College/School: College of Liberal Arts and Sciences
Department: SILC

Prefix  SLC  Number  194  Title  Gods and Monsters: Comparative Mythology  Units: 3

Is this a cross-listed course?  No  If yes, please identify course(s)

Is this a shared course?  No  If so, list all academic units offering this course

Note: For courses that are crosslisted and/or shared, a letter of support from the chair/director of each department that offers the course is required for each designation requested. By submitting this letter of support, the chair/director agrees to ensure that all faculty teaching the course are aware of the General Studies designation(s) and will teach the course in a manner that meets the criteria for each approved designation.

Is this a permanent numbered course with topics?  No

If yes, all topics under this permanent numbered course must be taught in a manner that meets the criteria for the approved designation(s). It is the responsibility of the chair/director to ensure that all faculty teaching the course are aware of the General Studies designation(s) and adhere to the above guidelines.

Chair/Director Initials

Requested designation: Global Awareness-G  Mandatory Review: No
Note: a separate proposal is required for each designation.

Eligibility:
Permanent numbered courses must have completed the university’s review and approval process.
For the rules governing approval of omnibus courses, contact Phyllis.Lucie@asu.edu.

Submission deadlines dates are as follow:
For Fall 2016 Effective Date: October 1, 2015
For Spring 2017 Effective Date: March 10, 2016

Area(s) proposed course will serve:
A single course may be proposed for more than one core or awareness area. A course may satisfy a core area requirement and more than one awareness area requirements concurrently, but may not satisfy requirements in two core areas simultaneously, even if approved for those areas. With departmental consent, an approved General Studies course may be counted toward both the General Studies requirement and the major program of study.

Checklists for general studies designations:
Complete and attach the appropriate checklist

- Literacy and Critical Inquiry core courses (L)
- Mathematics core courses (MA)
- Computer/statistics/quantitative applications core courses (CS)
- Humanities, Arts and Design core courses (HU)
- Social-Behavioral Sciences core courses (SB)
- Natural Sciences core courses (SS/SG)
- Cultural Diversity in the United States courses (C)
- Global Awareness courses (G)
- Historical Awareness courses (H)

A complete proposal should include:
- Signed course proposal cover form
- Criteria checklist for General Studies designation(s) being requested
- Course catalog description
- Sample syllabus for the course
- Copy of table of contents from the textbook and list of required readings/books

It is respectfully requested that proposals are submitted electronically with all files compiled into one PDF.

Arizona State University Criteria Checklist for

GLOBAL AWARENESS [G]

Rationale and Objectives

Human organizations and relationships have evolved from being family and village centered to modern global interdependence. The greatest challenge in the nuclear age is developing and maintaining a global perspective which fosters international cooperation. While the modern world is comprised of politically independent states, people must transcend nationalism and recognize the significant interdependence among peoples of the world. The exposure of students to different cultural systems provides the background of thought necessary to developing a global perspective.

Cultural learning is present in many disciplines. Exposure to perspectives on art, business, engineering, music, and the natural and social sciences that lead to an understanding of the contemporary world supports the view that intercultural interaction has become a daily necessity. The complexity of American society forces people to balance regional and national goals with global concerns. Many of the most serious problems are world issues and require solutions which exhibit mutuality and reciprocity. No longer are hunger, ecology, health care delivery, language planning, information exchanges, economic and social developments, law, technology transfer, philosophy, and the arts solely national concerns; they affect all the people of the world. Survival may be dependent on the ability to generate global solutions to some of the most pressing problems.

The word university, from universitas, implies that knowledge comes from many sources and is not restricted to local, regional, or national perspectives. The Global Awareness Area recognizes the need for an understanding of the values, elements, and social processes of cultures other than the culture of the United States. Learning which recognizes the nature of others cultures and the relationship of America’s cultural system to generic human goals and welfare will help create the multicultural and global perspective necessary for effective interaction in the human community.

Courses which meet the requirement in global awareness are of one or more of the following types: (1) in-depth area studies which are concerned with an examination of culture-specific elements of a region of the world, country, or culture group, (2) the study of contemporary non-English language courses that have a significant cultural component, (3) comparative cultural studies with an emphasis on non-U.S. areas, and (4) in-depth studies of non-U.S. centered cultural interrelationships of global scope such as the global interdependence produced by problems of world ecology, multinational corporations, migration, and the threat of nuclear war.

<td>The first learning outcome indicates that “every major geographical area of the world” will be covered. This may be seen even more clearly from the day-by-day schedule for the course, where most modules are divided up into regional focuses. America (here meaning not the USA, but rather the Western Hemisphere as a whole) is represented less than 20% of the time, and then by aboriginal myths. While the popular understanding of myth relegates it to the past—and certainly most myths have prehistoric origins—myth remains a vibrant force in the world today, and the class dedicates much of its analysis to this thread. Catalog course description

This course is an introduction to world mythology, including classical Greek and Roman, Middle Eastern, Germanic, Biblical, and New World traditions. The course will be organized around themes like the origins of the gods, love stories, flood stories, the world of the dead, heroic sagas, war stories, and others. Students will be asked to read short selections from the various cultures and compare the stories in specific and analytical ways, using innovative technologies like student-generated video blogs and journal posts for their assignments.
Course Description: An introduction to world mythology via a comparative approach.

Enrollment Requirements: No prerequisites. Course fulfills the following General Studies requirements: TBD.

