On behalf of the Department of Environmental Health & Safety, welcome to Arizona State University. ASU strives to promote and maintain a safe and healthy environment for the University community and its employees. To facilitate such an environment, employees are required to attend certain mandated safety training sessions depending upon their specific job classification and/or duties.

Completion of the Fire Safety & Prevention training is required for all employees within 90 days from their employment start date and annually, thereafter. In addition, due to the specific nature of your position and/or duties, completion of specific training classes may be required prior to assignment of work duties. Please consult the Training determination tool for further requirements.

Health and safety training determination
 To determine which safety training courses are required and/or recommended based on the work being performed, please consult the Training determination tool. Use this tool in consultation with your immediate supervisor concerning your work duties to determine your training plan.

All training participants must bring their official ASU ID card with them. Please email us if you have any questions.
