Arizona State University Criteria Checklist for HUMANITIES, ARTS AND DESIGN [HU]

Rationale and Objectives

The humanities disciplines are concerned with questions of human existence and meaning, the nature of thinking and knowing, with moral and aesthetic experience. The humanities develop values of all kinds by making the human mind more supple, critical, and expansive. They are concerned with the study of the textual and artistic traditions of diverse cultures, including traditions in literature, philosophy, religion, ethics, history, and aesthetics. In sum, these disciplines explore the range of human thought and its application to the past and present human environment. They deepen awareness of the diversity of the human heritage and its traditions and histories and they may also promote the application of this knowledge to contemporary societies.

The study of the arts and design, like the humanities, deepens the student's awareness of the diversity of human societies and cultures. The arts have as their primary purpose the creation and study of objects, installations, performances and other means of expressing or conveying aesthetic concepts and ideas. Design study concerns itself with material objects, images and spaces, their historical development, and their significance in society and culture. Disciplines in the arts and design employ modes of thought and communication that are often nonverbal, which means that courses in these areas tend to focus on objects, images, and structures and/or on the practical techniques and historical development of artistic and design traditions. The past and present accomplishments of artists and designers help form the student's ability to perceive aesthetic qualities of art work and design.

The Humanities, Arts and Design are an important part of the General Studies Program, for they provide an opportunity for students to study intellectual and imaginative traditions and to observe and/or learn the production of art work and design. The knowledge acquired in courses fulfilling the Humanities, Arts and Design requirement may encourage students to investigate their own personal philosophies or beliefs and to understand better their own social experience. In sum, the Humanities, Arts and Design core area enables students to broaden and deepen their consideration of the variety of human experience.

1.	This course examines the historical, political, aesthetic and cultural antecedents and development of Hip Hop arts, aesthetics, and culture in the U.S. from mid 20th century to the present. Inquiry and analysis into neo-nationalist philosophy and the development of artistic genres stemming from it are included as well.	See Syllabus, Writing assignments, Textbook readings and textbook TOC, Course Description, Course Competencies.
2.	This course has four objectives: First, it will introduce students to the general history of rap music from its origins to the present. This broad overview will include discussions of most, but not all, of the major artists from this period. Second, we will explore connections between the rap music and the other elements of hip hop culture. Third, this course will challenge students to think critically about rap music and its place in society. We will use listening exercises, demonstrations, and conversations with artists to examine how rappers create meaning in their musical works. Drawing on examples from multiple texts, secondary articles by rap critics and scholars, videos, and listening examples, we will consider in detail such controversial subjects as censorship, sexism, obscenity, and race politics in America as they relate to rap music. Students in this class will also be assigned three substantial essay projects in which they will analyze and provide critical inquiry about the social, legal, ethical and musical challenges associated with the history and future of hip-hop culture. #6 – On a separate sheet of paper, please provide a description of how the course meets the specific criteria in the area for which the course is being proposed.

The Course MHL 204, Rap Music and Hip Hop Culture, exemplifies the specific criteria for the Humanities, Arts and Design Designation (HU). It does so by focusing on the origins of hip hop culture through the African-American experience in the South Bronx, and the development of the art forms associated with dance, poetry, musical creation, performance and cultural expression. Specific elements of sound production and design are embedded into critical inquiry of the history of hip hop music as it evolved from the second half of the twentieth century to the present day. In addition to this, the study of film and the visual arts which are considered essential elements of hip hop culture are emphasized through the examination, analysis and interpretation by students in this course through the lens of multiple sources of journalism and scholarship in the field.

Course Description:

This course has four objectives: First, it will introduce students to the general history of rap music from its origins to the present. This broad overview will include discussions of most, but not all, of the major artists from this period. Second, we will explore connections between the rap music and the other elements of hip hop culture. (I, II, III) Third, this course will challenge students to think critically about rap music and its place in society. We will use listening exercises, demonstrations, and conversations with artists to examine how rappers create meaning in their musical works. Drawing on examples from multiple texts, secondary articles by rap critics and scholars, videos, and listening examples, we will consider in detail such controversial subjects as censorship, sexism, obscenity, and race politics in America as they relate to rap music (I, III). Students in this class will also be assigned three substantial essay projects in which they will analyze and provide critical inquiry about the social, legal, ethical and musical challenges associated with the history and future of hip-hop culture. (I, II, III) In addition to this, we will plan to engage with local artists in the Hip Hop community to discuss their practice, as well as explore elements of musical creation and production. No previous musical experience is required.