Course Overview: This course will guide students in comparing the mythology of a number of different cultures, including ancient Greek, Asian, Middle Eastern, European, Biblical, and aboriginal traditions. The readings and assessments for the course will be rooted in the relevant literature from each tradition. The course will therefore introduce students to (short selections from) texts from a variety of cultures, including ancient Greek epic and tragedy, the Bhagavad Gita, the classical Chinese epic Journey to the West, the various flood stories from Mesopotamian cultures, the Egyptian Book of the Dead, the Persian Shahnameh, and Old Norse sagas. In addition, students will encounter oral tradition and folklore from the Brothers Grimm, Slavic creature stories, Navajo texts, African records, and Mesoamerican cultures like the Aztecs. These types of texts will invite discussion of cultural appropriation and the modern uses of such traditions as well.

Student Learning Outcomes: After completion of the course, students will be able to:
- demonstrate knowledge of the mythological traditions of every major geographical area of the world
- assess new mythological material and place it within its cultural and thematic context
- compare and contrast mythological themes as expressed by different cultures with a view to insight both into mythology and culture
- analyze different cultures’ attitudes towards and use of mythology
- explore the use of mythology in the modern world
- evaluate the cultural appropriation of myth between cultures
- state the effect of increasing globalization on mythological traditions and studies

Required Materials:
- a few other readings are available on the Blackboard site
• a TurningPoint account (used with either a clicker, responseware.com, or the ResponseWare smartphone app)

Grading Scale:
The grading scale for the course will be as follows:

A+: 100 (A+'s are only given for natural 100s, before the addition of any extra credit that may be offered)
A: 93-99
A-: 90-92
B+: 87-89
B: 83-86
B-: 80-82
C+: 77-79
C: 70-76
D: 60-69
E: below 60

Breakdown of the Final Grade: Your final grade will comprise the weighted total of the grades from the following categories.

Attendance and Participation (measured by TurningPoint) 20%
Two midterms (15% each) 30%
Final examination 20%
Video presentation (5 minutes) 10%
Group activities on Blackboard (blog) 20%

Attendance and participation. Students are expected to attend class, as this is crucial to success in the course. Attendance will be measured by answering questions on the lecture and reading material for the day using a TurningPoint account via a clicker or responseware.com. Participation will be measured by answering opinion questions or polls during the lectures.

Two midterms. Each of the (roughly) first two-thirds of the course will end with a midterm examination or the final. The first midterm will be M 9/25, and covers the first three units of the course. The second midterm will be M 11/13, and covers units 4-6. The midterms are not cumulative, only covering their specific units.

Final Examination. The last third of the course will end with a final during final exam period (currently scheduled for M 12/4, 12:10-2 pm). The final will cover unit 7 and the concluding lectures (not cumulative) and include an essay that is meant to demonstrate knowledge of the breadth of material covered in the course (cumulative).

Video presentation: Each student will create a five-minute video presentation comparing and contrasting two different myths. One myth will have been covered in the course; the other myth will not have been covered in the course and will be of the student’s choosing.

Group activities on Blackboard (blog): Each student will be assigned to a group representing one of the cultures or areas covered in the course. For each unit, each student will submit a blog post on one of the myths covered in that unit for their culture, stating what they think are the most important themes and noting any parallels or correspondences with other cultures’ mythologies.

Academic integrity

Academic honesty is expected of all students in all examinations, papers, and laboratory work, academic transactions and records. The possible sanctions include, but are not limited to, appropriate grade penalties, course failure (indicated on the transcript as a grade of E), course failure due to academic dishonesty (indicated on the transcript as a grade of XE), loss of registration privileges, disqualification and dismissal. For more information, see http://provost.asu.edu/academicintegrity

Accommodating students with disabilities

Students who feel they will need disability accommodations in this class but have not registered with the Disability Resource Center (DRC) should contact DRC immediately. The DRC Tempe office is located on the first floor of the Matthews Center Building. DRC staff can also be reached at: (480) 965-1234 (V) or (480) 965-9000 (TTY). For additional information, visit: www.asu.edu/studentaffairs/ed/drc.

Accommodations for religious reasons and extracurricular activities

Students with religious needs that will require their absence from class should alert the instructor as soon as possible and make any arrangements needed to make up work.

Likewise, students involved in extracurricular activities may be excused from class upon proper notification from their supervisors or coaches.

Classroom behavior

Be sure to arrive on time for class. Excessive tardiness will be subject to sanctions. Under no circumstances should you allow your cell phone to ring during class. Any disruptive behavior, which includes ringing cell phones, listening to your mp3/iPod player, text messaging, constant talking, eating food noisily, reading a newspaper will not be tolerated. The use of laptops (unless for note taking), cell phones, MP3, IPOD, etc. are strictly prohibited during class.

Policy against threatening behavior
All incidents and allegations of violent or threatening conduct by an ASU student (whether on-or off campus) must be reported to the ASU Police Department (ASU PD) and the Office of the Dean of Students. If either office determines that the behavior poses or has posed a serious threat to personal safety or to the welfare of the campus, the student will not be permitted to return to campus or reside in any ASU residence hall until an appropriate threat assessment has been completed and, if necessary, conditions for return are imposed. ASU PD, the Office of the Dean of Students, and other appropriate offices will coordinate the assessment in light of the relevant circumstances.

Friendly Warning: This course deals with the study of other cultures whose customs may be alien to you. Some of those customs and the material in the texts we read may be offensive to you. If you are disturbed by anything covered in the course, please feel free to discuss your concerns with me as the instructor, my immediate supervisor, Mike Tueller (mtuelle1@asu.edu), or the director of SILC, Nina Berman (Nina.Berman@asu.edu).

NB: This syllabus is subject to change if the instructor deems it so necessary academically.
