College/School	College of Liberal Arts and Sciences	Department/School	SILC
Prefix: JPN	Number: 394	Title: Japanese Civilization from the Ice Age to Last Thursday	Units: 3

Course description:

JPN 394 provides an overview of the entire sweep of Japanese history and culture from the earliest inhabitants of the Japanese archipelago, c. 30,000 BCE, to the earthquake and tsunami of March 2011 and beyond. The course covers the main events, narratives, and individuals of Japanese history through documentary sources and literary works such as plays, novels, poetry, and manga. The course is particularly focused on three main topics as key narratives in Japanese history and historiography:

- the centralization and fragmentation of political power, and shifts between the two
- the nature and exercise of political power in Japan (i.e., who runs the country - or appears to)
- how different social groups (nobles/commoners, warriors/peasants, men/women, etc) have experienced life in Japan in different ways

In addition, the course introduces important events and individuals, recurring themes, and prominent literary and artistic works. Particular attention will be paid to the interconnections between religious, economic, social, political, and literary aspects of Japanese history and culture. No previous knowledge of Japan or the Japanese language is required; the course will be taught entirely in English, and all required readings will be provided in English translation.

Is this a cross-listed course? No If yes, please identify course(s): _____

Is this a shared course? No If so, list all academic units offering this course: _____

Note- For courses that are crosslisted and/or shared, a letter of support from the chair/director of each department that offers the course is required for each designation requested. By submitting this letter of support, the chair/director agrees to ensure that all faculty teaching the course are aware of the General Studies designation(s) and will teach the course in a manner that meets the criteria for each approved designation.

Is this a permanent-numbered course with topics? No

If yes, all topics under this permanent-numbered course must be taught in a manner that meets the criteria for the approved designation(s). It is the responsibility of the chair/director to ensure that all faculty teaching the course are aware of the General Studies designation(s) and adhere to the above guidelines. _____(Required)

Requested designation: Global Awareness–G Mandatory Review: Yes

Note- a separate proposal is required for each designation.

Eligibility: Permanent numbered courses must have completed the university’s review and approval process. For the rules governing approval of omnibus courses, contact Phyllis.Lucie@asu.edu.

Submission deadlines dates are as follow:

For Fall 2018 Effective Date: October 1, 2017

For Spring 2019 Effective Date: March 10, 2018

Area(s) proposed course will serve:

A single course may be proposed for more than one core or awareness area. A course may satisfy a core area requirement and more than one awareness area requirements concurrently, but may not satisfy requirements in two core areas simultaneously, even if approved for those areas. With departmental consent, an approved General Studies course may be counted toward both the General Studies requirement and the major program of study.

Checklists for general studies designations:

Complete and attach the appropriate checklist

- Literacy and Critical Inquiry core courses \(L\)
- Mathematics core courses \(MA\)
- Computer/statistics/quantitative applications core courses \(CS\)
- Humanities, Arts and Design core courses \(HU\)

- Natural Sciences core courses \(SQ/SG\)
- Cultural Diversity in the United States courses \(C\)
- Global Awareness courses \(G\)
- Historical Awareness courses \(H\)

A complete proposal should include:

- Signed course proposal cover form
- Criteria checklist for General Studies designation being requested
- Course catalog description
- Sample syllabus for the course
- Copy of table of contents from the textbook and list of required readings/books

It is respectfully requested that proposals are submitted electronically with all files compiled into one PDF.

Arizona State University Criteria Checklist for

GLOBAL AWARENESS [G]

Rationale and Objectives

Human organizations and relationships have evolved from being family and village centered to modern global interdependence. The greatest challenge in the nuclear age is developing and maintaining a global perspective which fosters international cooperation. While the modern world is comprised of politically independent states, people must transcend nationalism and recognize the significant interdependence among peoples of the world. The exposure of students to different cultural systems provides the background of thought necessary to developing a global perspective.

Cultural learning is present in many disciplines. Exposure to perspectives on art, business, engineering, music, and the natural and social sciences that lead to an understanding of the contemporary world supports the view that intercultural interaction has become a daily necessity. The complexity of American society forces people to balance regional and national goals with global concerns. Many of the most serious problems are world issues and require solutions which exhibit mutuality and reciprocity. No longer are hunger, ecology, health care delivery, language planning, information exchanges, economic and social developments, law, technology transfer, philosophy, and the arts solely national concerns; they affect all the people of the world. Survival may be dependent on the ability to generate global solutions to some of the most pressing problems.