Course Competencies / Expectations:

1. Summarize the history of hip hop culture and its elements. (I, II, III)
2. Identify the styles, subgenres, and artists that we study by ear, and identify their distinguishing stylistic features. (I, III)
3. Describe the role the Bronx, New York played in the development and creation of Hip-Hop (I)

4. Identify the producers, labels, albums, and other important names and terms we encounter, summarize the careers of major performers, and show a general knowledge of major events and trends in the history of rap music.
5. Analyze rap music using theoretical and critical strategies that we discuss.
6. Describe the importance of graffiti writing and its influence on popular culture (I).
7. Analyze the gestural aesthetics of Hip-Hop culture. (I, II)
8. Apply what you have learned to hip hop culture in a contemporary context.

Grade/Assignment breakdown:

- 45%: Unit Essay projects (3) – 15% each (I, II, III)
- 15%: Analytic listening exams (3) – 5% each
- 10%: Weekly reading responses
- 10%: Cumulative final analytic listening exam
- 10%: Analysis of Style presentation project (I, II, III)
- 10%: Concert attendance

Assignment descriptions:

45% Unit Essay projects (3):

Correlating with the first three units of this course, students will write a 10-page essay based on the analysis and critical inquiry on a topic. Topics can include, but will not be only limited to the following: (I, II, III)

1. An analysis of the development of musical style in Hip Hop or music production practices.
2. Social issues regarding race, class, and gender in Hip Hop culture (I, III)
3. Short research paper on the political and legal battles associated with graffiti, sampling, or offensive material as it pertains to hip hop art and music. (I, III)

Topics may not be repeated, and student-chosen topics will need to be approved by the instructor. Students may choose source material for the essays from the textbook or the listed secondary sources but must also use two outside sources from hip hop journalism, scholarship or literature. The project process can and will be reviewed in the weeks leading up to the due dates.

15% Analytic listening exams (3) and 10% Cumulative final Analytic Listening exam:

For all four units in this course, there will be a listening exam pertaining to the song lists used in each unit. By hearing clips and audio examples, students will be asked to identify such things as the artist, style, time period and producer of the example, as well as song form and other internal musical structure elements contained therein. The final analytic exam will include examples from the song list in Unit Four, as well as the other three units, making it a cumulative final.

10% Weekly reading responses

For each reading that is assigned for homework, students will answer questions and/or write responses. Some questions will be at the end of the textbook chapters, while others will be short essay writing prompts assigned by the instructor.

10% Analysis of Style presentation project

Nearing the conclusion of the term, students will give an in-class presentation tracing the stylistic development of a particular artist or sub-genre within rap and hip hop music. Group projects may be allowed depending on class size, but will not exceed three students per group. All the evidence for the project that is gathered, interpreted and evaluated will be submitted in a written report which summarizes the presentation. This can include sources from the class but must also utilize two other outside sources.

10%: Concert Attendance – Students will attend one live music event over the course of the semester and write an account of their experience. These documents will be at least two pages in length, using 12pt sized font and 1.5 spaced. Referencing concepts and terminology learned in class and via our readings and discussions, students will summarize their experience at the event. Who did you see? What is the instrumentation? Where did you see them? How long did they play? What did they play? What kind of music styles do you recognize? Students will also subjectively evaluate the music that they hear, and justify their evaluations. In other words, did you like what you heard, why or why not? Students will also supply some sort of documentation proving their attendance at the event in question.

