

Home

Spotlight

Jeremiah Chin excels in legal analysis, solutions

Jeremiah Chin, graduate research assistant in the Center for Indian Education and a joint doctoral/juris doctor student at ASU, is doing award-winning research that is untangling complex Indigenous citizenship and sovereignty issues.

← Previous

Next →

News

- Strengthening an environment of success at ASU for American Indian students
- Community art exhibit celebrates the world of food
- Advocate for Native students honored at White House
- Phoenix writer explores impact of community art in ASU lecture
- Transborder program helps get research that matters off the ground
- Mother and Son Devils: Student heads to ASU after mom earns online degree
- ASU historian: Ulysses S. Grant's reputation rising
- Award-winning book extends conversation on teaching of writing

See all news

Center for Indian Education

Payne Hall, Suite 302
 PO Box 876403
 Tempe, AZ 85287-6403
 Phone: 480-965-6292
 Fax: 480-965-8115

Academics

College of Liberal Arts

Learn to thrive
#1 in the U.S. for innovation

Copyright & Trademark Accessibility Privacy Jobs Emergency Contact ASU