Course information:
Copy and paste current course information from Class Search/Course Catalog.

Academic Unit: School of Historical, Philosophical & Religious Studies
Department: Religious Studies

Subject REL Number 350 Title Hinduism
Units: 3

Is this a cross-listed course? No
If yes, please identify course(s)

Is this a shared course? No If so, list all academic units offering this course

Course description:

Requested designation: Literacy and Critical Inquiry-L
Note: a separate proposal is required for each designation requested

Eligibility:
Permanent numbered courses must have completed the university's review and approval process.
For the rules governing approval of omnibus courses, contact the General Studies Program Office at (480) 965-0739.

Area(s) proposed course will serve:
A single course may be proposed for more than one core or awareness area. A course may satisfy a core area requirement and more than one awareness area requirements concurrently, but may not satisfy requirements in two core areas simultaneously, even if approved for those areas. With departmental consent, an approved General Studies course may be counted toward both the General Studies requirement and the major program of study.

Checklists for general studies designations:
Complete and attach the appropriate checklist
- Literacy and Critical Inquiry core courses (L)
- Mathematics core courses (MA)
- Computer/statistics/quantitative applications core courses (CS)
- Humanities, Fine Arts and Design core courses (HU)
- Social and Behavioral Sciences core courses (SB)
- Natural Sciences core courses (NS/SG)
- Global Awareness courses (G)
- Historical Awareness courses (H)
- Cultural Diversity in the United States courses (C)

A complete proposal should include:
☑ Signed General Studies Program Course Proposal Cover Form
☑ Criteria Checklist for the area
☑ Course Catalog description
☑ Course Syllabus
☑ Table of Contents from the textbook and list of required readings/books

Contact information:
Name Cindy Baade
Phone 480-965-7183
Mail code 4503 E-mail cynthia.baade@asu.edu

Department Chair/Director approval: (Required)
Chair/Director name (Typed): Matthew J. Garcia
Chair/Director (Signature): [Signature]
Date: 1/27/14

Rev. 1/94, 4/95, 7/98, 4/00, 1/02, 10/08, 11/11/ 12/11, 7/12
Arizona State University Criteria Checklist for

LITERACY AND CRITICAL INQUIRY - [L]

Rationale and Objectives

Literacy is here defined broadly as communicative competence in written and oral discourse. Critical inquiry involves the gathering, interpretation, and evaluation of evidence. Any field of university study may require unique critical skills which have little to do with language in the usual sense (words), but the analysis of spoken and written evidence pervades university study and everyday life. Thus, the General Studies requirements assume that all undergraduates should develop the ability to reason critically and communicate using the medium of language.

The requirement in Literacy and Critical Inquiry presumes, first, that training in literacy and critical inquiry must be sustained beyond traditional First Year English in order to create a habitual skill in every student; and, second, that the skills become more expert, as well as more secure, as the student learns challenging subject matter. Thus, the Literacy and Critical Inquiry requirement stipulates two courses beyond First Year English.

Most lower-level [L] courses are devoted primarily to the further development of critical skills in reading, writing, listening, speaking, or analysis of discourse. Upper-division [L] courses generally are courses in a particular discipline into which writing and critical thinking have been fully integrated as means of learning the content and, in most cases, demonstrating that it has been learned.

Students must complete six credit hours from courses designated as [L], at least three credit hours of which must be chosen from approved upper-division courses, preferably in their major. Students must have completed ENG 101, 107, or 105 to take an [L] course.

Notes:

1. ENG 101, 107 or ENG 105 must be prerequisites
2. Honors theses, XXX 493 meet [L] requirements
3. The list of criteria that must be satisfied for designation as a Literacy and Critical Inquiry [L] course is presented on the following page. This list will help you determine whether the current version of your course meets all of these requirements. If you decide to apply, please attach a current syllabus, or handouts, or other documentation that will provide sufficient information for the General Studies Council to make an informed decision regarding the status of your proposal.
Proposer: Please complete the following section and attach appropriate documentation.

ASU - [L] CRITERIA

TO QUALIFY FOR [L] DESIGNATION, THE COURSE DESIGN MUST PLACE A MAJOR EMPHASIS ON COMPLETING CRITICAL DISCOURSE—AS EVIDENCED BY THE FOLLOWING CRITERIA:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>YES</th>
<th>NO</th>
<th>Identify Documentation Submitted</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>CRITERION 1:</th>
<th>At least 50 percent of the grade in the course should depend upon writing, including prepared essays, speeches, or in-class essay examinations. Group projects are acceptable only if each student gathers, interprets, and evaluates evidence, and prepares a summary report.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Syllabus, title pages and tables of contents from texts</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

1. Please describe the assignments that are considered in the computation of course grades—and indicate the proportion of the final grade that is determined by each assignment.

2. Also:

   Please circle, underline, or otherwise mark the information presented in the most recent course syllabus (or other material you have submitted) that verifies this description of the grading process—and label this information "C-1".

   C-1

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>CRITERION 2:</th>
<th>The composition tasks involve the gathering, interpretation, and evaluation of evidence</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Syllabus, title pages and tables of contents from texts</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

1. Please describe the way(s) in which this criterion is addressed in the course design.

2. Also:

   Please circle, underline, or otherwise mark the information presented in the most recent course syllabus (or other material you have submitted) that verifies this description of the grading process—and label this information "C-2".

   C-2

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>CRITERION 3:</th>
<th>The syllabus should include a minimum of two substantial writing or speaking tasks, other than or in addition to in-class essay exams</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Syllabus, title pages and tables of contents from texts</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

1. Please provide relatively detailed descriptions of two or more substantial writing or speaking tasks that are included in the course requirements.

2. Also:

   Please circle, underline, or otherwise mark the information presented in the most recent course syllabus (or other material you have submitted) that verifies this description of the grading process—and label this information "C-3".