Electronic delivery of reading assignments

Some of your reading responses will be based on readings you will receive from me, via email in PDF format, as well as videos viewed in class and required class listening. You must submit your response in a Microsoft Word document via email to Gerald.rulon-maxwell@paradisevalley.edu no later than 11:59pm on the evening before our class meets. No exceptions, and no late assignments will be accepted. Please save your word file as: (Last name, first name, date (00-00-00)). Use dashes, not slashes when typing in the date. Also, be sure to check your official school email daily to stay apprised of course details and other important information.

Grading Scale:

- A = 89.45% - 100%
- B = 79.45% - 89.44%
- C = 69.45% - 79.44%
- D = 50% - 69.44%
- F = 49.99% and below

Make up exams/assignments:

Make-up exams/assignments will only be allowed in documented cases of bereavement or hospitalization. If one of these unfortunate circumstances befalls you, please notify Prof. Maxwell within 1 week (7 days) of the exam/assignment and be prepared to present documentation of your reason for missing the exam/assignment. No make-up exams/assignments will be given to students who “miss” exam/assignment, encounter work or transportation conflicts, or do not notify Prof. Maxwell of an illness or bereavement within 1 week of the original due date.

Regarding Internet and Computer Usage:

Internet and computer usage is for class assignments and related research only! Inappropriate use of the Internet or computers is subject to loss of privileges, class withdrawal and other disciplinary action.

Regarding Special Needs:

Any students with special needs should inform the instructor of any assistance that will be required. In order to accommodate your needs, you will need to give proper notice as to what accommodations will be necessary, and have documentation on file in the Disability Resource Center. It is preferable that you identify yourself at the beginning of the semester. If this is not possible, you must give at least 48 hours notice before an accommodation is necessary. Special arrangements can be made regarding seating, hearing devices, testing time, as well as many other concerns. If there are any other concerns you have, please address them as soon as possible or call the Disability Resource Center at (602) 787-7171 or visit the website at <http://www.paradisevalley.edu/drc>.

Concerning Plagiarism:

Plagiarism is defined as presenting the work of another as one's own. More than four consecutive words from a source other than the writer constitute plagiarism when the source is not clearly identified in appropriate document format. A reminder from the PVCC Student Handbook (<http://globaldatebooksonline.com/flipbooks/pvc2011/>): "Plagiarism includes, but is not limited to, the use of paraphrase or direct quotation, of the published or unpublished work of another person without full and clear acknowledgement. It also includes the unacknowledged use of materials prepared by another person or agency engaged in the selling of term papers or other academic materials. Information gathered from the Internet and not properly identified is also considered plagiarism" (p. 131)

Information on Computer Commons:

The Computer Commons, located in Building E, Learning Resource Complex, E-137, is available to any PVCC student who presents a current PVCC Student ID Card to use to complete course and campus-related activities. Printing is on a Pay-per-Print basis. Specific hours of operation, detailed policies and procedures, installed software and additional information may be obtained from the website at <http://www.paradisevalley.edu/cc> or by calling (602) 787-6760.

Information on Learning Support Center Services:

The PVCC Learning Support Center is located in Building E, Learning Resource Complex, E-180. The mission of the Learning Support Center is to support learning and help students achieve their potential. The Learning Support Center offers free instructional support to students for any of PVCC's academic classes. The LSC provides handouts covering such reading and study skills as taking lecture notes, studying for exams, improving vocabulary, and many more. There are also tip sheets available online. The Learning Support Center also has self-paced programs and multi-media resources available. Offensive Materials Disclaimer

Every effort is made to limit explicit or potentially offensive content in this class without ignoring the essential material from the history of rap music. This is not always possible when the title of a song or recording, or the lyric within that song or recording may include explicit or culturally sensitive language. In this course, it is highly likely, in fact inevitable, that you will be exposed to obscene and offensive materials, including language and imagery that is obscene, sexist, homophobic, or racist, and descriptions of sexual conduct, drug use, and violence. We do not intend in any way to offend, nor do we as the Fine Arts department, or Paradise Valley Community College share in the opinions of the musicians and their songs that may offend. However, no substitutions are available for these materials, and none will be provided. By continuing with this course, you are agreeing to be held academically accountable for all required materials in the syllabus, regardless of their offensive nature. Students who are unwilling either to hear or think critically about such material are encouraged to drop this course at their discretion.
