College/School: College of Liberal Arts and Sciences
Department: SILC

Prefix SLC Number 394 Title Tales of Troy Units: 3

Is this a cross-listed course? Yes If yes, please identify course(s) GRK 394, LAT 394

Is this a shared course? No
If so, list all academic units offering this course

Note: For courses that are cross-listed and/or shared, a letter of support from the chair/director of each department that offers the course is required for each designation requested. By submitting this letter of support, the chair/director agrees to ensure that all faculty teaching the course are aware of the General Studies designation(s) and will teach the course in a manner that meets the criteria for each approved designation.

Is this a permanent numbered course with topics? No

If yes, all topics under this permanent numbered course must be taught in a manner that meets the criteria for the approved designation(s). It is the responsibility of the chair/director to ensure that all faculty teaching the course are aware of the General Studies designation(s) and adhere to the above guidelines.

Course description: This course provides an in-depth exploration of the ancient Greek primary sources for the Trojan War, including all the major literary sources as well as the archaeology and material culture of the ancient site of Troy. In the second half of the class, students will also be required to explore and engage with the classical tradition of the Trojan war in Roman, Medieval, Renaissance, and modern versions of the story.

Requested designation: Literacy and Critical Inquiry – L Mandatory Review: (Choose one)

Note: a separate proposal is required for each designation.

Eligibility:

Permanent numbered courses must have completed the university’s review and approval process.
For the rules governing approval of omnibus courses, contact Phyllis.Lucie@asu.edu.

Submission deadlines dates are as follow:
For Fall 2016 Effective Date: October 1, 2015
For Spring 2017 Effective Date: March 10, 2016

Area(s) proposed course will serve:

A single course may be proposed for more than one core or awareness area. A course may satisfy a core area requirement and more than one awareness area requirements concurrently, but may not satisfy requirements in two core areas simultaneously, even if approved for those areas. With departmental consent, an approved General Studies course may be counted toward both the General Studies requirement and the major program of study.

Checklists for general studies designations:

Complete and attach the appropriate checklist

- Literacy and Critical Inquiry core courses (L)
- Mathematics core courses (MA)
- Computer/statistics/quantitative applications core courses (CS)
- Humanities, Arts and Design core courses (H)
- Social-Behavioral Sciences core courses (SBS)
- Natural Sciences core courses (NS)
- Cultural Diversity in the United States courses (C)
- Global Awareness courses (G)
- Historical Awareness courses (H)

A complete proposal should include:

- Signed course proposal cover form
- Criteria checklist for General Studies designation(s) being requested
- Course catalog description
- Sample syllabus for the course
- Copy of table of contents from the textbook and list of required readings/books

It is respectfully requested that proposals are submitted electronically with all files compiled into one PDF.

Rationale and Objectives

Literacy is here defined broadly as communicative competence—that is, competence in written and oral discourse. Critical inquiry involves the gathering, interpretation, and evaluation of evidence. Any field of university study may require unique critical skills that have little to do with language in the usual sense (words), but the analysis of written and spoken evidence pervades university study and everyday life. Thus, the General Studies requirements assume that all undergraduates should develop the ability to reason critically and communicate using the medium of language.

The requirement in Literacy and Critical Inquiry presumes, first, that training in literacy and critical inquiry must be sustained beyond traditional First Year English in order to create a habitual skill in every student; and, second, that the skill levels become more advanced, as well as more secure, as the student learns challenging subject matter. Thus, two courses beyond First Year English are required in order for students to meet the Literacy and Critical Inquiry requirement.

Most lower-level [L] courses are devoted primarily to the further development of critical skills in reading, writing, listening, speaking, or analysis of discourse. Upper-division [L] courses generally are courses in a particular discipline into which writing and critical thinking have been fully integrated as means of learning the content and, in most cases, demonstrating that it has been learned.

Notes:

1. ENG 101, 107 or ENG 105 must be prerequisites
2. Honors theses, XXX 493 meet [L] requirements
3. The list of criteria that must be satisfied for designation as a Literacy and Critical Inquiry [L] course is presented on the following page. This list will help you determine whether the current version of your course meets all of these requirements. If you decide to apply, please attach a current syllabus, or handouts, or other documentation that will provide sufficient information for the General Studies Council to make an informed decision regarding the status of your proposal.

SLC 394 Tales of Troy
Syllabus

Course Description and Objectives
This course provides an in-depth exploration of the ancient Greek primary sources for the Trojan War, including all the major literary sources as well as the archaeology and material culture of the ancient site of Troy. In the second half of the class, students will also be required to explore and engage with the classical tradition of the Trojan war in Roman, Medieval, Renaissance, and modern versions of the story.

Learning Outcomes
Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

• Describe the surviving primary sources for the Trojan War from both Ancient Greek and Roman literature and art.
• Distinguish between the works of the major Ancient Greek and Roman sources for the Trojan War according to their content, style, and approach to the mythology.
• Discriminate between the stories of Troy in the ancient sources and the reality of the Trojan War as understood in archaeology, history and material culture.
• Recognize and elucidate the major plot points, characters, and literary devices used by ancient authors to tell the story of Troy.
• Analyze critically the tradition of the Trojan War in later works in comparison to their classical origins.

Required texts
Homer’s Iliad and Odyssey, in The Essential Homer, translation by Stanley Lombardo, Hacket Classics, 2000, ISBN 0872205401
A reader with several Greek and Roman tragedies will also be required. Other shorter texts will be uploaded on blackboard or available through ASU’s online library access.

