

Fall 2016 ASU Connections Survey

During the fall semester, University Housing partners with the Provost's office and UOEEE to administer the Freshmen Connections Survey. All freshmen living in residence halls receive a paper survey focusing on their experiences and expectations as a new student at ASU. Off campus students are invited through email and phone to complete an online version of the survey. Specifically, the survey asks questions about academic and career goals, study skills, financial needs, campus involvement, and health and well-being. Students have an opportunity to ask for specific interventions regarding issues they may be experiencing with academic life, finances, campus engagement, or health and wellbeing needs. Every student who completes an intervention question is followed up with directly by university staff. The results of the survey are used to support students' needs and improve campus programs and services.
