Arizona State University Criteria Checklist for

HISTORICAL AWARENESS [H]

Rationale and Objectives
The lack of historical awareness on the part of contemporary university graduates has led recent studies of higher education to call for the creation and development of historical consciousness in undergraduates now and in the future. From one perspective historical awareness is a valuable aid in the analysis of present-day problems because historical forces and traditions have created modern life and lie just beneath its surface. From a second perspective, the historical past is an indispensable source of national identity and of values which facilitate social harmony and cooperative effort. Along with this observation, it should be noted that historical study can produce intercultural understanding by tracing cultural differences to their origins in the past. A third perspective on the need for historical awareness is summed up in the aphorism that he who fails to learn from the past is doomed to repeat it. Teachers of today's students know well that those students do not usually approach questions of war and peace with any knowledge of historic concord, aggression, or cruelty, including even events so recent as Nazi and Stalinist terror.

The requirement of a course which is historical in method and content presumes that "history" designates a sequence of past events or a narrative whose intent or effect is to represent such a sequence. The requirement also presumes that these are human events and that history includes all that has been felt, thought, imagined, said, and done by human beings. The opportunities for nurturing historical consciousness are nearly unlimited. History is present in the languages, art, music, literatures, philosophy, religion, and the natural sciences, as well as in the social science traditionally called History.
The Historical Awareness [H] Course must meet the following criteria:

Course Description
This course explores the ideas that have shaped politics in the Black World from the mid-nineteenth century onwards. These include ideas of resistance, liberation, nation and governance, emanating from Africa, the USA, the Caribbean and Latin America. The course seeks to give students an understanding of these ideas within the context of the historical development of the Black World and the larger global community. Hence, the intersection of politics, race and history. Ideas to be explored include Black Nationalism, Black Feminism, Race and Ethnicity, Black Liberalism, Black Power, Black Marxism and Pan Africanism. In the process students will be exposed to seminal Black thinkers such as CLR James, WEB Dubois, CLR James, Marcus Garvey, Stokely Carmichael, Ida B Wells, Walter Rodney, Kwame Nkrumah, Eusi Kwayana and Angela Davis. This course is particularly useful for students with an interest in Political Philosophy, Political History, Black Liberation, Race and Global History and Politics.

Required Textbooks

Course Packet: Black Political Thought in the African Diaspora

Course Requirements
Exams
Students will do four (4) exams during the course of the semester. Each exam is worth 20% of the total grade.

Book Review
Students will choose and read a book from a list to be provided by the Professor and do a 7-10 page Book Review. The list of books will be distributed to students. Please okay your book with me no later than the end of Week 6. This assignment is worth 20% of the final grade and is due by the end of Week 12. The review should include the following:

Discussion of Main points/arguments/themes
How the book is linked to two themes of the course
Points you agree/disagree with
New Information
Author's knowledge of Subject

Attendance and Participation
Students are expected to attend classes regularly and participate in the discussions. While students will not be penalized for missing classes, those who attend classes regularly will stand to benefit as classroom lectures will be pivotal to doing well in the class and the more you are present, the more you are likely to participate. If you miss more than four classes you are beginning to lose ground.

Extra Credit Assignments
The Professor will give Extra Credit Assignments from time to time during the semester. These assignments are optional, but students are encouraged to take advantage of the opportunities to do them. Students who are absent on the days the assignments are given will not be allowed to do them.

Grading Scale
A: 90-100 points
B: 80-89 points
C: 70-79 points
D: 60-69 points
F: Below 60 points

Caliban’s Reason
Introducing Afro-Caribbean Philosophy
Paget Henry
“Paget Henry refines the intellectual life of the Caribbean like an alchemist, transmuting implicit ontologies, existential psychologies, and epistemologies into an explicit philosophy at a high level of sophistication and reflexivity. He pours into the mixture European intellectual tools, African ethnosophy, and postcolonial insurgencies, and from their clashes and meldings issues a stream of creativity. The result—Caliban’s Reason—is both a revealing work of intellectual history, and a new impetus in philosophy.”

“A signal contribution to an important if long-neglected aspect of West Indian cultural and intellectual life. Caliban’s Reason critically restores several key figures of international influence—C. L. R. James, Frantz Fanon, Wilson Harris—to their Antillean context and particularity, urging us to recognize the existence of a distinctively regional tradition of ‘Caribbean’ philosophical discourse. Henry’s examination of that tradition reveals both its debt to African philosophy and our need to reassess the ways we conventionally represent Caribbean thought. Caliban’s Reason should provoke lively discussion about the process of Caribbean creolization and the creole caribbeanization of philosophy.”

—Roberto Marquez, founding editor of Caliban: A Journal of New World Thought and Writing

Paget Henry is an associate professor of sociology and Afro-American studies at Brown University. He is the author of Peripheral Capitalism and Underdevelopment in Antigua and the co-editor of C. L. R. James’s Caribbean. Henry is also the editor of The C. L. R. James Journal, and has published numerous articles on the political economy of the Caribbean, as well as on African and Afro-Caribbean philosophy.

BLACK VISIONS
The Roots of Contemporary African-American Political Ideologies

Michael C. Dawson
"Black Visions is the most comprehensive and definitive study of African-American political thought ever published. Michael C. Dawson uses his keen analytic insights to superbly integrate and interpret original empirical findings and materials from secondary sources. The result is a book that will become a standard reference for students of black political thought."

—William Julius Wilson

"Michael Dawson's Black Visions is a must read for all students of black political thought. Dawson combines an historically situated methodology with complex quantitative analysis of contemporary national public opinion polls. His scholarly range gives momentum to his analysis and simultaneously provides an impressive evidentiary basis for his conclusions. Dawson convincingly argues that black political thought, though often noisy and impolite, is both more complex than most of us realize and yet key to appreciating the intertwined phenomena of race and American democracy. He details, in some of the most interesting chapters in the volume, the multiple ways in which black political thought, from black feminism to disillusioned liberalism, has developed autonomously while interacting with political debate generally. Dawson documents how black ideologies provide their own sustaining narrative of resistance and triumph while often embracing a larger than life version of the American creed. He effectively contrasts the robust vision that animates many ideologies within the black community with the thin view of both democracy and equality that anchors opinion within the larger elite spectrum of our society. Dawson's study of black political thought offers a trenchant understanding—as well as a deeply grounded critique—of the theory and practice of American democracy."

—Lani Guinier

"Michael Dawson exhibits a rare capacity to weave together African-American history, scholarship, and cultural ethos with a cutting-edge methodological sophistication and behaviorist commitment to hypothesis-testing and modeling. Black Visions is a signal achievement that will command attention across the social sciences and most likely blaze a trail for the next generation of political scientists interested in understanding African-American political behavior."