The word university, from universitas, implies that knowledge comes from many sources and is not restricted to local, regional, or national perspectives. The Global Awareness Area recognizes the need for an understanding of the values, elements, and social processes of cultures other than the culture of the United States. Learning which recognizes the nature of others cultures and the relationship of America's cultural system to generic human goals and welfare will help create the multicultural and global perspective necessary for effective interaction in the human community.

Courses which meet the requirement in global awareness are of one or more of the following types: (1) in-depth area studies which are concerned with an examination of culture-specific elements of a region of the world, country, or culture group, (2) the study of contemporary non-English language courses that have a significant cultural component, (3) comparative cultural studies with an emphasis on non-U.S. areas, and (4) in-depth studies of non-U.S. centered cultural interrelationships of global scope such as the global interdependence produced by problems of world ecology, multinational corporations, migration, and the threat of nuclear war.

Explain in detail which student activities correspond to the specific designation criteria.

Please use the following organizer to explain how the criteria are being met.

Criteria (from checksheet)	How course meets spirit (contextualize specific examples in next column)	Please provide detailed evidence of how course meets criteria (i.e., where in syllabus)
SAMPLE: 2d: study the cultural significance of a non-U.S. centered global issue	SAMPLE: The course examines the cultural significance of financial markets Japan, Korea, and the UK.	SAMPLE: Module 2 shows how Japanese literature has shaped how Japanese people understand world markets. Module 3 shows how Japanese popular culture has been changed by the world financial market system. Modules 4 & 5 do the same for Korea and modules 6 & 7 do the same for the UK.
1: subject matter that leads to an understanding of the contemporary world outside the U.S.	The course centers on the cultural, literary, and political history of Japan	Using the previous works as key contextualization in Weeks 1-5, Weeks 6-16 examine Japanese civilization within a global framework--particularly vis-à-vis relationships with Western cultures, resulting in an examination of Japan's contemporary standing within the global economy and political system.
2a: in-depth understanding of area studies, concerned with culture-specific information	The course introduces key aspects of Japanese history and culture through the use of culturally-specific primary sources	All weeks introduce primary readings from a wide range of Japanese texts as a way of understanding Japanese responses to historical, cultural, and political change: for example, responses to the emergence of the modern nation-state (Week 9), the threat of colonization (Week 8), global conflict (Weeks 12-13), and nuclear war (Weeks 13-15).

Required Texts

This course does not use a main textbook, and so no table of contents is available.

Three novels or short stories are required reading during the semester:

- Tanizaki Jun'ichirō, trans. Anthony Chambers, Naomi (ISBN 9780375724749)
- Katsu Kokichi, trans. Teruko Craig, Musui's Story: The Autobiography of a Tokugawa Samurai (ISBN 9780816512560)
- Nakazawa Keiji, trans. Project Gen, Barefoot Gen II: The Day After (ISBN 9780867196191)

A Reading list is presented below—there is no main textbook for this course.

Course Description:

JPN 394 provides an overview of the entire sweep of Japanese history and culture from the earliest inhabitants of the Japanese archipelago, c. 30,000 BCE, to the earthquake and tsunami of March 2011 and beyond. The course covers the main events, narratives, and individuals of Japanese history through documentary sources and literary works such as plays, novels, poetry, and manga. The course is particularly focused on three main topics as key narratives in Japanese history and historiography:

- the centralization and fragmentation of political power, and shifts between the two
- the nature and exercise of political power in Japan (i.e., who runs the country - or appears to)
- how different social groups (nobles/commoners, warriors/peasants, men/women, etc) have experienced life in Japan in different ways

In addition, the course introduces important events and individuals, recurring themes, and prominent literary and artistic works. Particular attention will be paid to the interconnections between religious, economic, social, political, and literary aspects of Japanese history and culture. No previous knowledge of Japan or the Japanese language is required; the course will be taught entirely in English, and all required readings will be provided in English translation.

Learning Outcomes

By the end of the course, students will be able to:

- demonstrate their cultural literacy about Japan and the Japanese people
- describe major events and the basic characteristics of the principal periods of Japanese history, including the Jōmon, Yayoi, Nara, Heian, Kamakura, Ashikaga, Warring States, Edo, Meiji, Taishō, Shōwa, and Heisei periods
- identify major geographic sites, including principal Asian countries, Japanese islands, and Japanese cities
- explain the significance of important political, social, cultural, artistic, and literary events for each of the principal periods covered
- read and analyze primary and secondary sources, and do independent research on Japan-related topics using English-language sources.