Contact information and office hours

Office: LL 164B
Office hours: TTh 12:30-1:30, online, and by appointment
email: almira.poudrier@asu.edu
By far the best way to reach me is via email. If you need to set up a meeting outside of my posted office hours, please contact me via email. Please also note that I may hold online office hours in addition to my in-person office hours. Details about that will be available on Blackboard. I don’t have a phone in my office. In the case of an emergency, you may call or text me on my cell phone at 602-738-5784. You may find you have better luck getting me on email though!

Grading. I grade on a straight percent scale, not on a curve. All grades are final and non-negotiable (although I am very willing to correct any mistakes in blackboard and/or explain my criteria if you should have questions). Grades will be assigned using the plus/minus system implemented in Fall 2004.

Assessment
Attendance and homework preparation will be assessed for individual students through evaluation of daily short written responses to questions. These will mostly be questions about the reading, and may ask the student to reproduce details from the readings or to reflect upon thematic questions in a critical way. Group work in class will happen randomly and will address larger thematic questions in a comparative way. Group work online will happen weekly and is intended to help the students develop ideas for the two research projects. Grades for group work will generally be given for the whole group, but I reserve the right to give individual grades for the chronically unprepared. Participation in daily discussions will also count toward attendance and participation grade. Daily written assignments, group work, and class discussion grades cannot be made up under any circumstances.

C1, C2, C3
The midterm paper for the course will be on a topic of critical inquiry and research which will result in a short research paper, at least 3000 words, with reference to at least one primary source and at least 5 reputable secondary sources. The topic will be highly focused and chosen by the student in consultation with the instructor. Topics must address primarily the ancient Greek sources for the Trojan War. A separate rough draft is required, including a thesis statement, outline, and bibliography. The rough draft will be returned to the student before the final paper is due, to facilitate the production of the paper and improve the student’s ability to craft a strong argument.

The final project will be a presentation in class on a topic of critical inquiry and comparative analysis which will be conducted by a group of 3 or 4 students working together. Pairs may be allowed in a smaller class at the instructor’s discretion. Each group will choose a work in the classical tradition and analyze it comparatively, with special reference to the ancient Greek primary sources that are the focus of the course readings, but with considerable freedom to compare medieval, Renaissance and modern works. Topics will be chosen by groups in consultation with the instructor. Each student will be responsible for gathering evidence and interpretive analysis as part of their contribution to the project. This can be done in various formats such as choosing a different work for each student to compare to the ancient Greek source material, but some flexibility will be allowed in format. Each student in the group will also be required to turn in a summary report of their research and their contribution to the final presentation. Preliminary work in the form of thesis, bibliography, and powerpoint rough draft will be required for the whole group, to facilitate the production of the presentation and improve the students’ ability to craft a strong argument.

Attendance, Absences & Accommodations
Attendance is required. In-class activities such as group work and daily attendance exercises cannot be made up under any circumstances. Other assignments can be made up in cases of an emergency or illness, but I will insist on documentation of the reason for your absence.

If you require accommodations on assignments for a disability, university-sanctioned event, or religious holiday, you must let me know in advance. See the links below for the accommodations the university provides and that this class follows:
- Disability resources: http://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/ssm/index.html#700  NB: Students requesting accommodation for reasons of a disability must be registered with the Disability Resource Center and submit the appropriate documentation from the DRC.

Classroom Behavior
During class, please refrain from using your various portable devices. Use of these items—however unobtrusive you may think you’re being—is distracting and annoying to those around you and to me. If you absolutely need to take a call or respond to a text in an emergency, please leave the classroom to do so and return when your business is finished. Tablets and laptops for note-taking purposes may be allowed at my discretion, but please refrain from using them to check social media, play games or answer emails. That’s just rude. Recording devices may be permitted at the discretion of the instructor (see me).

Regarding other issues, I run a fairly casual classroom, but I expect you to treat me and the other students in the class with attention and respect. If you have questions, please ask me instead of whispering to your neighbor. If you have a question, chances are others in the class do as well! Any disruptive, threatening, or violent behavior will be dealt with according to University Policy, which can be found at: http://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/ssm/ssm104-02.html

Academic Integrity
Scholastic dishonesty on any assignment will result in a failing grade (E) for that assignment which may not be dropped.
Scholastic dishonesty includes any kind of cheating. For the university policy, which this class follows, see:

All the contents of lectures, including written materials distributed to the class, are under copyright protection. Written permission must be secured from the official instructor(s) of the class in order to sell the instructor’s oral communication in the form of notes. You may also need permission from the author/publisher of our textbook in order to reproduce such materials. For more information on this, see: http://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd304-06.html

Statement on Course Content (Caveat Lector)
It is very important that students remember that the purpose of this course is to study other cultures. Many aspects of ancient language and society may seem familiar to us today; however, other aspects are also alien and might even be considered offensive in today’s society. If you find some of the course content offensive, please feel free to discuss it with me, my colleagues in Classics, or the director of SILC. All of us may be contacted in person or by email.

Extracurricular Opportunities & Extra Credit
Various extra credit opportunities will be afforded throughout the semester. All extra credit and other extracurricular activities will be announced in class and on Blackboard. Extra credit for this class always applies to the attendance and participation portion of the grade. Extra credit cannot be used to affect test or final exam grades.
