From Yavapai:

HUM 260 Intercultural Perspectives (mandatory review)

This proposal for is well developed and effectively demonstrates the alignment of course elements with the required criteria. The syllabus is specific and clear. The course includes a significant focus on understanding culture diversity within the U.S. related to intercultural perspectives comparing four minority groups shared through the course description, outcomes, and readings.

The assignments and assessments descriptions included in the syllabus are brief including minimal content. Therefore, it was challenging the review this aspect as a part of the evidence to demonstrate the criteria.
