Arizona State University Criteria Checklist for

GLOBAL AWARENESS [G]

Rationale and Objectives

Human organizations and relationships have evolved from being family and village centered to modern global interdependence. The greatest challenge in the nuclear age is developing and maintaining a global perspective which fosters international cooperation. While the modern world is comprised of politically independent states, people must transcend nationalism and recognize the significant interdependence among peoples of the world. The exposure of students to different cultural systems provides the background of thought necessary to developing a global perspective.

Cultural learning is present in many disciplines. Exposure to perspectives on art, business, engineering, music, and the natural and social sciences that lead to an understanding of the contemporary world supports the view that intercultural interaction has become a daily necessity. The complexity of American society forces people to balance regional and national goals with global concerns. Many of the most serious problems are world issues and require solutions which exhibit mutuality and reciprocity. No longer are hunger, ecology, health care delivery, language planning, information exchanges, economic and social developments, law, technology transfer, philosophy, and the arts solely national concerns; they affect all the people of the world. Survival may be dependent on the ability to generate global solutions to some of the most pressing problems.

The word university, from universitas, implies that knowledge comes from many sources and is not restricted to local, regional, or national perspectives. The Global Awareness Area recognizes the need for an understanding of the values, elements, and social processes of cultures other than the culture of the United States. Learning which recognizes the nature of others cultures and the relationship of America’s cultural system to generic human goals and welfare will help create the multicultural and global perspective necessary for effective interaction in the human community.

Courses which meet the requirement in global awareness are of one or more of the following types: (1) in-depth area studies which are concerned with an examination of culture-specific elements of a region of the world, country, or culture group, (2) the study of contemporary non-English language courses that have a significant cultural component, (3) comparative cultural studies with an emphasis on non-U.S. areas, and (4) in-depth studies of non-U.S. centered cultural interrelationships of global scope such as the global interdependence produced by problems of world ecology, multinational corporations, migration, and the threat of nuclear war.

Course Description
This course is an introduction to Global Management. It will touch on key issues facing global corporations today, with an introduction to topics that will be addressed more fully in courses that follow later in the Bachelor of Global Management program. By the end of the course students will have tools to assess trends and developments in the global business environment, as well as the ability to apply important concepts related to Global Management.

Prerequisites: None

Required Text and Learning Materials

Articles and Case studies provided in course packet
The instructor will also provide selected course materials and readings during the semester.

Course Overview
Global business involves dealing with a rapidly changing global economy. Therefore, this course focuses not only on key topics in global management, but also on understanding the key institutions that shape the global business environment. To the extent that students can anticipate trends and developments in the global business environment, they will be able to develop more effective business strategies.

Student Learning Objectives for This Course
1. Students will be able to apply tools to assess trends in the global business environment.
2. Students will demonstrate an understanding of key concepts of global management.
3. Students will apply their skills in doing research, giving presentations, and working in a team by giving a group presentation as part of their coursework.
Evaluation and Grading
The following percentages apply to the assignments. The class will meet for a total of 15 weekly sessions and full student attendance and participation is expected.

1- Attendance and Participation in Class (10%)
   The requirement is that you attend each class and that you are on-time and ready for class. The global business course requires you to participate each week in class activities and discussions.

2- Midterm Exam (25%)
   The midterm will require you to apply key concepts from the course. It will focus primarily on key readings/concepts from the course, and will consist of an essay and multiple choice questions/brief answers. The midterm date is October 1.

3- Group Presentation (20%)
   You be part of a group that assesses prospects for undertaking a specific business project in a specific country. This may involve exporting a product to the country, investing in a country in order to sell the product in that country, or marketing a product already manufactured in a country for sale in the country's market. The assessment should be of a specific project for an existing company. In the presentation, you must provide an assessment of 1) financial, political, and other risks associated with doing business in the country; 2) mode of market entry best suited for the business project; 3) strategy for implementing the project successfully in the country. Groups will consist of no more than 5 people. The time limit is 20 minutes, with 10 minutes for questions and answers. Presentations will take place during the week of November 17-19.

