Re: Recommendations for Course Proposals for SB Designation

Social-Behavioral Sciences (SB)

From ASU:

Recommend Resubmit

The proposals for these courses are marginally developed and incomplete. While limited information in the proposals implicates that SB themes and work are addressed, we do not feel that we should approve the courses until more complete proposals are submitted.

COM 310 Relational Communication (new)

The application/proposal is lacking in substance and detail. The most informative part of the application is the book contents, which does display components that will be addressed in coursework, including both SB theory and interactions. While the topic of the course and the book contents does display some components required for SB, the application/proposal does not fully support or provide evidence of this. Resubmit.

COM 317 Nonverbal Communication (new)

The application/proposal is lacking in substance and detail. The most informative part of the application is the book contents, which does display components that will be addressed in coursework, including SB theory and interactions. While the topic of the course and the book contents does display some components required for SB, the application/proposal does not fully support or provide evidence of this. Resubmit.
