Requested Designation

HU - Humanities, Arts and Design

HU: Humanities, Arts and Design

Rationale and Objectives

The humanities disciplines are concerned with questions of human existence and meaning, the nature of thinking and knowing, with moral and aesthetic experience. The humanities develop values of all kinds by making the human mind more supple, critical, and expansive. They are concerned with the study of the textual and artistic traditions of diverse cultures, including traditions in literature, philosophy, religion, ethics, history, and aesthetics. In sum, these disciplines explore the range of human thought and its application to the past and present human environment. They deepen awareness of the diversity of the human heritage and its traditions and histories, and they may also promote the application of this knowledge to contemporary societies.

The study of the arts and design, like the humanities, deepens the student's awareness of the diversity of human societies and cultures. The arts have as their primary purpose the creation and study of objects, installations, performances, and other means of expressing or conveying aesthetic concepts and ideas. Design study concerns itself with material objects, images and spaces, their historical development, and their significance in society and culture. Disciplines in the arts and design employ modes of thought and communication that are often nonverbal, which means that courses in these areas tend to focus on objects, images, and structures and/or on the practical techniques and historical development of artistic and design traditions. The past and present accomplishments of artists and designers help form the student's ability to perceive aesthetic qualities of artwork and design.

The Humanities, Arts and Design are an important part of the General Studies program, for they provide an opportunity for students to study intellectual and imaginative traditions and to observe and/or learn the production of artwork and design. The knowledge acquired in courses fulfilling the Humanities, Arts and Design requirement may encourage students to investigate their own personal philosophies or beliefs and to understand better their own social experience. In sum, the Humanities, Arts and Design core area enables students to broaden and deepen their consideration of the variety of human experience.

[Revised March 2021]

Note: The following types of courses are excluded from the "HU" designation, even though they might give some consideration to the humanities, arts and design:

1. Courses devoted primarily to developing skill in the use of a language.
2. Courses devoted primarily to the acquisition of quantitative or experimental methods.
3. Courses devoted primarily to teaching skills.

"HU" courses must meet either 1, 2, or 3 and at least one of the criteria under 4 in such a way as to make the satisfaction of these criteria a central and substantial portion of the course content.

Select which "HU" criteria this course meets.

2. Concerns the interpretation, critical analysis, or creation of written, aural, or visual texts; and/or the critical analysis (not summary or memorization) of historical development of textual traditions.

"HU" Criteria 2

Concerns the interpretation, critical analysis, or creation of written, aural, or visual texts; and/or the critical analysis (not summary or memorization) of historical development of textual traditions.

Identify the submitted documentation that provides evidence.

Syllabus

How does this course meet the spirit of this criteria?

To critically analyze the language and register of a few Old, Middle, and Early Modern English texts.

Please provide detailed evidence of how this course meets this criteria (i.e. where in the syllabus or other course materials).

Syllabus page 2 outlines the span of historical periods where relevant works and literary concepts are critically analyzed. Two exams and a final project assess student ability to critically analyze these historical texts.

"HU" Criteria 4

In addition, an "HU" course must meet one or more of the following requirements. Select all that apply.

d. Concerns the demonstrable critical analysis of literature and the development of literary traditions.

"HU" Criteria 4D Information

Concerns the demonstrable critical analysis of literature and the development of literary traditions.

Identify the submitted documentation that provides evidence.

Syllabus

How does this course meet the spirit of this criteria?

Students develop their linguistic skills to read various texts, analyze the register of these texts, and notice the changes in the format and language. Students will be able to recognize the approximate date of a text, and be able to use various (electronic) resources to answer questions on origin and change.

Please provide detailed evidence of how this course meets this criteria (i.e. where in the syllabus or other course materials).

Syllabus page 2 outlines the span of historical periods where relevant works and literary concepts are critically analyzed. Two exams and a final project assess student ability to critically analyze these historical texts.

Revise and resubmit

In course objectives the students are required to “critically analyze the language and register of a few Old, Middle, and Early Modern English texts” and also to “develop their linguistic skills to read various texts, analyze the register of these texts, and notice the changes in the format and language.” However, there is nothing on the syllabus on the nature of the assignments. We recommend that the professor include more specifics about the class assignments and emphasize how the students will be engaging in critical analysis with those assignments.
