main Sources must be current (all four must be published no earlier than 2009);
- Sources must be academic/scholarly peer reviewed publications; at least four!

Faculty Personal Message
Dear students-
This course will cover many issues that may be deemed as controversial; the content is meant to make us all think, question and then dissect information about our interpretation on the place of various institutions in our lives and possible perceptions or consequences of these ideas. I ask that you review all items with an open mind. If you have any concerns, please contact me anytime.
At all times, be respectful. ASU Policy against threatening behavior, per the Student Services Manual, http://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/ssm/ssm104-02.html, “Handling Disruptive, Threatening, or Violent Individuals on Campus, or in Class (faculty).” The main point is to make the course safe for all and to have a great learning experience: academic, thought-provoking yet fun! Your cooperation in making the classroom an inclusive welcome place for everyone is appreciated. 😊

Second, all course content, including lectures, discussions, presentations, etc., are under copyright material protection and students may not give or sell notes taken or tape record any portion of course information. (see ACD 304–06, “Commercial Note Taking Services” for more information).

Third, in a 400 level college course the student is essentially his/her own teacher. The faculty is a facilitator helping students learn how to critically think, not tell you what to think or force you to do so. This class is designed to give you control over your own learning; this means that the assigned readings and homework assignments are meant to help you better understand the content, give you a foundation for research, and better prepare you for the quizzes. I encourage you to read the material carefully, complete all assignments, actively participate in class when going over the material, and make the necessary adjustments to your answers. It is your responsibility to complete all work!

As the facilitator, the faculty will also play the role of a ‘devil’s advocate,’ challenging ideas to give students the opportunity to develop their debating skills; be sure to not get intimidated nor take such interactions as a way to silence you- Just the opposite, these occasions are for you to seize the moment!

On another point, the research project is a semester long task; please plan out your time management and schedule it to best serve your success. The discussion assignment and research project are also an exercise of group cooperation; so be sure to all try your best to work together. Please feel free to contact me or come in to see me any time you have questions or concerns.

Finally, I check my emails from Mondays 12noon on until Fridays 12noon. Please give me 24 hours to respond to your inquiry by email. Emails received Fridays after 12noon will be answered Mondays after 12noon. Thank you for your cooperation, Dr. Lattouf

Ground rules for Discussing Issues/Topics

The objective of establishing ground rules is to honor speech, create a safe space, and acknowledge the dignity, respect, and worth of everyone in the classroom. This can be accomplished by establishing strong expectations from the very beginning about how class discussions will proceed, particularly those involving controversial and difficult topics. Explicitly stating the norms for dialogue will establish a climate of understanding about how to engage in difficult discussions.

• In order to create a climate for open and honest dialogue and to encourage the broadest range of viewpoints, it is important for class participants to treat each other with respect. Name calling, accusations, verbal attacks, sarcasm, and other negative exchanges are counterproductive to successful teaching and learning about topics.

• The purpose of class discussions is to generate greater understanding about different topics. The expression of the broadest range of ideas, including dissenting views, accomplishes this goal. However, in expressing viewpoints, students should try to raise questions and comments in ways that will promote learning, rather than defensiveness and conflict in other students. Thus, questions and comments should be asked or stated in such a way that will promote greater insight into and awareness of topics as opposed to anger and conflict.

• Learning is both about sharing different views and actively listening to those with different views. Students in this class are expected to do both. Learning is maximized when many different viewpoints are expressed in the classroom.

• Keep the discussion and comments on the topic, not on the individual. Don't personalize the dialogue. Rather than personalizing the dialogue, please direct challenging comments or questions to the instructor or the entire class.

• Remember that it is OK to disagree with each other and debate; let's agree to disagree. The purpose of dialogue and discussion is not to reach a consensus, nor to convince each other of different viewpoints. Rather, the purpose of dialogue in the classroom is to reach higher levels of learning by becoming aware of and examining different viewpoints and opinions.

• Everyone is expected to share. Keep in mind that the role of the faculty is to provoke discussion, make sure that everyone's voice is heard, and that the classroom is a safe space for all.

• Finally, the main goal of class discussions is to encourage each student to critically think through questioning oneself and ideas, not tell others what to think!!!

Good Luck Everyone!
