Arizona State University Criteria Checklist for

HUMANITIES, ARTS AND DESIGN [HU]

Rationale and Objectives

The humanities disciplines are concerned with questions of human existence and meaning, the nature of thinking and knowing, with moral and aesthetic experience. The humanities develop values of all kinds by making the human mind more supple, critical, and expansive. They are concerned with the study of the textual and artistic traditions of diverse cultures, including traditions in literature, philosophy, religion, ethics, history, and aesthetics. In sum, these disciplines explore the range of human thought and its application to the past and present human environment. They deepen awareness of the diversity of the human heritage and its traditions and histories and they may also promote the application of this knowledge to contemporary societies.

The study of the arts and design, like the humanities, deepens the student’s awareness of the diversity of human societies and cultures. The arts have as their primary purpose the creation and study of objects, installations, performances and other means of expressing or conveying aesthetic concepts and ideas. Design study concerns itself with material objects, images and spaces, their historical development, and their significance in society and culture. Disciplines in the arts and design employ modes of thought and communication that are often nonverbal, which means that courses in these areas tend to focus on objects, images, and structures and/or on the practical techniques and historical development of artistic and design traditions. The past and present accomplishments of artists and designers help form the student’s ability to perceive aesthetic qualities of art work and design.

The Humanities, Arts and Design are an important part of the General Studies Program, for they provide an opportunity for students to study intellectual and imaginative traditions and to observe and/or learn the production of art work and design. The knowledge acquired in courses fulfilling the Humanities, Arts and Design requirement may encourage students to investigate their own personal philosophies or beliefs and to understand better their own social experience. In sum, the Humanities, Arts and Design core area enables students to broaden and deepen their consideration of the variety of human experience.

FSH 204 - Social Aspects of Fashion

Course Description
Introduces ways of examining clothing and fashion in context. How do we read images and representations of clothing and how do they manipulate the meaning of the garment and its wearer? In what ways is this visual language used to select and produce fashion? What influences how we dress on a daily basis and over time? These are just some of the questions about appearance, clothing and culture that are used to embark on a participatory research project and as a point of departure for class discussions and related readings.

Syllabus

Fashion is not in dresses only. Fashion is in the sky, in the street, fashion has to do with ideas, the way we live what is happening.
Coco Chanel

Course Description: This course is an introduction to ways of examining clothing and fashion in context. How do we read images and representations of clothing and how do they manipulate the meaning of the garment and its wearer? In what ways is this visual language used to select and produce fashion? What influences how we dress on a daily basis and over time? These are just some of the questions about appearance, clothing and culture that will be used as a point of departure for class discussions and related readings and as a basis for a final paper.

Enrollment Requirements
Students must have completed their Freshman Composition requirements and ARS 101: Art-Prehistory thru Middle Age or ARS 102: Art from Renaissance to Present or ARS 201: Art of Asia or ARS: 202 Art of Africa Oceania and the Americas.

Course Goals: At the conclusion of this course you will be able to identify and discuss a wide range of issues related to culture, clothing and human behavior. The process will prepare you to examine and construct your own critical views based on scholarly research and critical analysis preparing you to be conscious and innovative fashion/image makers.

Learning Outcomes:
Upon completion of this course, students will be able to:

• Use key research methods and concepts in fashion theory, and present critical analyses in written and oral form.
• Demonstrate an awareness of how meaning is constructed in fashion and the ability to apply these concepts to situations.
Required reading:
Additional readings will occasionally be provided

Requirements and assessment:
This course is made up of a series of weekly lecture/discussions building on the assigned readings. A final paper is required.

Reading response, Class discussion starter and participation in discussion: 100 points
Fashion exhibition or event review: 100 points
Final paper: 200 points
Total: 400 points

Your semester grade is based on the following scale:
390 or higher = A+
370-389.9 = A
360-369.9 = A-
350-359.9 = B+
330-349.9 = B
320-329.9 = B-
310-319.9 = C+
280-309.9 = C
260-279.9 = D
0-259.9 = E

