GLOBAL AWARENESS [G]

Rationale and Objectives

Human organizations and relationships have evolved from being family and village centered to modern global interdependence. The greatest challenge in the nuclear age is developing and maintaining a global perspective which fosters international cooperation. While the modern world is comprised of politically independent states, people must transcend nationalism and recognize the significant interdependence among peoples of the world. The exposure of students to different cultural systems provides the background of thought necessary to developing a global perspective.

Cultural learning is present in many disciplines. Exposure to perspectives on art, business, engineering, music, and the natural and social sciences that lead to an understanding of the contemporary world supports the view that intercultural interaction has become a daily necessity. The complexity of American society forces people to balance regional and national goals with global concerns. Many of the most serious problems are world issues and require solutions which exhibit mutuality and reciprocity. No longer are hunger, ecology, health care delivery, language planning, information exchanges, economic and social developments, law, technology transfer, philosophy, and the arts solely national concerns; they affect all the people of the world. Survival may be dependent on the ability to generate global solutions to some of the most pressing problems.

The word university, from universitas, implies that knowledge comes from many sources and is not restricted to local, regional, or national perspectives. The Global Awareness Area recognizes the need for an understanding of the values, elements, and social processes of cultures other than the culture of the United States. Learning which recognizes the nature of others cultures and the relationship of America’s cultural system to generic human goals and welfare will help create the multicultural and global perspective necessary for effective interaction in the human community.

Courses which meet the requirement in global awareness are of one or more of the following types: (1) in-depth area studies which are concerned with an examination of culture-specific elements of a region of the world, country, or culture group, (2) the study of contemporary non-English language courses that have a significant cultural component, (3) comparative cultural studies with an emphasis on non-U.S. areas, and (4) in-depth studies of non-U.S. centered cultural interrelationships of global scope such as the global interdependence produced by problems of world ecology, multinational corporations, migration, and the threat of nuclear war.

Course Description
This course traces the socio-political history of the wider Caribbean from the fifteenth century to the present. It walks students through the journey “From Columbus to Castro,” (Dr Eric Williams) and addresses the following broad areas: the early years of European settlement and colonization, the construction of slavery and Plantation society and the transition from Colonization to Political Independence. It also gives students a glimpse into contemporary Caribbean Society and introduces them to some of the personalities that have contributed to the evolution of the Caribbean. The main objective of the course is to give students a broad understanding of the origins and building blocs of Caribbean society as well as a grasp of the linkages between the region and the rest of the African Diaspora. While the course is grounded in history it is simultaneously an introduction to the evolution of Caribbean Culture, Sociology and Political Economy.

Required Readings

James Ferguson, Makers of the Caribbean, Kingston: Ian Randle Publishers (Latest edition)

Supplementary Materials
Videos: As a supplement to the readings students will look at several videos during the course of the semester.

For further resources on the Caribbean students are urged to utilize the following website:

Course Requirements
Exams
Students will do four exams during the course of the semester—each exam covers work done in the preceding four weeks. The exams, which will take the form of short answers and essays, will be part take-home and part in-class and are worth 80% of the final grade (20% each).

There will be no make-up exam unless students provide a doctor’s proof of illness or satisfactory proof of an emergency.
Book Review
Students will choose and read a book from a list to be provided by the Professor and do a 5-7 page Book Review. This assignment is worth 20% of the final grade and is due on Week 12. The review should include the following:
A brief summary
Main points/arguments/themes
How the book is linked to the course
Points you agree/disagree with
Readability of the text/Documentation
New Information
Strength/Weaknesses
Author's knowledge of Subject

Attendance and Participation
Students are expected to attend classes regularly and participate in the discussions. While students will not be penalized for missing classes, those who attend classes regularly will stand to benefit as classroom lectures will be pivotal to doing well in the class. Students are urged to keep the Professor updated on illness and other emergencies

Extra Credit Assignments
The Professor will give Extra Credit Assignments from time to time during the semester. These assignments are optional, but students are encouraged to take advantage of the opportunities to do them. Students who are absent on the days the assignments are given will not be allowed to do them.