   C-3
ASU - [L] CRITERIA

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>YES</th>
<th>NO</th>
<th>Identify Documentation Submitted</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>✗</td>
<td></td>
<td>Syllabus</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

CRITERION 4: These substantial writing or speaking assignments should be arranged so that the students will get timely feedback from the instructor on each assignment in time to help them do better on subsequent assignments. Intervention at earlier stages in the writing process is especially welcomed.

1. Please describe the sequence of course assignments—and the nature of the feedback the current (or most recent) course instructor provides to help students do better on subsequent assignments.

2. Also:

   Please circle, underline, or otherwise mark the information presented in the most recent course syllabus (or other material you have submitted) that verifies this description of the grading process—and label this information "C-4".

C-4
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Criteria (from checksheet)</th>
<th>How course meets spirit (contextualize specific examples in next column)</th>
<th>Please provide detailed evidence of how course meets criteria (i.e., where in syllabus)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1</td>
<td>The grade is based primarily on the three essay assignments and the two in-class exams (both 90% essay exams), but can be raised by good contributions to the class discussions or lowered by repeated absences.</td>
<td>See the sections on &quot;course requirements&quot; and &quot;grades&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>The essay assignments generally ask students to analyze an assigned passage from Hindu literature. Students must read the passage carefully, interpret what it is saying, and make an argument based on the passage for a particular interpretation of it.</td>
<td>This is found in the essay assignments themselves, and adumbrated in the syllabus under &quot;course requirements.&quot;</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>The course requirements include three separate, required essay assignments which are not identical with the midterm and final exams.</td>
<td>See the requirements as listed on the syllabus</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>The essay assignments are spaced about a month apart, and the essays almost always get corrected within a week of their being submitted. This gives students a couple of weeks to reflect on the comments on one paper (and in some cases to come to the professor's office to discuss the paper) before the next one has to be written. Many students improve greatly from one paper to the next, and several submit drafts and outlines for subsequent papers after not doing very well on the first.</td>
<td>The dates of the assignments on the sample syllabus are Feb. 13, April 3, and April 29.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Click on the title of the course for more details. Each column can be sorted by clicking on the column header. Courses found: 1

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Course</th>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Units</th>
<th>General Studies</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>REL 350</td>
<td>Hinduism</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>(L or HJ) &amp; G</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Studies diverse forms of Hinduism through its institutions, literature, folklore, art, and architecture.
Allow multiple enrollments: No  Primary course component: Lecture
Repeatable for credit: No  Grading method: Student Option
Offered by: College of Liberal Arts and Sciences – Historical, Philosophical & Religious Studies, Sch
Pre-requisites: Minimum 24 hours; ENG 102, 105 or 108 with C or better
Instructor: Anne Feldhaus, Professor of Religious Studies
Office Location: COOR 6656
Office Hours: MW 1:15-2:45
E-mail: Anne.Feldhaus@asu.edu

Class Location: ED226
Schedule Line #: 19196
Class Day/Time: MW 3-4:30

Religious Studies
Main Office: COOR 4595, (480) 965-5778
Undergraduate Advising: COOR 3301, (480) 965-8364

Course Description:
An introduction to major texts, practices, and ideas of Hindu traditions in India.

General Studies, Knowledge and Skills Goals of the Course:
• knowledge of the history and major themes of Hindu religious traditions
• an understanding of roles of religion in individual and collective life in South Asia
• the ability to read and analyze primary and secondary texts
• the ability to discuss Hindu religious texts and practices orally and in written work

Required Reading:
Axel Michaels, Hinduism Past and Present.
Ainslie Embree, editor, Sources of Indian Tradition, volume 1.
Speaking of Šiva, translated by A. K. Ramanujan.
C. J. Fuller, The Camphor Flame.
Supplemental readings available on Blackboard and at the Alternative Copy Shop (SW corner of Mill and 10th Street, 480-829-7992, alttempe@alternativeprintandcopy.com. They advise that you call or email them first to make sure they have a copy for you to buy.)

Course Requirements
1. Regular ATTENDANCE.
2. Completion of READINGS before the class for which they are listed.
3. Informed PARTICIPATION in class discussions.
4. Writing three original PAPERS (approximately 3-5 pages each), due in hard copy IN CLASS on February 13, April 3, and April 29 AND electronically through SafeAssignment on Blackboard by 6 p.m. on the day the paper is due in class. (You must submit each paper both ways by the deadline.)
5. Making a MAP of South Asia, due in class on January 28.
6. Mid-term and final EXAMINATIONS, as listed.
SCHEDULE OF TOPICS AND ASSIGNMENTS

M. Jan. 7  Introduction to the course
W. Jan. 9  Introduction to the study of Hinduism; Indus Valley Civilization
READ Michaels, Hinduism Past and Present, pp. xvii, 3-32.

I. Vedic Religion
M. Jan. 14  The Vedas
READ Sources of Indian Tradition, Volume I, pp. 3-28; Michaels, pp. 33-36, 201-211.
W. Jan. 16  Vedic Hymns
REREAD Sources, pp. 7-28; READ Michaels, pp. 47-57; Thomas Hopkins, The Hindu Religious Tradition, pp. 14-30 (The book is on reserve in Hayden Library, and this chapter is included in the reading packet you can get from the Alternative Copy Shop).
M. Jan. 21  Martin Luther King Day! NO CLASS
W. Jan. 23  The Upanishads
READ Sources, pp. 29-39; Michaels, pp. 259-264; Hopkins, pp. 36-51 (available on Blackboard and on reserve at Hayden Library)
M. Jan. 28  The Upanishads, continued
REREAD Sources, pp. 29-39; MAP DUE
W. Jan. 30  Jainism (and Buddhism)
READ Sources, pp. 43-75; Michaels, pp. 36-38