Reading Response and Discussion: 100 Total points
DUE: each week from week 2 through 14
Reading Response- Each Thursday, class will begin with a 15-minute handwritten response to 1-2 questions based on the weekly reading assignment. This response will be used as a foundation for the in-class recitation activity each week and turned in to the instructor as evidence of attendance and participation at the end of each class. The length of this written material will vary on a weekly basis (1/2 page-1 pages).
Discussion- Each Thursday the class will consist of a discussion, as a group, that reflects upon and critically analyzes the lecture themes and readings.
Class Discussion Starter:
Each student will sign up for two dates for the responsibility of starting the class discussion on that Thursday class day. A signup sheet will be circulated on the first day of class for you to pick the dates you will fulfill this requirement. On your assigned date, Discussion Starters will present to the class your ideas on the readings in your own words and indicate how it relates to current topics or jobs in the fashion industry. You can also bring in images to share with the class as appropriate to the reading. Every student should read the readings listed for that week and will be expected to participate.
Fashion Exhibition or Event Review: 100 points
DUE: April 11
Students will attend either a local fashion exhibition or a fashion-related talk/lecture/special event and compose a typed, 2-page double-spaced review. The review should include the following: a summary of the exhibition/event, a critique of the event (what did you enjoy? What was missing? Etc) and a question or reflection that the exhibition/event instigated related to the topics in this class. Please include proof of attendance (photo, pamphlet, receipt).

Final paper: 200 points
DUE: February 21 Submit outline for final paper
March 25 Submit Final paper
You will write a 1,500-1,800 word paper that provides an analysis of a cultural aspect that impacts fashion. Choose a current fashion topic or image and analyze the cultural factors behind its creation and its meaning in contemporary society. Even though the paper will be short, you will be able to fit in a lot of information, write clearly, and use at least 5 library resources to back up your theories. Please use the following guidelines.

• attach a cover sheet
• use Arial or Calibri 12 point font. Single space.
• Only printed copies will be accepted unless permission is given for a special circumstance.
• If you are writing about an article, photo or image, please include the image in the paper.

Assessment and Grading:
All assignments are due on the due date on the syllabus, regardless of your attendance on the day the assignment was given. It is the student’s responsibility to get the assignment to the professor if you will not be in class to hand it in. Make certain to contact the professor to set up an appointment in the event of a problem. Assignments are graded on different criteria depending on the project. Each project has different guidelines so following the instructions is very important to the overall grade. If a paper is turned in late the grade will be lowered by an entire letter grade for each week. The final paper will not be accepted late.

Grade Criteria:
There are no unexcused absences or tardies. Students are expected to attend all classes. Any unexcused absences may affect the final grade. Three unexcused absences may result in course failure at the discretion of the instructor.

Absence Due to University Sanctioned Activities or Religious Observances
If you need to miss class due to a religious observance or a university-sanctioned activity, please inform the instructor at the beginning of the semester. In the event of a medical emergency, please email the instructor when able and provide documentation if requested.

Academic Integrity
ASU expects and requires its students to act with honesty, integrity, and respect. Required behavior standards are listed in the Student Code of Conduct and Student Disciplinary Procedures, Computer, Internet, and Electronic Communications policy, ASU Student Academic Integrity Policy, and outlined by the Office of Student Rights & Responsibilities. Anyone in violation of these policies is subject to sanctions.

Violent or Threatening Behavior
All incidents and allegations of violent or threatening conduct by an ASU student (whether on- or off-campus) will be reported to the ASU Police Department (ASU PD) and the Office of the Dean of Students, who will determine the appropriate disciplinary action.
Accommodation for a Disability

In compliance with the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, Section 504, and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, professional disability specialists and support staff at the Disability Resource Center (DRC) facilitate a comprehensive range of academic support services and accommodations for qualified students with disabilities.

Qualified participants with disabilities may be eligible to receive academic support services and accommodations. Eligibility is based on qualifying disability documentation and assessment of individual need. Participants who believe they have a current and essential need for disability accommodations are responsible for requesting accommodations and providing qualifying documentation to the DRC. Every effort is made to provide reasonable accommodations for qualified participants with disabilities.

Qualified participants who wish to request an accommodation for a disability should contact http://www.asu.edu/studentaffairs/ed/drc/480-965-1234 (Voice) 480-965-9000 (TTY)

Please turn off or silence cell phones, prior to coming to class sessions. If you have an emergency and need to keep in communication with someone, please inform your instructor ahead of time. Also, laptops are not required for this course. You may use your laptop to take notes. Please do not use class time for emails, chats, web browsing, or other non-class related activities.
