Mastering Leadership

THE MASTERING LEADERSHIP PROGRAM is full at this time, but the nomination process for 2018 will begin in December of 2017.

To be added to the interest list and receive notification when the application process opens, please email LINAU@asu.edu.

Mastering Leadership, a professional development program originally created for mid-level leaders in Business and Finance units, is now open to leaders from across the university. The program helps participants improve strategic thinking, communication, talent management, leading change, executive presence and more.

Mid-level leaders typically are directors and assistant/associate directors or their equivalents, who manage front-line supervisors and report to someone who is or who reports to a vice president or dean. Ideal candidates have potential for advancement and are invested in self-development.

Mastering Leadership is a ten-month program that will:

- Challenge and support participants through independent and classroom work, social learning, coaching and small team projects
- Cultivate an informed, engaged and effective mid-level leadership group
- Build a stronger "bench" of mid-level ASU leaders
- Provide opportunities for participants to gain insight into their own leadership styles and development