II. Dharma and Moksha
M. Feb. 4  The Goals of Human Life: Pleasure and Power
READ Sources, pp. 203-12, 234-44, 254-60
W. Feb. 6  The Goals of Human Life, continued: Dharma
READ Sources, pp. 213-33; Michaels, pp. 71-158
M. Feb. 11  The Goals of Human Life, continued: Moksha, Renunciation, and Yoga
READ Michaels, pp. 315-325; Patrick Olivelle, “Ascetic Withdrawal or Social Engagement” (in reading packet at the Alternative Copy Shop; also available on Blackboard)
W. Feb. 13  Introduction to Indian philosophy
FIRST PAPER DUE (Analysis of an assigned passage from the Upanishads)
W. Feb. 18  Hindu Philosophy: Sāmkhya and Yoga
READ Sources, pp. 296-308; Michaels, 264-268
M. Feb. 20  Hindu Philosophy: Vedānta
READ Sources, pp. 308-19; Michaels, pp. 269-276

III. Classical Hindu Theism
M. Feb. 25  Introduction to the Hindu Epics and Purāṇas
READ Michaels, pp. 38-42, 58-62; LEARN the broad outlines of the Rāmāyaṇa and Mahābhārata
W. Feb. 27  The Bhagavad Gītā
READ Sources, pp. 276-80; The Bhagavad-Gītā, translated by Barbara Stoler Miller (the whole book! Buy a copy, or read it online as an e-book)
PARTICIPATE knowledgeably in class discussion on the Bhagavad Gītā
M. Mar. 4  Finish discussion of Gītā; review for midterm exam

W. Mar. 6  MIDTERM EXAM
M. Mar. 18  Puranic Gods and Goddesses
READ C. J. Fuller, The Camphor Flame, pp. 148-173; Michaels, pp. 211-223
W. Mar. 20  Puranic Gods and Goddesses, continued
READ Fuller, pp. 174-197; Michaels, pp. 223-227

IV. Hindu Ritual Life
M. Mar. 25  Purity and Pollution; Social Hierarchy
READ Michaels, pp. 159-200
W. Mar. 27  Society and Divinities
READ Fuller, pp. 3-56, Michaels, 226-241.
M. Apr.  1  Pūjā and Sacrifice; Village Rituals
READ Fuller, pp. 57-105, 128-154; Michaels, pp. 241-245
W. Apr. 3  Pilgrimages and Pilgrimage Festivals
READ Fuller, pp. 204-223; Michaels, pp. 283-295; SECOND PAPER DUE

V. Medieval Bhakti Movements
M. Apr. 8  Bhakti as Protest
READ A. K. Ramanujan, Speaking of Śiva, pp. 19-90
W. Apr. 10  Bhakti in History
READ Michaels, pp. 62-65, 252-259
M. Apr. 15  Women and Men, Devotees and Gods
READ Sources, pp. 365-69; Ramanujan, pp. 111-42
W. Apr. 17  Bhakti in Maharashtra: the Vākaris
READ selections from Says Tuka (poems by Tukaram, translated by Dilip Chitre, in reading packet from the Alternative Copy Shop and on Blackboard)
M. Apr. 22  Muslims and Hindus in India
READ Sources, pp. 381-391, 447-468; Michaels, pp. 43-47
W. Apr. 24  North Indian Sants and Sikhism
READ Sources, pp. 371-78, 493-500
M. Apr. 29  Review for final exam
THIRD PAPER DUE

FINAL EXAMINATION Monday, May 6, 12:10-2 p.m.

Grading:
- BASE GRADE: 50% papers; 50% exams
- Repeated absences (more than two) can lower your grade.
- Evidence of failure to do the readings on time can lower your grade.
- Thoughtful, informed participation (including good questions) can raise your grade.

Attendance, Make-ups:
You must attend every class. You must be on time to class.
Repeated absence or lateness will lower your grade.
Make-up exams will be available only if you have a documented health or family emergency.

Withdrawals: https://students.asu.edu/withdrawal
Incompletes: http://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/ssm/ssm203-09.html

Academic Honesty: The Faculty of Religious Studies abides by ASU’s Academic Integrity Policy.
SOURCES OF INDIAN TRADITION
SECOND EDITION
VOLUME ONE
FROM THE BEGINNING TO 1800
EDITED AND REVISED BY
AINSLIE T. EMBREE
CONTENTS

Preface to the Second Edition  xi
Preface to the First Edition  xv
Acknowledgments  xix
Explanatory Note and Guide to Pronunciation  xxi
Contributors  xxv
Chronology  xxvii
Map  xxxiv

PART I: THE BRAHMANICAL TRADITION: THE VEDIC PERIOD (R. N. Dandekar, revised)  x

Introduction (R. Weiler, revised)  3

Chapter 1  Cosmic and Ritual Order in Vedic Literature  7

Agni, 9; Heaven and Earth, 10; Varuna, 10; Indra, 12; The Sun, 13; Dawn, 14; Soma (1), 15; Soma (2), 16; The Primeval Sacrifice, 17; A Unnamed God, 19; The Origin of the World, 20; A Charm Against Jaundice, 21; A Charm Against Various Evils, 22; The Exorcism of Serpents, 23; Ritual Order: Techniques for the Sacred Fires, 24

Chapter 2  The Ultimate Reality in the Upanishads  29

The Sacrificial Horse, 30; Sacrifices—Unsteady Boats on the Ocean of Life, 31; The Five Sheaths, 32; The Real Self, 33; The Essential Reality Underlying the World, 36.

PART II: JAINISM AND BUDDHISM (A. L. Basham)  41

Introduction: The Background of Jainism and Buddhism  43

Chapter 3  The Basic Doctrines of Jainism  49

The Origin and Development of Jainism  49
Jain Doctrines and Practices  52
Jain Literature  58
Contents

Of Human Bondage, 59; The Man in the Well, 59; Kinsfolk Are No Comfort in Old Age, 61; All Creation Groans Together in Torment, 62; Creatures Great and Small, 63; The Eternal Law, 64; Respect for Life, 65; The Hero of Penance and Self-Control, 66; Cheerfully Endure All Things, 67; Wise Men and Fools, 68; Two Ways of Life, 69; The Refuge of All Creatures, 71; The Final Penance, 72; Moral Verses, 72.