Note: Students should strive for quality work regardless of the number of pages it takes.

Grading Scale
A: 90-100 points
B: 80-89 points
C: 70-79 points
D: 60-69 points
F: Below 60 points

Makers of the Caribbean

James Ferguson
Makers of the Caribbean introduces young readers to the lives, ideas, exploits and achievements of a selection of personalities who in their own right have helped to make the Caribbean we know today. Organized around ten selected themes, the book recognizes the contributions of Freedom Fighters, Politicians, Visionaries and Intellectuals, Writers and Performers. Artists, Musicians and Sportspersons are featured throughout the lives of the people of the region. This introductory biography is written in a clear and accessible style, with the text supplemented by references to what were previously only names or texts that were previously only names or faces. The Story of the Caribbean People

JAMES FERGUSON
The concept of the Caribbean is an extremely difficult one to delineate, because to some extent, the area is merely a geographic expression. It is, therefore, one of the triumphs of this full and fascinating book that James Ferguson has managed to produce a clear and vivid portrayal of the history and progress of the people who inhabit the region.

The book explores the historical processes that have contributed to the moulding of the Caribbean into its present-day form. It follows the development of the Caribbean from its pre-Columbian period, and the impact of American foreign policy on these small and vulnerable countries. It, finally, assesses the contemporary Caribbean in an age of globalization and trading blocs in which concerns over communist subversion have been replaced by anxieties related to drugs and illegal immigration.

Perceptions of the Caribbean have long been determined by European concepts and prejudices and the region's history has traditionally been dominated by a Eurocentric perspective which tends to emphasize the importance of external agents at the expense of the Caribbean people themselves. "The Story of the Caribbean People" tries to redress this imbalance by writing the Caribbean people themselves into their own history.

This history has all too often been divided up along the old colonial lines; French historians have tended to write about Martinique and Guadeloupe; Cuba, Puerto Rico and the Dominican Republic have attracted Spanish-speaking researchers; the Netherlands Antilles have been largely ignored outside Holland. Among generations of scholars studying the English-speaking West Indies, there was a tendency to view the rest of the region as somehow separate or "foreign." In this book, James Ferguson treats the region as a whole, looking not so much at what has separated the different island groupings, but at what they have in common, historically and culturally.

A concise and authoritative history of the Caribbean complete with historical maps, unusual line illustrations, an A-Z historical gazetteer and a chronology of major events.

James Ferguson is a researcher at the Latin American Bureau, London and a former Research Fellow at St. Edmund Hall, Oxford. He is the author of books on Haiti, the Dominican Republic, Grenada and Venezuela.

Scars of Bondage
A First Study of the Slave Colonial Experience of Africans in Guyana

Enri Kwanyana and Tenniko Kwanyana
Scars of Bondage
A First Study of the Slave Colonial Experience of Africans in Guyana
Ensi Kwana and Tekiko Kwana

Nowhere in the Western Hemisphere do the children of the Africans own the means of production on which they were exploited during slavery. Why? After centuries of exacted labour, all the large African populations in the Western Hemisphere find themselves victims, or at best, mere agents of the owners of the means of production, distribution and credit. Often, the grandchildren of the enslaved Africans are themselves blamed for this condition and, perhaps, they are to blame for the absence of effective liberation in the present century. However, only careful study can explain the economic status, and the personality of Africans.

In Guyana, African descendants in any walk of life are sitting ducks for value judgements since there are other mass communities to which they can be compared. It is very fashionable, for example, to compare them with the Indian (or East Indian), in psyche or personality, and in economic achievement and in social organisation.

This book tries to warn that such judgements are absurd in that they do not fully consider the social fires which moulded the African’s destiny in Guyana. The point is stressed that although others were oppressed, for example, Amerindians had been also enslaved and dispossessed, no other community was made to endure over three centuries of enslavement. No other has had its social foundations set adrift by a denial of family life for almost the entire period of enslavement and after.