Required Texts

- The course does not use a main textbook. Selected readings for each week will be posted on Canvas for you to print or download.
- The following literary texts will also be used later in the semester (and so are REQUIRED); they are available for purchase from the ASU Bookstore. They will also be placed on 4-hour course reserve at Hayden Library:
 - Tanizaki Jun'ichirō, trans. Anthony Chambers, Naomi (ISBN 9780375724749)
 - Katsu Kokichi, trans. Teruko Craig, Musui's Story: The Autobiography of a Tokugawa Samurai (ISBN 9780816512560)
 - Nakazawa Keiji, trans. Project Gen, Barefoot Gen II: The Day After (ISBN 9780867196191)

Course Structure

Classroom activity consists of two main methods of instruction, lectures and discussion section. Usually (though not always – make sure to check the schedule) the first two sessions of a given week will be lectures, with the third given over for discussion section, where students can address the issues raised in each week's primary texts and lectures in more depth, and also ask questions of their own.

It is recommended that students read the primary sources assigned for each week at the earliest possible opportunity. A short response paper, consisting of a 1-2 paragraph response to each week's assigned readings, is due by 9 a.m. the day of discussion section every week and should be posted to the discussion board section of the Canvas course site. These responses are an important part of the course and failing to turn them in, or turning them in late, will have a significant negative impact on students' grades. Questions relating to each week's readings will be posted in advance, which students may wish to consider in formulating their responses.

Assessment and Grading:

- Participation, postings and attendance: 35%
- Midterm exam: 15%
- Final Exam (comprehensive): 20%
- Written Assignments 1 & 2 (research exercises): 10% (combined score)
- Written Assignments 3 & 4 (term paper first and second drafts): 20% (combined score)

Grade Distribution

A: 93-100 A-: 90-92 B+: 87-89 B: 83-86 B-: 80-82 C+: 77-79 C: 73-76 C-: 70-72 D+: 67-69
D: 63-66 D-: 60-62 F: below 60

Absence Policy

Attendance at all scheduled sessions of the course is MANDATORY; the two halves of the class, the lectures and discussion section, are intended to work in concert, and skipping one or other will have a negative effect on student's performance in the course. Students are permitted up to THREE absences without penalty; any further absences beyond this will result in a deduction from the final course grade of two percentage points per session missed beyond the first two (so, for example, a student with a raw grade of 84% who misses six class sessions will receive a deduction of six points from the final grade (3 absences excused, then the remaining $3 \times 2 = 6$ point deduction, for a final grade of 78%).

This policy can be adjusted in the case of documented, serious personal or family emergencies (for instance, the death of an immediate relative). In such cases, it is important to contact me ASAP so that arrangements can be made. Please note that the course covers a considerable volume of material, and that it is usually not possible to 'catch up' once a student has fallen behind. Additionally, other than in the extreme circumstances mentioned above (with suitable documentation), no make-up assignments will be offered.

Participation, Postings and Attendance

Your grade for Participation, postings and attendance will depend on three elements; regular attendance at all scheduled class sessions, your contributions to in-class discussion, and the quality of your weekly postings. You should write all postings in appropriate academic style, as if you were writing a formal paper, and your postings should show evidence of engagement with each week's assigned reading material, as well as with the set of study questions posted at the beginning of each week. You are encouraged to read your classmates' responses prior to discussion section each week so as to better contribute to the in-class discussion.

At the instructor's discretion, more than two missed postings may result in a grade penalty assessed to a student's final grade of one point per missed posting (so four missed postings = -2 to final grade).

Written Assignments

In addition to weekly postings, please note the following written assignments:

- Assignment 1 - Research Exercise, Part I. Each student should pick a topic that has appeared on the class term lists (to be chosen in consultation with instructor) and locate at least five secondary academic sources on this topic. This exercise consists of two parts; first, listing the sources found (Wikipedia and other non-peer-reviewed popular sources, especially web-based ones, are generally NOT acceptable), and 2) describe how you found them, and assess their reliability, as well as how you might use them in a possible paper.
- Assignment 2 – Research Exercise, Part II. Complete a preliminary outline of a 5 page paper on your chosen topic. This should include a thesis statement, a select bibliography and a structural outline of the paper. Changes in topic are possible between Assignments 1 and 2, but students must have instructor approval before doing so.
- Assignment 3 – Term Paper, Draft #1. Using the information and structure developed in the preceding assignments, students should complete a first draft of a 5-7 page paper on their chosen topic.
- Assignment 4 – Final Draft of Term Paper. Incorporating instructor feedback and suggestions on the first draft, students should complete a substantially revised draft of a 5-7 page paper on the chosen topic.