Chapter 4 Jain Philosophy and Political Thought  76

Of Space and Time, 78; There is No Creator, 80; The Plurality of Souls, 82; The Ideal King I, 84; The Ideal King II, 85; Practical Advice on War and Peace, 87; The Miseries and Dangers of Politics, 88.

Chapter 5 Theravāda Buddhism  93

Basic Doctrines of Theravāda Buddhism  100

The Four Noble Truths, 100; The Nature of Consciousness and the Chain of Causation, 101; False Doctrines About the Soul, 103; The Simile of the Chariot, 105; Change and Identity, 106; The Process of Rebirth, 108; Karma, 108; Right Mindfulness, 109; The Last Instructions of the Buddha, 111; The Buddha in Nirvāṇa, 112; The City of Righteousness, 113.

The Ethics of Theravāda Buddhism  114

The Morals of the Monk, 115; Care of the Body, 116; “Lay Not Up for Yourselves Treasures upon Earth . . . .”, 117; The Virtue of Friendliness, 118; Hatred and Love, 119; Buddhism and Everyday Life, 120.

Society and the State in Theravāda Buddhism  125

How the World Evolved, 127; The Origin of Society and State, 128; The Ideal of Government, and the Decay and Growth of Civilization, 133; Conditions of the Welfare of Societies, 138; Birth Is No Criterion of Worth, 140; Ashoka: The Buddhist Emperor, 141.

Chapter 6 Mahāyāna Buddhism: “The Greater Vehicle”  153

The Bodhisattva, 160; The Mahāyāna Ideal is Higher Than That of the Theravāda, 160; The Suffering Savior, 161; The Lost Son, 163; Against Self-Mortification, 167; Joy in All Things, 168; The Good Deeds of the Bodhisattva, 169; The Evils of Meat-Eating, 170; The Gift of Food, 171; The Three Bodies of the Buddha, 172; Emptiness, 173; Faith in Emptiness, 175; Karma and Rebirth, 175; Suchness, 176; All Depends on the Mind, 177; Nirvāṇa Is Here and Now, 177; Praise of Dharma, 179; Perfect Wisdom Personified, 180; The Blessings of Peace, 181; The Divine Right (and Duty) of Kings, 182; Magical Utterances, 185.

Chapter 7 The Vehicle of the Thunderbolt and the Decline of Buddhism in India  188

To the Pure All Things Are Pure, 194; Everything is Buddha, 196.
PART III: THE HINDU WAY OF LIFE (V. Raghavan and R. N. Maldekar) 201

Introduction (A.T.E.) 203
The Four Ends of Man (V. R.) 209

Chapter 8  Dharma: The First End of Man (R.N.D.) 213

What is Dharma? 217; The Sources and Extent of Dharma, 218; Dharma Is Not Static, 220; Varna-Dharma or Organization of the Four Classes, 221; The Origin of Mixed Castes, 223; Introduction to Studenthood, 224; Marriage and Householder’s Duties, 226; The Position of Women, 228; The Hermite and the Ascetic, 229; The Life-Cycle Rites, 230.

Chapter 9  Artha: The Second End of Man (R.N.D.) 234

Kingship 237
The Origin of Kingship, 238; The Science of Polity, 240; Duties of a King, 242; The Seven Limbs of the State, 244; The Circle of States and Interstate Policy, 247; State Administration, 249.

Chapter 10  Kama: The Third End of Man (V. R., revised) 254

The Science of Love and Pleasure 256
The Man of Taste and Culture, 256; The Signs of a Girl in Love, 258; When Love Becomes Intense, 258; Remembered Love, 259; Love Song of the Dark Lord, 261; Shiva and Kama: Asceticism and Erotic Passion, 262; All Passion Spent, 263.

Aesthetics: Theory and Practice 264
Dramatic Theory and the Concept of Rasa, 266; Poetry, 268; Shakuntala, 270.

Chapter 11  Moksha: The Fourth End of Man 274

The Bhagavad Gita: Action and Devotion (R.N.D.) 276

Hindu Philosophy (V. R., revised) 296
Sankhya 302
Ishvarakrishna, 303.

Vedanta 308
Shankara, 308.
viii Contents

Purānic Theism: The Way of Devotion: (V. R., revised) 319
Devotion to Vīshnu as Lord, 323; Devotion to Shiva, 328; Devotion to Devi, the Goddess, 330.

The Tantric Way 332

Chapter 12 The Songs of Medieval Hindu Devotion (V. R., revised) 342

Śiva Bhakti, 345
Tirūnāvukkarāsi, 346; Jñānasambandha, 346; Mānīkkāvachakar, 346; Sundaramūrti, 347; Basanandas, 347; Mahādevī, 349; Lallā, 350.

Vishnu Bhakti, 351
The Álvārs, 351; Nammalvār, 352; Purandaradāsa, 353; Tukārām, 354; Tulśidās, 354; In Praise of Krishna, 359; Sūrdās, 359; Mirābāi, 365.

Devi Bhakti, 369
Rāmprāsād, 370.

Nirguṇa Bhakti and the Sant Tradition 371
Kabir, 373; Ravidās, 376.

PART IV: ISLAM IN MEDIEVAL INDIA (P. Hardy; revised by C. Brunner, and D. Lelyveld) 379

Introduction 381

Chapter 13 The Foundations of Islam in India 383
The Historical Background 384
The Dār al-Islām 385
Muslim Orthodoxy in India 391
Fiṭḥ: The Key to Paradise (Adīb), 391; Theology: The Perfection of Faith (‘Ābd al-Hāqq), 393; Propaganda: The Indian Proof (Mihrāb), 397.

The Shari'ā, or Islamic Code of Conduct 399
The Bases of Jurisprudence (al-Rāfi‘), 402; Guidance in the Shari'ā (the Hidāya), 404.

Chapter 14 The Muslim Ruler in India 408
The Legitimacy of Kingship 410
The Final End of Human Society Is the Worship of God (Bārmī), 410; Rulers Are Ordained by God (Hamadānī), 411; Obedience to the Sultan Is Commanded by God (Fakhr-i-Mudir), 412; Kingship Is Incompatible with Religious Ideals (Barni), 413; The War Between Good and Evil (Barni), 414; Man's Opposing Qualities and Their Political Implications (Barni), 415.

