Note: For courses that are crosslisted and/or shared, a letter of support from the chair/director of each department that offers the course is required for each designation requested. By submitting this letter of support, the chair/director agrees to ensure that all faculty teaching the course are aware of the General Studies designation(s) and will teach the course in a manner that meets the criteria for each approved designation.

Requested designation: Literary and Critical Inquiry–L  Mandatory Review: (Choose one)

Eligibility:
Permanent numbered courses must have completed the university's review and approval process. For the rules governing approval of omnibus courses, contact Phyllis.Lucie@asu.edu.

Submission deadlines dates are as follow:
For Fall 2016 Effective Date: October 1, 2015  For Spring 2017 Effective Date: March 10, 2016

Area(s) proposed course will serve:

Rationale and Objectives

Literacy is here defined broadly as communicative competence—that is, competence in written and oral discourse. Critical inquiry involves the gathering, interpretation, and evaluation of evidence. Any field of university study may require unique critical skills that have little to do with language in the usual sense (words), but the analysis of written and spoken evidence pervades university study and everyday life. Thus, the General Studies requirements assume that all undergraduates should develop the ability to reason critically and communicate using the medium of language.

The requirement in Literacy and Critical Inquiry presumes, first, that training in literacy and critical inquiry must be sustained beyond traditional First Year English in order to create a habitual skill in every student; and, second, that the skill levels become more advanced, as well as more secure, as the student learns challenging subject matter. Thus, two courses beyond First Year English are required in order for students to meet the Literacy and Critical Inquiry requirement.

Most lower-level [L] courses are devoted primarily to the further development of critical skills in reading, writing, listening, speaking, or analysis of discourse. Upper-division [L] courses generally are courses in a particular discipline into which writing and critical thinking have been fully integrated as means of learning the content and, in most cases, demonstrating that it has been learned.

Notes:

1. ENG 101, 107 or ENG 105 must be prerequisites
2. Honors theses, XXX 493 meet [L] requirements
3. The list of criteria that must be satisfied for designation as a Literacy and Critical Inquiry [L] course is presented on the following page. This list will help you determine whether the current version of your course meets all of these requirements. If you decide to apply, please attach a current syllabus, or handouts, or other documentation that will provide sufficient information for the General Studies Council to make an informed decision regarding the status of your proposal.

ASU - [L] CRITERIA

TO QUALIFY FOR [L] DESIGNATION, THE COURSE DESIGN MUST PLACE A MAJOR EMPHASIS ON COMPLETING CRITICAL DISCOURSE--AS EVIDENCED BY THE FOLLOWING CRITERIA:

<tr>
<th>YES</th>
<th>NO</th>
<th>CRITERION 1:</th>

</tr>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>❑</td>
<td>❑</td>
<td>At least 50 percent of the grade in the course should depend upon writing assignments (see Criterion 3). Group projects are acceptable only if each student gathers, interprets, and evaluates evidence, and prepares a summary report. In-class essay exams may not be used for [L] designation.</td>

1. Please describe the assignments that are considered in the computation of course grades--and indicate the proportion of the final grade that is determined by each assignment.

2. Also:

   Please circle, underline, or otherwise mark the information presented in the most recent course syllabus (or other material you have submitted) that verifies this description of the grading process--and label this information "C-1".

CRITERION 2: The writing assignments should involve gathering, interpreting, and evaluating evidence. They should reflect critical inquiry, extending beyond opinion and/or reflection.

1. Please describe the way(s) in which this criterion is addressed in the course design.

2. Also:

   Please circle, underline, or otherwise mark the information presented in the most recent course syllabus (or other material you have submitted) that verifies this description of the grading process--and label this information "C-2".

CRITERION 3: The syllabus should include a minimum of two writing and/or speaking assignments that are substantial in depth, quality, and quantity. Substantial writing assignments entail sustained in-depth engagement with the material. Examples include research papers, reports, articles, essays, or speeches that reflect critical inquiry and evaluation. Assignments such as brief reaction papers, opinion pieces, reflections, discussion posts, and impromptu presentations are not considered substantial writing/speaking assignments.

1. Please provide relatively detailed descriptions of two or more substantial writing or speaking tasks that are included in the course requirements.

2. Also:

   Please circle, underline, or otherwise mark the information presented in the most recent course syllabus (or other material you have submitted) that verifies this description of the grading process--and label this information "C-3".
CRITERION 4:

These substantial writing or speaking assignments should be arranged so that the students will get timely feedback from the instructor on each assignment in time to help them do better on subsequent assignments. Intervention at earlier stages in the writing process is especially welcomed.

SLC 294 Propaganda of the Ancient Romans

Syllabus

Course Description and Objectives
This course provides an in-depth exploration of the major authors promoting political figures and policies in the later Roman Republic and early Roman Empire, including prose, epic, poetry and inscription. Students will read large selections of the relevant authors (Livy, Horace, Vergil, and Augustus) through a variety of short and manageable assignments, and will interact with ancient sources and modern scholarship through class discussions, brief research papers, and essay exams.

Learning Outcomes
Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

• Identify the major authors of Roman propaganda and their works in terms of historical period and genre
• Discuss the relationship of major authors of propaganda to powerful figures, current events and the policies that shape their work
• Distinguish between prose, poetry, epic, and inscription at Rome and elucidate how the specific characteristics of each genre are utilized to promote political figures and policies
• Analyze critically and comparatively the stories, themes, and stylistic features employed by the ancient Roman propagandists in promoting their leaders and the interests of their government.

