READINGS:
(In addition, a suggested list of additional books and movies is included at the end of the syllabus)

INSTRUCTIONAL PROCEDURES:

Lecture: This is a course exploring English history from the Hanoverian succession to the present. The basis of this exploration will be the lecture format, within which the instructor will provide a broad overview of the history within the context of specific questions.

Discussion/student participation: At various points there will be a general in-class discussion of the readings for the day, with the focus on student input and observation.

REQUIREMENTS:

Exams: There will be three exams (two midterms and a non-cumulative final) given during the semester, with each exam worth 20% of your grade for the course. Students who have an excused absence that causes them to miss an exam can make up the exam at a later date, with arrangements to be made on a case-by-case basis.

Discussion: Student participation in class is required, with such participation worth 20% of your grade in the course. The first part of that grade (10%) will be earned by a mandatory meeting with the instructor during his office hours, to be made during the first three weeks of the semester. The remainder of the grade (10%) will be assessed based on the student’s contribution to the class discussions over the readings assigned for that day. While participation in every discussion is not expected, students are required to be regular, frequent, and informed contributors.

Reviews: On the day that each supplemental reading (indicated in bold) is scheduled to be discussed, students are required to submit to Turnitin.com a 3-4 page review of that work, which should summarize the reading and offer the reader’s opinion of what they read. The reviews will be graded on content, organization, and grammar; the lowest grade will be dropped and the other two will each be worth 10% of your grade for the course. NOTE: Plagiarism will not be tolerated, and students found guilty of plagiarism will be subject to the sanctions for academic misconduct outlined in the SCC Student Handbook.

Attendance: Attendance will be taken at each class meeting and will be a factor in determining the final grade in borderline cases. If you miss two classes during the first two weeks of the semester, you will be automatically withdrawn from the course. If you miss more than three classes, the instructor reserves the right to drop you from the course. It is the student’s responsibility to drop the course if they stop attending class. Absences do not relieve students of the responsibility for missed assignments and exams. If you miss a class, it is imperative that you get the notes from a classmate.

GRADES: Your final grade in the course will be determined by taking the average of the three exam scores, your participation grade, and the quizzes: 90=A, 80=B, 70=C, 60=D, 40=F. As noted above, attendance will be a factor in determining the final grade in borderline cases.