Duties and Responsibilities of a Muslim Ruler 416

The Ulemā and the Ruler (Fakhr-i-Mudir), 416; The Ruler as Protector of the Faith (Barni), 417; Consultation with Wise Counsellors (Barni), 419; Organizing the Government (Barni), 421; The Army (Barni), 422; The Perfect Ruler (Barni), 423; Abūl Fazl’s Theory of Rulership (Abūl Fazl), 425; The Declaration of Akbar’s Status as a Mujtahid (Bada’uni), 427; Against Rulers Misled by Wicked Ulemā (Sirhindi), 428.

The Ideal Social Order 430

The Four-Class Division of Society (Jalālī), 431; Divine Origin of the “Division of Labor” (Barni), 433; Rulers to Preserve the Social Order Willed by God (Barni), 435; The Necessity of Inequality (Bāqīr Khān), 436.

The Muslim Conquest and the Status of Hindus 437

Mahmūd of Ghazni (Birūnī; Firishta; Abūl Fazl), 437; The King's Duty to Convert Idolaters (Barni), 440; Are Hindus Zimmīs? (Hamadāni), 442; Rights of Hindus (Nizām ud-Dīn Ahmad; Bada’uni; Aurangzab), 443.

Chapter 15 Islamic Mysticism in India 447

Early Sufism in India 450

The Love of God ('Alī Hujwīrī), 451; Contemplation ('Alī Hujwīrī), 452; Seeking the Path (Sharaf ud-dīn Yahyā), 453; Renunciation (Sharaf ud-dīn Yahyā), 453

The Quest for God the Beloved and the Knowledge of God 454

The Steps of a Disciple (Sharaf ud-dīn Yahyā), 455; The Final Stage (Sharaf ud-dīn Yahyā), 456.

The Preservation of God's Transcendence at the Supreme Stage of Mystic Experience, 457

Subsistence and Annihilation ('Alī Hujwīrī), 457; True Contemplation is Ineffable ('Alī Hujwīrī), 458.

Sufi Acceptance of Orthodox Formalist Islam, 459

Orthodox Practice and Spiritual Experience Both Necessary ('Alī Hujwīrī), 459; The Superiority of the Prophets over the Saints ('Alī Hujwīrī), 460; The Pious Behavior of All Muslims (Amīr Hasan Sijzi), 461.

Syncretism and Orthodoxy under the Mughals 463

Akbar's Religious Outlook, 464
x Contents

The Discussion in the Hall of Worship (Bādūnī; Muhsin-i-Fānī), 465; The Divine Faith (Muhsin-i-Fānī; Bādūnī), 469.

Dārā Shikōh and Pantheism 471

The Mystic Path (Dārā Shikōh), 472; The Upanishads: God’s Most Perfect Revelation (Dārā Shikōh), 473.

Shaikh Ahmad Sirhindī: The Reaction to Pantheistic Mysticism, 475

Mystic Union with God Is Only Subjective (Shaikh Ahmad Sirhindī), 476.

Shāh Wali-Ullāh: Sufism and the Crisis of Islam in India, 478

Iṣlāhm, or Legal Interpretation (Wali-Ullāh), 479; The Unity of Interpretations of Mysticism (Wali-Ullāh), 480; The Islamic Community in India (Wali-Ullāh), 481.

Mystical Poetry and Popular Religion, 483

Shāh ʿAbdu’l-Latif, 484; Bullhe Shāh, 486; Waris Shāh, 487; Khwāja Mīr Dard, 488.

PART V: SIKHISM (A.T.E.) 491

Chapter 16 Sikhism: Faith and Practice 493

Guru Nānak (1469–1539): Life and Teachings 494

The Later Gurus and the Sikh Community 497

The Ādi Granth and Nanak Sākhis 501

Māl Mantra: The Basic Statement, 501; The Great Question: How Is Truth to Be Found?, 501; The Divine Order, 502; Human Nature, 502; The Name and the Word, 503; The Guru, 505; The Uselessness of Caste, Ceremonies, and all Externals, 505; Stories about Nānak, 506.

Gobind Singh: The Last Guru 508

Indic Word List 511

Bibliography 515

Index 525
Contents

List of Illustrations ix
List of Tables xi
Preface xiii
Pronunciation of Indian Words xvii

THEORETICAL AND HISTORICAL FOUNDATIONS

1. Theoretical Foundations 3
   Is India Different? 3
   The Identificatory Habitus 5
   What Is Hinduism? 12
   Hinduism and Hindu-ness 13
   Religion and Dharma 15
   Hindu Religions and Hindu Religiosity 21
   Great and Little Hinduism 25
   Continuity and Change 27

2. Historical Foundations 31
   Epochs in the History of Religions 31
   First Epoch: Preedic Religions 31
   Second Epoch: Vedic Religion 33
   Third Epoch: Ascetic Reformism 36
   Fourth Epoch: Classical Hinduism 38
   Fifth Epoch: Sects of Hinduism 43
   Sixth Epoch: Modern Hinduism 45
FROM DESCENT TO TRANSCENDENCE

6. Religious Ideas of Space and Time
   Religious Awareness of Space 284
   Spaces and Directions as Sacred Powers 284
   Pilgrimage Sites and Their Hierarchy 288
   Astrology and the Cosmic Place of Man 291
   Religious and Scientific Concepts of Space 292
   Religious Awareness of Time 295
   Ancient Indian Cosmogonies 296
   Creation in Classical Mythology 298
   The Doctrine of the Ages of the World 300
   Cyclical and Linear Time: The Calendar 304
   Unity of Space and Time: Festivals 310
   Religious and Scientific Ideas of Time 313

