COURSE GUIDELINES

Description: This class will explore the often misunderstood folk genre of the legend. Legends, highly embellished narratives constructed around a core of factual or believable events, ultimately challenge belief itself in a manner that addresses the needs, concerns, fears, and aspirations of both the teller and the audience. We will analyze historical legends, family legends, supernatural legends, and urban/contemporary legends (among other subgenres) within contexts of history, culture, and spirituality, and employing theories specific to the field of folkloristics.

Attendance: You must attend class on a regular basis to receive credit for this course. There are no excused absences, and I will begin deducting one half letter grade per absence from your final grade after four absences—for example, a person with a final grade of B+ will receive a B if absent for five days, a B- if absent for six days, etc. Even though you are allowed four absences, your Attendance/ Participation grade will be affected by how often you attend. A roll sheet will be passed around at the beginning of each class. It is your responsibility to make sure that you sign the roll sheet. If you come in after the roll sheet has made its rounds, you must sign the roll sheet after class if you want to be counted as present—you will be marked late and downgraded accordingly, but you will get credit for attendance for that day.

Note: All electronic gadgets (computers, cell phones, etc.) must be turned off and placed below your desks during class time. This includes E-book readers.

Note: If I haven't arrived by 15 minutes after the beginning of class, you may assume that class has been cancelled.

Course Outcomes: Upon successful completion of this course:

- Students will be conversant with the features and dynamics that define the folk genre of the Legend.
- Students will be familiar with the cultural, spiritual, and historical contexts that inform the tales that we focus on.
- Students will be conversant with how the study of mythopoetics, folkloristics, and other theoretical approaches enhances our understanding of the Legend genre.
- Students will have gained an appreciation of the place of narrative folklore in general and the Legend in particular in the canons of English literature.

Extra Credit: For those of you who exceed the maximum number of absences, you may expunge up to three absences with extra credit assignments that will be posted in the last several weeks of the semester. These will be 300 word essay responses to specific questions. Extra credit applies only to those who exceed the maximum number of absences. Assignments will be graded as pass or fail. To pass, you must get at least a B.

Blackboard: We will be using a Blackboard site for the class, but only for several very basic functions (posting of the class syllabus and assignments, information necessary or useful to your participation in the course, and grades). Papers and the final exam will be posted on the site in the ASSIGNMENTS module. Check the ANNOUNCEMENTS frequently for help in navigating the site, for changes in the syllabus and routine, for the cancellation of classes, and for reminders on assignment postings.

University-Sanctioned Activities: If you think that this course may conflict with a university-sanctioned activity in which you are involved—athletics, etc.—see me and I'll inform you of your options. You should understand that an absence to attend a university-sanctioned activity is under no circumstances an excused absence and will be counted toward your four maximum absences. However, we will have three extra credit assignments that will give you, and other members of the class, the chance to expunge up to three absences.

Papers: You will have two formal papers. Each will be a literary analysis of one or several of the legend narratives on the syllabus. Specific requirements will be posted in the ASSIGNMENTS module of our Blackboard site. Papers not turned in by 11:59PM on the due date listed on the syllabus will be marked late and downgraded one half of a letter grade (that is, a minus point) for each weekday late. Papers more than one week late will not be accepted for credit, except in the most extreme circumstances. You must turn in both papers to pass the class.

Paper Assignment Criteria: Write a literary essay that focuses on the dynamics of the legend in one or more of the works we will be reading/viewing over the course of the semester (Paper #1 will deal with the first half of the semester, Paper #2 with the second half). You may choose your own topic and use the approach of your choice—interpretive analysis, comparison/contrast, explication, or any combination of these—to explore your topic and arrive at your thesis.

Sources/Works Cited: Your paper must have a Works Cited page that contains both the work(s) you're focusing on (We'll call these primary sources) and outside sources that will inform your reading of your primary sources (We'll call these secondary sources). You must use at least three secondary sources. DO NOT USE WIKIPEDIA, STUDY GUIDES (E.G., SPARKNOTES, CLIFFNOTES, SCHMOOP), CLASS LECTURES, CLASS DISCUSSIONS, ENCYCLOPEDIA ARTICLES, DICTIONARY DEFINITIONS, OR OTHER WORKS OF

FICTION (NOVELS, SHORT STORIES, POEMS) FOR YOUR THREE REQUIRED SECONDARY SOURCES.

Format: Format your papers (Margins, spacing, heading, etc.) according to MLA guidelines. Check the OWL Purdue site in MODULES for help on your paper. This will be especially useful for MLA in-text citation and Works Cited page guidelines.

Advice: Write clearly, with close attention to grammar and spelling; Focus your paper upon the development of a clearly stated thesis (this can be done either in your introduction or conclusion); Bring in specific examples from your primary text to back up your points (paraphrase these in most cases); Remember that your main body should be the majority of your paper, so keep your intro and conclusion relatively short.

Examinations: You will have an online final exam at the end of the semester. Your responses will be in the form of two essays, one long essay and one short essay. You must take the examination to pass the class.

Grade Distribution:

Paper #1: 35% Paper #2: 35% Final Exam: 20% Attendance/Participation: 10%

Grading: Letter grades on individual assignment are computed according to the following scale:

A=4.0	A-=3.7	B+=3.3	B=3.0	B-=2.7	C+=2.3	C=2.0
C-=1.7	D+=1.3	D=1.0	D-=.7	E=.3

No Work=0

The following grade scale is used to determine your final grade. Note that your final grade will be calculated and recorded as a straight letter grade (in other words, no plus/minus):

A=3.5-4.0 B=2.5-3.49 C=1.5-2.49 D=.5-1.49 E=.49 and below

Academic Integrity: Academic honesty is expected of all students in all examinations, papers, laboratory work, academic transactions and records. The possible sanctions include, but are not limited to, appropriate grade penalties, course failure (indicated on the transcript as a grade of E), course failure due to academic dishonesty (indicated on the transcript as a grade of XE), loss of registration privileges, disqualification and dismissal. For more information, see http://provost.asu.edu/academicintegrity.

Incompletes: Incompletes are granted only to students who have completed more than ¹/₂ the work of the course, who have a passing grade, and who cannot complete the course due to serious and unavoidable circumstances.

Disability Accommodations: Qualified students with disabilities who will require disability accommodations in this class are encouraged to make their requests to me at the beginning of the semester either during office hours or by appointment. Note: Prior to receiving disability accommodations, verification of eligibility from the Disability Resource Center (DRC) is required. Disability information is confidential.

Establishing Eligibility for Disability Accommodations: Students who feel they will need disability accommodations in this class but have not registered with the Disability Resource Center (DRC) should contact DRC immediately. Students should contact the Disability Resource Center on the campus that your class is being held. Campus-specific location and contact information can be found on the DRC website. DRC offices are open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday – Friday. Check the DRC website for eligibility and documentation policies.