4- Quizzes (10%)
   Quizzes will consist of five multiple choice questions related to a specific case or set of readings related to the topic to be discussed that week in the course. The purpose of the quizzes is to encourage you do the reading and think carefully about it before discussing it in class. Quiz dates are listed in the syllabus.

5- Final Exam (35%)
   The final exam is comprehensive – it covers all key concepts developed in the course. It will consist of multiple choice questions and brief answers/essays, as well as a longer essay that will require you to apply key concepts to an assessment of a specific global business project. Final exam week: December 7-12.

For technical assistance 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, contact the University Technology Office Help Desk: Phone 480-965-6500, email helpdesk@asu.edu.

Computer Requirements

This course uses Blackboard for communication between faculty and students, submission of assignments, and posting of grades. You can access Blackboard through your my ASU portal.

- A web browser (Internet Explorer or Mozilla Firefox)
- Adobe Acrobat Reader (free)
- Adobe Flash Player (free)
- Microsoft Word - OpenOffice is a suite of free programs similar to MS Office.
- Email and Internet

You must have an active ASU email account and access to the Internet. All instructor correspondence will be sent to your ASU email account. Please plan to check your ASU email account regularly for course-related messages.
Attendance/Participation
Preparation for class means reading the assigned readings and reviewing all information required for that week. Students must contact the instructor and leave a message prior to being absent for any reason.

Syllabus Disclaimer
The instructor views the course syllabus as an educational contract between the instructor and students. Every effort will be made to avoid changing the course schedule during the semester, but the possibility exists that events will make syllabus changes necessary. The instructor reserves the right to make changes to the syllabus as deemed necessary. Students will be notified via Blackboard of any syllabus changes.

Classroom Behavior
No cell phone calling, receiving calls, texting or reading of emails is allowed during class sessions at any time. Cell phone ringers must be turned off before each class session begins. For students using computers to take notes, emailing during the class session is not allowed and students found to be using the computers for other activities or other courses than this course will have the privilege to use computers revoked. Any recording during a class session must be given permission by the instructor in advance.

Academic Integrity
The highest standards of academic integrity are expected of all students. The failure of any student to meet these standards may result in suspension or expulsion from the university and/or other sanctions as specified in the academic integrity policies of the individual academic unit. Violations of academic integrity include, but are not limited to, cheating, fabrication, tampering, plagiarism, or facilitating such activities. The university academic integrity policy is available from the Academic Programs and Graduate Studies Office. Unit academic integrity policies are available from the deans of the individual academic units.

Student Conduct Statement
Students are required to adhere to the behavior standards listed in Arizona Board of Regents Policy Manual Chapter V – Campus and Student Affairs: Code of Conduct, which states that students are entitled to receive instruction free from interference by other members of the class. If a student is disruptive, an instructor may ask the student to stop the disruptive behavior and warn the student that such disruptive behavior can result in withdrawal from the course. An instructor may withdraw a student from a course when the student's behavior disrupts the educational process under USI 201-10.

Course/Instructor Evaluation
The course/instructor evaluation for this course will be conducted online 7-10 days before the last official day of classes each semester. An email will be sent to your ASU email address with "ASU Course/Instructor Evaluation" in the subject heading. Your response(s) to the course/instructor evaluation are anonymous and will not be returned to your instructor until after grades have been submitted. The use of this assessment is an important process that allows our college to (1) help faculty improve their instruction; (2) help administrators evaluate instructional quality; (3) ensure high standards of teaching; and (4) ultimately improve instruction and student learning over time. Completion of the evaluation is not required for you to pass this class and will not affect your grade, but your evaluation is appreciated.

Accessibility Statement
In compliance with the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, Section 504, and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, professional disability specialists and support staff at the Disability Resource Centers (DRC) facilitate a comprehensive range of academic support services and accommodations for qualified students with disabilities. DRC staff coordinate transition from high schools and community colleges, in-service training for faculty and staff, resolution of accessibility issues, community outreach, and collaboration between all ASU campuses regarding disability policies, procedures, and accommodations.

Students who wish to request an accommodation for a disability should contact the Disability Resource Center (DRC) for their campus.