7. Immortality in Life
   Asceticism: Life in Transcendence 315
   Ascetic Practice and Sects 316
   Asceticism and Sacrifice 322
   The Salvation of Identifications 325
   The Socioreligious Function of Norms of Purity 326
   Descent and Autonomy 329
   The Logic of the Identifications 332
   The "Theology" of the Hindu Religions: Identity of God and Man 340

Illustrations

1. a–c Initiation of Sunil Kalikote in Kathmandu, Nepal 89
2. a Wedding of Ishwor Joshi and Sahan sila Maskey in Bhaktapur, Nepal 126
2. b Mock wedding (ibh) in Bhaktapur, Nepal 127
3 Dogs warm themselves in the ashes of a pyre in the Paśupatinātha Temple in Deopatan, Nepal 137
4 Ancestor ritual (śrāddha) in Benares 139
5 The "Gate of the Widow (-Burnings)" (satīdārā) in Deopatan, Nepal 151
6 Members of a clan of Jyāpu farmers greet their divinity, represented by a stone in the field near Bhaktapur, Nepal 177
7 Paṇḍā priest in Benares 179
8 Temple feeding in the Śvāmi-Nārāyaṇa Temple of Ahmedabad 184
9 Relationship of purity to impurity according to Dumont 190
10 The Brahmanić pilgrim priest S. Vyās in Benares 191
11 Relationship of Ascetic and Brahman priest according to Dumont 192
12 Rice harvest in Bhaktapur, Nepal 195
13 a–b Ganeśa in a quarter of Kathmandu; Ganeśa as a neighborhood guard (kṣetrapāla) in Benares 222
14 Popular religious mural in Patan, Nepal 226
15 Enlivening of a statue in Benares 231
16 Morning ritual with sun and Ganges prayer at Daśāsvamedhaghaṭ, Benares 238
17 Pūjā in Deopatan, Nepal 242
18 Fire sacrifice (homa) during an initiation in Kathmandu 247

Notes 345
Glossary 375
References 381
Index 419
CONTENTS

| Religious Literature | 47 |
| Vedic Literature | 50 |
| The Literature of the Ascetic Reformism | 57 |
| The Literature of Classical Hinduism | 58 |
| The Literatures of the Hindu Sects | 62 |
| Literatures of Modern Hinduism | 66 |

RELIIGION AND SOCIETY

| 3. Stages of Life and Rites of Passage | 71 |
| Initiation | 71 |
| The Salvational Goal of Initiation | 72 |
| The Second Birth | 77 |
| Pre-Rites | 77 |
| Tonsure | 85 |
| Natural Birth, Ritual Birth, New Birth | 88 |
| The Sacred Thread | 92 |
| Consecration of the Ascetic, Consecration of the Student, Consecration of the Man | 94 |
| Childhood and Socialization | 99 |
| The Early Years | 102 |
| Parentage and the "Oceanic Feeling" | 104 |
| Sacred Fatherhood | 108 |
| Wedding and Matrimony | 111 |
| The Wedding | 113 |
| The Daughter as Gift | 115 |
| Kinship, Alliance, and Descent | 120 |
| The Situation of the Woman | 124 |
| Death and Life after Death | 131 |
| The Brahmanic Ritual of Dying and Death | 132 |
| Ancestor Worship | 144 |
| Widow-Burning and Religiously Motivated Suicide | 149 |
| The Ban on Killing and Ahimsa | 153 |
| Karma and Rebirth | 154 |
| Mortality and Immortality | 157 |

| 4. The Social System | 159 |
| Social Stratification | 159 |
| The Caste Society | 160 |
| Segmentation | 165 |

| Social Contacts | 175 |
| Greeting | 176 |
| Touching | 178 |
| Eating | 180 |
| Purity and Impurity | 184 |
| Religious and Social Hierarchy | 187 |
| Priests and the Supremacy of the Brahmins | 188 |
| Religious and Economic Centrality | 194 |
| Hierarchies of the Gift | 197 |

| 5. Religiosity | 201 |
| The Idea of God and the Pantheon | 201 |
| Equitheism and Homotheism | 202 |
| Viṣṇu, Kṛṣṇa, and the Centrality of the Gods | 211 |
| Śiva in the Great and Little Traditions | 215 |
| Ganesa and the Miracle | 221 |
| Wild and Mild Goddesses | 223 |
| Elements of Religiosity | 226 |
| Prayer | 227 |
| Looks | 230 |
| Ritual Acts | 233 |
| Ritualism | 235 |
| The Brahmanic-Sanskritic Morning Ritual | 236 |
| Divine Worship (pūjā) | 241 |
| Sacrifice | 246 |
| Devotionalism and Theistic Traditions | 252 |
| Bhakti Movements | 252 |
| The Grace of the Gods | 255 |
| Spiritualism and Mysticism | 259 |
| The Identification Doctrine of the Upaniṣads | 259 |
| The Psycho-Physical Identifications of Śāṃkhya and Yoga | 264 |
| Śāṃkara's Doctrine of Nonduality | 269 |
| Special Features of Indian Mysticism | 270 |
| Heroism and Kingship | 272 |
| Akhāṭas: Religious Centers of Strength | 273 |
| Power and Authority of the King | 276 |
| King and Ascetic | 279 |
Contents

Translator's Note                              11
Acknowledgements                              17
Introduction                                  19
Further Readings in English                  57
The Poems:
    Basavaṇṇa                                   61
    Dēvara Dāsimayya                            91
    Mahādēviyakka                               111
    Allama Prabhu                               143
Appendix I. The Six-Phase System              169
Appendix II. On Lingayat Culture              175
    by William McCormack
Notes to the Poems                           189
The Bhagavad-Gita

Krishna's Counsel in Time of War

Translated by Barbara Stoler Miller
CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION
The Bhagavad-Gita:
Context and Text
1

TRANSLATOR'S NOTE
14

The Bhagavad-Gita:
Krishna's Counsel in Time of War
19

AFTERWORD
Why Did Henry David Thoreau Take the Bhagavad-Gita to Walden Pond?
155

KEY WORDS IN THE Bhagavad-Gita
162
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Earlier versions of some of the translations in the present selection were published in: Fakir, The Ezra-Pakir Press, Bombay; Doler, University of Texas, Austin, Texas, USA; Modern Poetry in Translation, London, UK; Translation, Columbia University School of the Arts, New York, NY, USA; South-Asian Digest of Literature, South-Asian Institute, University of Heidelberg, Germany.