Extra Credit Assignments

Extra credit assignments may be offered at certain points throughout the semester, usually related to Japan-related speakers and/or cultural opportunities in the Phoenix metropolitan area. These will be announced to the class when available; no other extra-credit will be offered under any circumstances.

Classroom Behavior

You may use personal computers or tablet computers to display course materials for class discussion, but please refrain from using them for any other purpose during class, as nonacademic use is a distraction to you and your classmates. Please do not use cell phones or pagers. Recording the class is strictly forbidden without express permission from the instructor.

Attendance

You are expected to attend all class sessions. Up to THREE absences (for whatever reason) are permitted without penalty. Reserve these for situations where absence is genuinely unavoidable. Further absences beyond the third will result in a deduction of two points per absence from a student's final grade (so eight absences would result in a 10-point overall penalty; 8 less three allowed = 5, $5 \times 2 = 10$).

Arizona State University will make accommodations for students who must miss class due to: university sanctioned activities, religious practices, or medical leave. Students should notify faculty at the beginning of the semester about the need to be absent from class due to religious observances or university sanctioned activities. For an excused absence, please contact your instructor in person, by email, or by phone ahead of time. Students are responsible for bringing written proof for excuse of absence (i.e. a doctor's note). You must make a copy of this written proof for your instructor's records. It is the student's responsibility to find out the homework of the day, obtaining any handouts or pertinent notes (it might be a good idea to ask your classmates to get an extra copy for you), and studying for the missed classes to catch up. Three tardies of more than ten minutes late will be counted toward one absence. Leaving the class early will be treated as tardiness.

For ASU's policy on accommodations for religious practices, please see:

<https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd304-04.html>

For ASU's policy on absences due to university-sanctioned events, please see:

<https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd304-02.html>

Threatening Behavior

All incidents and allegations of violent or threatening conduct by an ASU student (whether on- or off-campus) must be reported to the ASU Police Department (ASU PD) and the Office of the Dean of Students. If either office determines that the behavior poses or has posed a serious threat to personal safety or to the welfare of the campus, the student will not be permitted to return to campus or reside in any ASU residence hall until an appropriate threat assessment has been completed and, if necessary, conditions for return are imposed. ASU PD, the Office of the Dean of Students, and other appropriate offices will coordinate the assessment in light of the relevant circumstances.

Academic Integrity

Academic honesty is expected of all students in all examinations, papers, laboratory work, academic transactions and records. The possible sanctions include, but are not limited to, appropriate grade penalties, automatic course failure, loss of registration privileges, disqualification, and dismissal from the University. For more information, see <http://provost.asu.edu/academicintegrity>.

Academic dishonesty includes, but is not limited to:

Plagiarism

1. Using another writer's words or ideas without citing the writer.
2. Not using quotation marks and citing the source when you use other's words and ideas; "others" includes your teachers, fellow students (lab reports, computer programs as well as papers), the Internet books, published papers, newspapers, and magazines.

Double submission

Submitting the same paper for two (or more) different classes, without permission from your professor(s).

Inappropriate Collaboration

1. Working with others when you should be doing the work individually.
2. Not doing your share of work when assigned to a group project.

Zero Tolerance at ASU and the Consequences of Cheating

Cheating is not wise. ASU's policy on cheating is zero tolerance. If you are caught cheating, you could face severe short-and-long term consequences, such as:

Grades: You may fail the test or get a failing grade on the paper; you may fail the course.

"XE": You may receive this grade on your transcript, signaling that you failed because you cheated. It's on your record!

Suspension: You may be forced to leave the program (major) you are in and/or the university.

Disability Accommodations

Qualified students with disabilities who will require disability accommodations in this class are encouraged to make their requests to me at the beginning of the semester either during office hours or by appointment. Note: Prior to receiving disability accommodations, verification of eligibility from the Disability Resource Center (DRC) is required. Disability information is confidential.

Establishing Eligibility for Disability Accommodations

Students who feel they will need disability accommodations in this class but have not registered with the Disability Resource Center (DRC) should contact DRC immediately. Their office is located on the first floor of the Matthews Center Building. DRC staff can also be reached at: 480-965-1234 (V), 480-965-9000 (TTY). For additional information, visit: www.asu.edu/studentaffairs/ed/drc. Their hours are 8:00 AM to 5:00 PM, Monday through Friday.