Required texts

Other readings, including ancient sources and modern articles, will be available on blackboard and through the ASU Libraries online resources.

Grading. I grade on a straight percent scale, not on a curve. All grades are final and non-negotiable (although I am very willing to correct any mistakes and/or explain my criteria if you should have questions). Grades will be assigned using the plus/minus system implemented in Fall 2004.

A+: 97-100  A: 93-96  A-: 90-92
B+: 87-89  B: 83-86  B-: 80-82
C+: 77-79  C: 70-76  D: 60-69
E: below 60

Grade Distribution
Attendance & Participation (daily homework preparation, group work, class discussion) 25%

Preliminary Work for 2 short research papers (research and rough draft) 10%  C1, C3
2 short research papers 40%
Midterm Exam 10%
Final Exam 15%

Assessment
Attendance and homework preparation will be checked daily through a variety of in-class activities such as brief written responses to questions and short quizzes about the homework. Participation in daily discussions will also count toward attendance and participation grade. Daily attendance and class discussion grades cannot be made up under any circumstances.
Two short papers will require students to engage in critical inquiry and research which will each result in a tightly focused research paper (5-7 pages). Papers must be on separate topics, and must include references to at least one primary source and at least three reputable secondary sources. Topics will be chosen by the student in consultation with the instructor. Topics must address the development of propagandistic literature in the late Roman republic and early Roman empire, but may also address comparatively other topics suited to the students’ major or extracurricular interests.

A separate rough draft is required for each paper. The rough draft will be returned to the student before the final paper is due, to facilitate the production of the paper and improve the student’s ability to craft a strong argument. In addition, other preliminary work for each paper will include a draft thesis and annotated bibliography. These will have separate deadlines leading up to the rough draft, to help students approach each paper in a step-by-step fashion.

Midterm and Final exams will be essay exams and will be cumulative and comprehensive. Possible questions for the essay exams will be provided before the exam to aid the students in their preparation.

Attendance, Absences & Accommodations
Attendance is required. In-class activities such as group work and daily attendance exercises cannot be made up under any circumstances. Writing assignments and exams can be made up in cases of an emergency or illness, but I will insist on documentation of the reason for your absence.

If you require accommodations on assignments for a disability, university-sanctioned event, or religious holiday, you must let me know in advance. See the links below for the accommodations the university provides and that this class follows:

Disability Accommodations: Qualified students with disabilities who will require disability accommodations in this class are encouraged to make their requests to me at the beginning of the semester either during office hours or by appointment. Note: Prior to receiving disability accommodations, verification of eligibility from the Disability Resource Center (DRC) is required. Disability information is confidential.

Establishing Eligibility for Disability Accommodations: Students who feel they will need disability accommodations in this class but have not registered with the Disability Resource Center (DRC) should contact DRC immediately. Their office is located on the first floor of the Matthews Center Building. DRC staff can also be reached at: 480-965-1234 (V), 480-965-9000 (TTY). For additional information, visit: https://eoss.asu.edu/drc. Their hours are 8:00 AM to 5:00 PM, Monday through Friday.

Classroom Behavior
During class, please refrain from using your various portable devices. Use of these items—however unobtrusive you may think you’re being—is distracting and annoying to those around you and to me. If you absolutely need to take a call or respond to a text in an emergency, please leave the classroom to do so and return when your business is finished. Tablets and laptops for note-taking purposes may be allowed at my discretion, but please refrain from using them to check social media, play games or answer emails. That’s just rude. Recording devices may be permitted at the discretion of the instructor (see me).

Regarding other issues, I run a fairly casual classroom, but I expect you to treat me and the other students in the class with attention and respect. If you have questions, please ask me instead of whispering to your neighbor. If you have a question, chances are others in the class do as well! Any disruptive, threatening, or violent behavior will be dealt with according to University Policy, which can be found at: http://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/ssm/ssm104-02.html.

Academic Integrity
Scholastic dishonesty on any assignment will result in a failing grade (E) for that assignment which may not be dropped. Scholastic dishonesty includes any kind of cheating. For the university policy, which this class follows, see: http://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/studentacint.html.

All the contents of lectures, including written materials distributed to the class, are under copyright protection. Written permission must be secured from the official instructor(s) of the class in order to sell or in any other way distribute the instructor’s oral communication in the form of notes or in any other way. You may also need permission from the author/publisher of our textbook(s) in order to reproduce such materials. For more information on this, see:
http://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/academic304-06.html

Statement on Course Content (Caveat Lector)
It is very important that students remember that the purpose of this course is to study other cultures. Many aspects of ancient language and society may seem familiar to us today; however, other aspects are also alien and might even be considered offensive in today’s society. If you find some of the course content offensive, please feel free to discuss it with me, my colleagues in Classics, or the director of SILC. All of us may be contacted in person or by email.

Extracurricular Opportunities & Extra Credit
Various extra credit opportunities will be afforded throughout the semester. All extra credit and other extracurricular activities will be announced in class and on Blackboard. Extra credit for this class always applies to the attendance and participation portion of the grade. Extra credit cannot be used to affect test or paper grades.