Say Tuka was originally commissioned by Adil Jussawala for the XAL-PRAXIS Foundation, Bombay.

Parts of the introduction are based on the Ajarya Memorial Lecture which I delivered under the auspices of the South-Asian Institute of the University of Heidelberg on November 7, 1988. Personal gratitude owed to friends and benefactors, particularly those who supported me morally and financially in lean periods throughout the last thirty-two years, cannot be explicitly mentioned: it has been like one grand and continuous grant that has made this work possible.

—Dilip Chitre

For Anne

Love,

Dilip

SAYS TUKA

Selected Poetry of Tukaram

Translated from the Marathi with an Introduction
by

Dilip Chitre

PENGUIN BOOKS
King Khaṇḍobā’s Hunt and His Encounter with Bāṇāi, the Shepherdess

I. THE SOMVATI AMĀVASYĀ FESTIVAL IN THE KHANḍOBĀ CULT: TWO STRANDS

One of the most important festivals in the Khaṇḍobā cult of Maharashtra is observed on Somvati Amāvasyā, that is, on a new moon day which falls on a Monday. The major centre of the cult is Jejuri in the Pune district and it is here that the festival is observed most conspicuously and elaborately. The festival is also observed in other places where Khaṇḍobā and similar Śaivite folk deities are worshipped, but at such places it is of only local importance. There are many dimensions of this festival (see Stanley 1977), but we shall emphasize here the hunting excursion of the Lord, and the folk-religious and royal character of this day. Though outwardly there is little to show that the royal god actually goes for a hunt, this is a frequent explanation given by participants in the festival.

Before we proceed, it is necessary to point out that the festival incorporates two main religious orientations, which at times coalesce and at other times stand apart, maintaining more or less a dynamically fluctuating relationship. From the point of view of the brahmanical texts, though not one which is necessarily shared by all Brāhmans who are also devotees of Khaṇḍobā, the essence of the festival would be that it is a purifying ritual at an auspicious point of time, namely the conjunction of the sun and the moon on a Monday. Terms like snāna, śuddhi and pāpa are used in expressing this attitude. The other orientation belongs to the realm of folk religion. The god’s exit into the “forest” is dramatically performed and the devotees participate in the royal “hunt”, which culminates in a common bath of the god and his devotees in the Kharhā river.

The motives of the devotees who participate in the festival are variously expressed, but can be summarized by the desire to secure “life and prosperity” (Heesterman 1985: 31), or to seek the values of “bodily existence and well-being” or “auspiciousness” or “higher quality of life” (Marriott 1976: 194). Both orientations, the brahmanical and the folk, and the rites connected with them are, of course, pervaded by the peculiar sacredness of Somvati Amāvasyā, a day on which the “fluidity of power” (Stanley 1977: 30) is “unambivalently auspicious” (Stanley 1977: 42) in the Khaṇḍobā cult. In the following article we shall also try to explore some of the dimensions of these attitudes and their mutual interaction, as they are expressed in oral folk myths, in scriptural brahmanical texts, and in the dramatic performances and rituals of the festival. We shall spread our net rather wide, to draw together scattered and variegated materials which may eventually provide the background to the festival, especially the hunting excursion of the god. In passing, we should like to point out the pervasiveness and spatial spread of the incidents of the Khaṇḍobā cult and its relationships and/or indebtedness to similar cults, especially in Tamilnadu, Karnataka, and Andhra Pradesh. Future research will probably have to concentrate on parallels between similar folk cults in different regions: too often the local or regional data are taken to be unique, without comparative scrutiny to show whether this is true or not.

II. SOMVATI AMĀVASYĀ IN THE JAYĀDRI MĀḤĀTYA, MĀRTĀNDAVIJAYA AND OTHER SCRIPTURAL SOURCES

The Jayādri Māḥātya is an unpublished Sanskrit text which describes literally “the Greatness of Jejuri”. It links the Jejuri (Jayādri) cult firmly to the Mahābhārata and to purāṇic precedents while heavily satriologizing local events and incidents pertaining to Jejuri and to another important place of the cult, namely Naḷḍūrg, in the Usmanabad district. The oldest ms. is dated bheke 1768 (A.D. 1756). It was around this time, namely between A.D. 1685-1790, that increased building activity is recorded in inscriptions in the temple complex of Jejuri (Potdar 1914: 265-72, Khare 1958: 91-3). Other scriptural sources are the Mārtāndavijaya (A.D. 1825) and the Śrīkeṣava-Jejuri-Māḥātya (1925), both in Marathi.

The JM basically relates a conversation between the five Pāṇḍavas and Śiva. The Pāṇḍavas have arrived at Jejuri and Dharmarāja asks a host of questions which are mostly answered by Śiva or Vaiśampāyana.
Ritual Pollution as an Integrator of Caste and Religion

EDWARD B. HARPER

BELIEFS about ritual purity and ritual impurity form some of the most all-pervasive themes in Hindu culture. They are the basis of "orthoprax" Brahmanism in that only a ritually pure individual may approach the higher gods. Brahmanic concepts concerning pollution relate the Indian system of social stratification to the Hindu religious system. These concepts are applied to matters of personal conduct, health, and justice, and are fundamental to such well-known aspects of Indian culture as untouchability, limited access to wells, and the setting apart of a priestly caste. One of the important rationales for caste separatism (their refusal to intermarry, eat with one another, or touch one another) is that some castes are more ritually pure than others, and that impurity may be transmitted from one caste to another through these acts. But on the other hand, castes are also brought together and integrated into a system of ritual interdependence by the belief that they differ in the degree to which they are ritually pure or impure. Some actions are thought to be ritually too defiling for certain castes to perform, and some castes are thought to be too impure to perform certain other activities. These beliefs are basic to the concept of a division of labor by castes and to the ideal that each caste plays a part in a larger mutually interdependent system.

The theoretical model of the system which relates ritual pollution to caste status appears to be:

(1) Gods are superior to men and thus must be worshiped by men; in return, gods bestow benefits on men.
(2) Gods can be directly worshiped only by those mortals of high ritual purity.
(3) In order for an individual to attain and maintain a state of high ritual purity, he needs to have other people perform certain ritually defiling acts for him, or, looked at another way, in order for the community to function, many actions must be performed which cause the actor to become impure, and some of these bring about a greater amount of impurity than do others.
(4) In a general sense, all members of the community derive benefit from the worship given directly to the gods by those who are ritually pure, but in a specific sense they derive benefit by worshipping those religious specialists who directly worship the gods.
(5) Ritual pollution is transmitted through certain kin relationships; an individual can't maintain his own high state of purity, he must marry only with another whose family has an equally high state of ritual purity.
(6) In order for the gods to be worshipped, some castes must assume the pollution which otherwise would accrue to those castes which worship the gods; if the gods are to be pleased, it thus becomes the duty of some castes to help other castes attain sufficient purity to worship them, even at the expense of thereby becoming impure themselves.
(7) In order to perform ritual cleansing actions for relatively more pure individuals or supernaturals, the actor must himself maintain an only slightly less pure status. In order to prevent those with an intermediate amount of purity from becoming less pure (and thus unable themselves to assume the lesser degrees of pollution from the most pure individuals), there must be even less pure individuals to prevent the accretion of too much ritual pollution to these intermediately pure individuals.
(8) Since purity and pollution are transferred through kinship, the total society must be divided into kinship-based ritual status groups (castes) which are ranked along a purity-impurity continuum.

Although this conceptual model is the foundation upon which the system of hierarchically ranked castes rests, it is only crudely and imperfectly implemented in the actual caste hierarchy; or, to state it another way, the "attributive theory of caste ranking" supplies the context for the "interactional theory of caste ranking" (Marriott, 1959).

In this paper I describe the ritual observances and beliefs about pollution as followed by Havik Brahmins, a "dominant caste" in the area around Sagar in the Malnad part of South India. This is an area stratified by over a dozen indigenous cases, which in native thought are grouped into a three-class system: Brahmins, Sudras, and Untouchables (cf. Harper, 1955a). A fourth caste, Lingayats, occupies a position somewhat apart from these three classes.

Ritual Purity—The Three States

Haviks have three terms to denote degrees of purity and impurity, Madi translates as "ritually pure"; muṭṭuḷeṭṭuḥ as "ritually impure." Under ordinary circumstances, an individual is said to be maḷiṅe, a term which has been translated as "normal ritual status" (Srinivas, 1952:106). I have been tempted to translate it as "lack of ritual status," although this is not completely accurate for a person in maḷiṅe is impure relative to a person who is in a state of ritual purity; that is, contact between the two will cause the person in maḷiṅe to become maḷiṅe, and a person in maḷiṅe is pure relative to a person in a state of ritual impurity; it is, contact between the two will cause the person in maḷiṅe to become muṭṭuḷeṭṭuḥ.

To make the transition from maḷiṅe to muṭṭuḷeṭṭuḥ, a Brahmin must perform some ritually defiling act or have contact with a source of pollution. To regain a state of maḷiṅe from one of muṭṭuḷeṭṭuḥ, he must undergo a ritual cleansing ceremony. In order to attain a state of ritual purity, maḷiṅ, a Brahmin must also engage in a volu-

---

1. Dr. Harper is Associate Professor of Anthropology at the University of Washington.
2. The term "orthoprax" was suggested to me by McKim Marriott to replace "orthodox," which I had used in an earlier draft of this paper. Orthoprax emphasizes ritual aspects of religious behavior rather than its belief content, and more accurately reflects the lay Brahmin's conception of the religious man. I gratefully express my debt to Dr. Marriott for his painstaking analysis of an earlier draft, and to his numerous substantive suggestions, some of which have been incorporated into this paper without their acknowledgment.
3. This model is derived from fieldwork in the Malnad part of Mysore State, but is phrased broadly so that it may be generally applicable to other parts of South India.
Ascetic Withdrawal or Social Engagement

Patrick Olivelle

The sixth century B.C.E. was a watershed in the history of Indian religions, a period that witnessed momentous social, economic, and political changes. A surplus economy, the establishment of cities and large kingdoms, the facility of travel, and the rise of a merchant class contributed to the emergence of several significant religious doctrines and institutions, including the new religious movements of Buddhism and Jainism. A major concept in the emerging new world was samsāra, a category that provided the framework for understanding and evaluating human life. According to this new understanding, life is ultimately and essentially suffering, subject as it is to repeated births and deaths. The goal of human existence, therefore, should be to transcend this bondage to the cycle of rebirth and to reach the realm of total freedom and bliss called mokṣa. The religions sharing this world view challenged the society-centered ritual religion of the earlier Vedic period. The result of this confluence of two opposing worlds was a deep and lasting conflict within Indian religions between the value of responsible social engagement within the context of marriage and family and the ascetic withdrawal from society that was seen as the necessary precondition for achieving liberation.

The conflict between these world views is revealed in the emerging diversity of opinion regarding dharma, that is, the proper way to act and the right doctrines to believe. In the mainstream of the Vedic tradition, dharma meant the rules for ritual and moral behavior contained in the Vedic scriptures. By the sixth century B.C.E., such a simple solution to the question, "What is dharma?" was no longer possible, especially because of the new value systems resulting from ascetic ideologies that considered society and social norms as well as the ritual religion to be part of samsāra, the world of suffering subject to rebirth. Good and intelligent people were asking serious questions about ultimate truth and proper conduct, all trying in their own way to define the "true" dharma. The Buddha himself, for example, called his new doctrine and way of life dharma. This spirit of inquiry and doubt is captured well in the following passage from the Mahābhārata